Right Honourable,

HE great and undeserved Favours for many years conferred on me
by your noble Ancestors, with those which I still receive from your self, and o-her their Survivors, encourage me

The Epistle Dedicatory.

to present to your Lordship this Piece, now called to be made public a second time ; humbly begging your acceptance and protection of what I tender in acknowledgment of my Duty and Service. The Part formerly printed, and what is added thereto, are most fit to be laid at your Honour's Feet, having received allowance from your Honourable Family to be made public, and most of it practised among them, for the special use of those Noble Persons, who are now gone from us ; and for whose memory I could not transcribe with dry eyes. What their Loss was to the Public, is vvell known, and no less lamented ; and so great to me, that I can never forget it.

The Right Honourable, your Father, was pleased to shew me greater Favour than I do pretend to deserve. Your Right Honourable Mother was seldom ill at home or abroad, without commanding my attendance: The same have the Right Honourable your Brothers and your Lordship done. By whom scarce any thing was taken without my thoughts, from the most eminent Physicians, till they became acquainted with their Bodies. In all which Services it pleased God, I so ordered my self, that I have had from your Physicians, not only thanks but commendation. Which I have always looked on as proceeding more from the Favour of your Honour's Family, than my Deserts.

These Obligations under which I lie, have given your Lordship the trouble of this Dedication, and this poor Piece, which I here present with my hearty and humble Prayers for all and each of your Honourable Family, that they may receive the greatest of God's Favours here, and the full enjoyment of Himself in Bliss hereafter :

TO THE READER.

Courteous Readers,

O you it is that I now address my self, to give you some small account of what is added in this Impression. To the Select Observations on English
Bodies, you have an hundred Counsels and Advices, by very eminent Physicians, on several Honourable Persons, and others of no inferior Rank and Repute in this and other Counties. The Honourable Family which I have attended, and do still, hath always commanded me, as to receive all Prescriptions, so to see them made up in several places where

The Preface

where I have attended, both to see them taken, and to observe their Success. Their favourable allowance I have for what is done. Their Honours, when Physicians were with them, were always ready to engage them to be helpful to their sick Neighbours; the Advices for such being for most part entrusted in my hands. I hope what is made publick can be no wrong to any of those Physicians, having for their Pains, Prescriptions, and Directions, received generous Pay and noble Entertainment. If there necessarily occur any thing concerning those living, I humbly beg their Pardon, and if I had not feared giving offence, I had named them as well as those dead: But this is not all, for as I have a due remembrance of those deceased, (whose freeness I always found in communicating to me what they kept private from most) so I give hearty thanks to those living, who have been like minded, and by whose Directions I have received no small advantage. Something there is intermixed, and something also in the Close, of Dr. Stubbs's, whose Civilities and Openness I cannot but remember. He was not a Person greedy of Gain. Not many months before he died, he said to me, "We must study all ways possible to find out and appoint Medicines of cheap rate, and effectual; for Money is scarce, and Country-people poor: To

to the Reader.

To which I answered, That it had been, and should be my constant Course as long as I lived. I have heard it was said by one, over whom none is supreme in these Nations, (whom God preserve and continue here, and crown with Himself in Glory hereafter) That if Dr. Stubbs had but some of Saturn to poize his Mercurial Brain, he would make a good Statesman. And not a few famous Practitioners have said the like of him, as a Physician. But he is gone, and I cannot but say, Seldom comes a better. But to pass this, I hope my Service in this Impression will be civilly accepted, which is all, save to crave leave to subscribe my self always a Friend to the Friendly, and an Enemy to none of Mankind.

TH E Countess of Northampton, aged 44.
on March the 6th, 1622. as she was walking in her Bed-chamber, suddenly fell into a swoon; without either sense or motion for half an hour; she fell with her face on the frame of a Table, which caused a Wound with contusion, whence arose Inflammation, as also a great and troublesome Flux of Rheum, which distilling from her eyes, excoriated the whole face with exulcerations; the habit of her Body was Scorbutick and Cacochymick: her residence then was at Ludlow-Castle: To whom being called, I cured perfectly, by God's assistance, with B the

the following Medicines. She was purged with the following, Rx Sena ℥j. Agarick ℥iij. Rubarb ℥ii. Cinnamon ℥i℥. Infuse them all for twelve hours in three pints of White-wine on warm embers, after it was strained through an Ippocras bag, six or seven times, and sweetned with half a pound of Sugar. Dose ℥v. twice a day, viz. in the morning fasting, and at four a clock in the afternoon. This gave five or six stools a day without gripings, it was continued four days. Her face was anointed with white Ointment camphorated, which cured it in four days. The Body being not sufficiently emptied, the following Pills were used, Rx Pil. Ruffin. & Succin. Crato. of each equal parts; of ℥i, were made seven Pills, three of which she took when she went to bed, the next day she had six or seven stools. But this was observable, that instead of swallowing the Pills, she chewed them, and so let them down, saying she could not swallow them, though never so little; withal, that she thought it the best way. She took of these twice a week. Those days she took not the Pills, I administred the following: Rx Elect. Chalyb. Crat. mixed with the salts of Scurvy-grass, Wormwood and Coral. In her Broth was boiled these Scorbutick Herbs, viz. Scurvy-grass, Water-Cresser, and Brook-lime. After all, she took this Scorbutick Beer, Rx Scurvy-grass Miv. Water-cresses, Brook-lime, each Mii. Wormwood, Fumitory, and Germander, each M. j. Roots of Fennel, Borage, Succory, each ℥i. Root of Elicampany ℥℥. Liquoris ℥i. Flowers of Borag. Buglosse, Rosemary, each p ii. Boyl them all in five gallons of Beer, till one be wasted. After having the following Ingredients in a bag, viz. Sarsaparilla, Calamus aromaticus, Cinnamon, Mace, Seeds

Seeds of Anis and Fennel, each ʒss. Juniper-berries ʒ viii. Let them be infused in the hot liquor, well covered till it be cold, after put it up, hanging the bag in it. After fifteen days she drank of it, using no other; this she drank in April. Till it was ready, she took the following; R̄ Sarsaparila ʒ ii. Guaicum ʒ i. Sassafras roots ʒ ii. Slice and bruise them, after infuse them in lb̄ xv. of Spring-water for twelve hours. After add Scurvy-grass Mij. Brook-lime, Water-creffes, each M i. Betony, Agrimony, each Mss. Currants ʒ ii. Boyl them all till v lb̄ be wasted; after take it from the fire, adding presently of Cinnamon bruised ʒ i. after let it pass through an Hippocras bag. Dose ʒ vi. taken hot, being in bed, composing the Body to sweat gently; cover the Head and Neck with hot linnen clothes: after sweating, the sweat was rubbed of gently with fine dry warm linnen. An ordinary Drink was made of the second Decoction, which was used in those days she did not sweat, with which was taken the juice of Scurvy-grass rightly prepared, six spoonfuls in one Draught; in her Broths was used the Salt of the same. By the blessing of the Almighty, she was by these Remedies perfectly cured, beyond the expectation of her Lord and Friends.

OBSERV. II.

William, Earle of Northampton, labouring of the heat of Urine, April 4. 1622. was cured as followeth. R̄ Cassia new drawn ʒ i. Terbentine washed ʒ i. Rubarb ʒ i. Liguoris powdered ʒss.

make them in a bole with Sugar. The next day and the following he took this, R Malloes-Mi. Liqueoris ʒi. Boil them in a quart of Milk, after strain it, and add Syrup of French Mallowes ʒvi. Dose ʒiv. or v. every morning; at night when he went to bed, he took ʒʒ. of Cyprus Terbentine, in the form of a Pill in a roasted Apple. Thus was he presently and perfectly cured, being at Ludlow, at that time being President of Wales, and Councillor to the King.

OBSERV. III.

Mrs. Smith of Stratford upon Avon, aged 54; being miserably afflicted with a hot Distillation in her Eyes, so that she could not open them in the morning, was cured thus. First there was administered for four nights together when she went to bed, ʒʒ. of Pil. de Succin. Craton. made in three Pills. These gave five or six stools without pain the following days. In the interim, to the Eyes was applied the following, R of the Juice of Honsleek a spoonful, White-wine two spoonfuls, mix them together: Of which there was dropt one or two drops into the Eyes, laying upon them all night a double linnen Rag wet in the same; this mitigated the heat. After I commanded to distill one or two drops of the following into the eyes twice or thrice a day:

Collyrium for the Eyes. R Sarcocol wash'd. ʒij. Prepared Tutty ʒij. Aloes ʒi. White Sugar-candy ʒiʒ. Saffron gr. iv. Rosewater ʒiv.

§ iv. Mix them, letting them stand a day, shaking them oft. By these she was cured.

OBSERV. IV.

MR. Wilson, Minister of the said Town, aged 40, being grievously vexed with a Rheum in his Eyes, was cured by the following Medicines. R. Pil. Succin. ʒi. Aurear. ʒʒ. Troch. agar. ʒi. cum Syr. Betonic. f. Pil. N^o 10. He took five of these when he went to bed, which gave him the next day six stools; the other five he took the following night. Outwardly was applied to the forehead and Temples the following Plaster, R. Bole Armoniack ʒʒ. Gypsum ʒiii. Dragons blood, Acacia, each ʒii. Pomgranate-Pills, Galls, each ʒi. Ponder them all, and with the whites of Eggs, and a little Vinegar make a Plaster. Behind the Ears was laid Bole and Gypsum, framed into a Plaster as the former. Upon the Eyes were applied Whites of Eggs well beaten with Rosewater and Womans milk. Into the Eyes were dropp'd twice or thrice a day some of our Opthalmick Collyrium, prescribed in the former Observation. This is remarkable, that a while after it was used, he found the taste of the Sarcocol on his Palat. By these Remedies he was cured; blessed be God.

OBSERV. V.

Mrs. Beats of Ludlow, aged 50, who being troubled with a great Cough, Asthma, and grievous Pain in the Side, was thus cured. First, I administred this Electuary, Rx Conserve of red Roses ℥ij. Raisins of the Sun stoned, Sugar-candy, each ℥i. make them into an Electuary: To which was added Oil of Vitriol, and Sulphur, sufficient to make it sharp. Dose morning and night the quantity of a Nutmeg. For a Fume was prescribed the following: Rx Frankinsence, Mastich, each ℥i℥. Brimstone ℥i℥. Juniper ℥ii. Storax ℥i. Terbentine sufficient to make a Past, which frame into what figure pleaseth. Some of which being cast on some embers, the Fume was received into her Mouth by a tunnel, her Head being covered; this dried up the superfluous humidities of the Brain. For a pain in her Stomach, I applied the following; Rx Labdanum ℥i. Wax ℥ii. Species Aromatic. rosat. ℥iii. Caranna a little, make a Plaister S. A. spread upon Leather. For the Pain of her Side I used this, Rx Ung. Dialthea ℥ii. Oil of sweet Almonds ℥ii. Mix them, and with it anoint the Part pained, hot; upon it I laid a linnen Cloth dipped in Butter, hot; this gave her some ease. For a long time following she used this Drink: Rx of the Water distilled from Coltsfoot, Ground-Ivy, Mullin, Speedwel, Elicampany, Knapwood, Scabious, Hyssop, Herb Trinity, Great Figwort, both Maiden-hairs, Horebound, the cordial cordial Flowers, Roots of Oris, Angelica, Sopewort, and Water-Betony, ℥xij. Guaiacum ℥xij. Sarsaparila ℥ss. Oris roots ℥ij. China sliced ℥ij. Elicampary roots ℥ij. Maiden-hair, Speedwel, each M i. Liqueur ℥ij. Aniseed ℥i. Raisins of the Sun stoned ℥vi. Boyl them in a double Vessel well stopt, after strain and clarify it. Dose two or three good Draughts every day. Each night I gave at Bed time the quantity of a walnut of this: R Conserve Roses ℥i. Bole Di. mix them. She also took of the following Julap oft in a day. R prepared Snails ℔i. Pieces of white Bread ℔ss. Whites of Eggs 30. Cream ℔iv. Cinnamon ℥ii. Best Sugar ℔ij. Muscadine ℔ij. Distil them all in B. M. It was drunk with Manus Christi perlat. (now called Sacchar. Tabuli perlat.) and sometime with the following Lohoch. R Loh. San. & expert ℥ii. Penidies ℥ij. Syrup of Maiden-hair, Hyssop, Liqueur, and Coltsfoot, each ℥i. Roots of Angelica and Elicamp. candied, each ℥ss. Roots of Oris ℥i. mix them; to ℥iv of which add Flower of Brimstone ℥ii. These in the space of five weeks cured her; afterward she died, but of what Disease I know not.

OBSERV. VI.

A Servant of Mr. Nashes, lying at the Bear in Stratford upon Avon, aged 28, having the Yellow Jaundice, with a Tertian Ague, was thus cured: R Wine of Squils ℥ss. Oxymel of the same ℥i. Our emetick Infusion ℥ss. mix them. This exhibited gave seven Vomits. After I purged him with this, R Rubarb powdered ℥i. Elect. Diaphen. ℥ij. Pul.

Sen. lax. ʒss. Syrup of the Juice of Roses ʒi. Celandine water ʒiiij. mix them. It gave him eight stools for four mornings. After I administred to him fasting the following; Rx of the inner Rind of the Barbary Tree, Turmeric, Shavings of Ivory and Hartshorn, of each alike quantity. Saffron half the quantity of one of them: make a Powder of all. Dose ʒi, in a rear Egg. These cured him perfectly, although the Jaundice was very much all over his Body.

OBSERV. VII.

MR. Powel of Ludlow, aged 50, having an Ophthalmia, accompanied with a continual De-fluxion, so that his whole face was excoriated, neither could he endure to see the light, was cured as followeth. There was given him ʒss. of Amber Pills of Crato's, made in three Pills four nights together; the first three gave him six stools the next day. Outwardly was applied the following, Rx Mastick, Frankinsence, Myrrh, each ʒiʒ. Dragons blood ʒi. Bole, Bean-meal, each ʒss. Saffron ʒi. with White of Eggs, Oil of Roses, and a little Vinegar, make a Frontal, which was applied. Into the Eye was distilled the following Collyrium. Rx prepared Tutty ʒiʒ. Camphire, Saffron, each gr. xij. Tie them up together in a fine Rag, and hang them in Rose water and White-wine; each ʒss. Of this there was dropt into his Eyes, he lying on his back, two or three drops three or four times a day. Whiles this was doing, was used the Decoction of Sarsaparilla, and Guaiacum, &c, without the Herbs prescribed.

Observ.

Observ. 1. And so in twenty days he was cured beyond all expectation.

OBSERV. VIII.

Mrs. Chandler of Stratford upon Avon, aged 34, after long Sickness, and a great Flux of her Courses, falling into an ill habit of Body, was cured thus; First, she took the Decoction of Sena, &c. prescribed Observ. 1. for five days; after being let blood, her Courses stayed to admiration, and she became well. Three years after being extremely weakned with the like Flux in the time of her lying in, so that Death was expected, she was cured by bleeding.

OBSERV. IX.

Christian Bass of Southam in the County of Warwick, aged 29, was miserably tormented with Wind and Phlegm in the Stomach, which although by the taking of Aqua Vitæ she was for present eased, yet it presently returned with more violence, yea almost to strangling; after which followed the Cholick. She was cured as follows, Rx Emetick Wine ʒv. Wine of Squills ʒss. mix them. This given wrought very well by Vomits and Stools. The next day I gave this, Rx Laurel prepared with Vinegar, the weight of 6 d. with Syrup of Violets, and Posset-drink, make a Potion. It gave seven seven stools. The Body thus emptied, I prescribed this, R London-Treacle, Mithridate, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Conserve of Wormwood $\mathfrak{z}\text{iii}$. mix them. For three mornings she drunk the Decoction of Mints and Balm in steeled Water. And so she was perfectly cured, for which she gave me many thanks, and never was molested with the like pain.

OBSERV. X.

Mrs. Wincol, the Countess of Northampton's Chamber-maid, aged about 48, afflicted with a Tenesmus, and falling out of the Fundament, was cured as follows: R Camomel Mi . Sack $\mathfrak{t}\text{bss}$. infuse them on hot coals for an hour or two: After with linnen Clothes doubled, the Anus was fomented as hot as could be endured. After the Fundament was put up with ones finger, and a Sponge dīpt in the said Decoction, and wrung out, was applied thereto, on which she sate. Note, the Flowers of Camomel are much better. Thus was she delivered from both the aforesaid Evils. After the same manner was cured a Servant of Mr. Broads.

OBSERV.

OBSERV. XI.

Mrs. Hamberry was cured of her Face that was full of Pustles, Itch, and Excoriations, and deformed as a Leper, with the following Medicines. I purged her Body with Amber-Pills $\zeta i.$ given when she went to bed, at twice; using to her Face Aq. Mercurial. Penot. with the Emulsion of white Poppy-seeds, Borax, and white Sugar-candy.

OBSERV. XII.

John Emes of Alcester, aged 15. was cured of pissing in bed thus, R \bar{x} the Windpipe of a Cock dried, and made into powder, and with Crocus Martis given in a rear Egg every morning.

OBSERV. XIII.

Mrs. Anne Gibs, aged 19, cured of an Apostem in the Stomach. After its breaking, first I prescribed her this Lincture, R \bar{x} Syrup of Hyssop, and Coltsfoot, each $\zeta i.$ Vinegar of Squils $\zeta i.$ make a Lincture: Of which with a Liqueur stick she licked often. After she was purged with this; R \bar{x} Cassia new drawn with Endive water $\zeta i.$ Rubarb powdered powdered $\mathfrak{z}i$. Scabious Water $\mathfrak{z}iv$. Syrup of Chicbory with Rubarb $\mathfrak{z}i$. make a Potion. This gave eight Stools. To the Stomach I outwardly applied this hot. \mathfrak{R} Wormwood, Roscs, Buglosse, each a sufficient quantity; which make into a Pultis with the Oil of Roscs, Mastick and Violets. Last of all I used this, \mathfrak{R} Roots of Flower-deluce, and Lillies, each $\mathfrak{z}i$. Boil them in a Pint of White-wine to the half. Dose $\mathfrak{z}iv$. in the morning. Thus she became well, and of a good colour.

OBSERV. XIV.

FRANCES Reyland of Quenton, taking cold in the time of her Courses, there arose Tumours both in her hands and feet, so that she could not move her self. She was cured as followeth; first, she received this. \mathfrak{R} Elect. Carycostin. $\mathfrak{z}iii$. Crystal. Tartar. $\mathfrak{z}i$. cum Sacch. f. Bol. It gave her six stinking Stools. After I caused a Vein to be opened, and so she was freed.

Twenty days after she relapsed, then I caused her to be purged with Laurel prepared, and after used the following Potion. \mathfrak{R} Guaiacum $\mathfrak{lb}ss$. Agrimony, Brook-lime, Water-creffes, Sage, Betony, Rosemary, each Mi . Boil them in $\mathfrak{lb}viii$. of Spring-water, till half wasted. In the end of the boyling, add Cinnamon and Anniseed, each $\mathfrak{z}ii$. after strain them. Dose $\mathfrak{z}viii$ in the morning, which procured sweat. At her going to bed she used this Bath. \mathfrak{R} Oak leaves Mxx . Camemel, Sage, Rhue, each Mii . Salt $\mathfrak{lb}ii$. Allum $\mathfrak{lb}i$. Quick Brimstone $\mathfrak{z}iv$. Boyl them them all in a sufficient water for a Bath. Often the Member was anointed with this: R. Unguent. Martiat. ʒi. Ol. Lumbric. & Terebinth. ana ʒss. misc. Thus she was perfectly cured.

OBSERV. XV.

MR. Hunt of Stock-green, aged about 46. labouring of a grievous Scab and Itch, was thus helpt: R. Fumitory, Borage, Bugloss, Scabious, Wormwood, of each a like quantity, as much as you please; draw out the Juices, of which take ℥ii. boyling it in Whey to the Consumption of the Whey, always scumming of it; after it is boyled suffer it to settle. Drink every day a good draught of it cold with Sugar. This is the Syr. Scabious. Joh. Anglici, and a Secret by which he cured many of the Scab, with which I have cured many also.

OBSERV. XVI.

MR. Dison, who was grievously tormented with a Pain at the mouth of the Stomach (usually called the Heart-ach), fainting, as also Illness in a morning till he eat, was cured thus: R. Pil. Russi. de Succin. Stomac. Hier. simpl. ana ʒi. f. Pil. 7. These purged freely. After I gave him the following every morning: *R. Conserv. Rosar. & Mithrid. ā ʒi. Conserv. Absynth. ʒiii. Theriac. The next morning were taken the following Pills. Rx Pil. Coch. ℥i. Aurear. ℥ss. Troch. Alband. gr. vi. cum Syr. Betonic. f. Pill. 7. Thus purged, there was taken away ℥vi of Blood. Afterward there was taken morning and evening ℥i of the following Powder: Rx Powder of Sena ℥vi.

Rocket Seed ℥℞. Long Pepper ℥i℞. Make a Powder of these. After the taking of it seven days he became altogether well.

OBSERV. XXVI.

Mrs. Boughton of Causon, aged 28, three days after Miscarriage in the fifth month, fell into a Fever, accompanied with abundance of After-fluxes, Vomiting, Loathing, Thirst, Swooning, and in danger of Death, was speedily helped as follows: R burnt Hartshorn finely powdered ℥i. Boyl it in three quarts of Spring water, till a quart be wasted, then remove it from the Fire; after add Syrup of Limons ℥ii. Rosewater ℥iv. Sugar a sufficient quantity. This she drank constantly instead of Drink, which gave great ease. The following Decoction was given morning and evening, which did cleanse, cut, cast out, and extinguish Thirst. R French Barly Miv. Violets p. ii. Liquoris ℥℞. Fugebrs ℥i. Sebestens ℥ii. Carduus benedictus M i℞. Make a Decoction in a sufficient quantity of Water to ℔xij. To the straining add Sugar of Violets ℥iv. and make a Drink. By these Medicines alone she was cured beyond all expectation, praised be God.

OBSERV. XXVII.

Captain Basset, aged about 50, afflicted with a Tertian, was thus cured: R Emetick Infusion ℥v. Wine of Squils ℥ii. Syrup of Violets a spoonful; mix them. This was given an hour before the Fit, which wrought by vomit and stool sufficiently. At the end of vomiting he took this: R Elect. de Gem. frigid. ℥ii. Diascord. ℥ss. Syr. Papav. erratic. ℥i. Aq. Scabios. ℥iii. Misc. The next day he was free from his Fit, he took the following: R Diaphenic. Diacathol. ā ℥ii. Rhab. Pul. Pul. Sen. laxat. Ruland. ā ℥ss. Pul. Holand ℥i. Syr. Cochl. ℥i. Aq. Card. benedict. & betonic. ā ℥ii. Misc. This purged and cured him.

Three months after he fell into a Dropsy, with a swelling in his feet, which was removed by the following: R the Emetick Infusion ℥ss. Wine of Squils ℥ii. Barly water, and Syrup of Violets, each ℥ss. mix them. This gave seven Vomits, and three Stools. The next day, and for three mornings, he took the following: R Leaves of Succory, Borage, Bugloss, Violets, Strawberries, each Mi. Seeds of Anis and Caraway, each ℥i. Roots of Smalage and Sharpdock, each ℥i. Flowers of Borage, Bugloss, Violets and Roses, each p.i. Boyl them in a quart of Water to ℥xij. Of the straining thereof, R ℥iiij. in which infuse Troches of Agarick, Rubarb, each ℥i. Mecoachan ℥ii. Ginger ℥iss. Spicknard gr. iv. Cinnamon ℥ss. In the morning strain them again, to which Expression add Syrup of Roses ℥iss. Manna ℥ss. Mix them for one Dose, and so for four mornings. This being done, there was administred the following Pills: R Pil. aggregat. ℥i. Gambog. gr. v. Ol. Anis. gut. v. Syr. Cichor. cum Rhab. q. s. f. Pill. ii. These gave seven Stools, the next day one Pill gave five Stools, and with happy event, for thereby he could both better breath and walk. After he took this sweating Potion: R Sarsapar. ℥ii. Sassafras ℥i. Bul. in Aq. fontan. ℔viii. ad Consumpt. dimid. (this must be after they have been infused 24 hours). Towards the end of the boyling was added bruised Cinnamon ℥ii. Seeds of Anis, Carraway, Coriand. ā ℥℔. Dose ℥vi. in a morning taken hot. After he used this laxative Drink: R Sarsaparilla ℥ii. China ℥i. Sassafras ℥vi. Guaiacum ℥ii. Sena ℥i℔. Rubarb ℥i. Agarick ℥iii. Mecca-chin ℥i. Shavings of Ivory and Hartshorn, each ℥℔. Seeds of Fennel, Nutmegs, Cloves, each ℥ii. Leaves of Violets, Rosemary, Fumatory, ā Mi. put them into a Bag, and hang them in 3 gall. of Beer. These perfectly cured him. In August he laboured of an Hypochondriack Melancholy, with Pain of the Head, for which was used the following: R Pill. de Succin. ℥ii. Spec. Hier. simp. ℥ii. cum. Syr. Chicor. cum Rheo. f. Pil. N. xij. He took three of these at the hour of Sleep, these eased him of his Head-ach. After which was used Pil. aggregat. cum Cambog. &c. as before; only they were made up with the Syrup of Apples into two Pills, which gave eight Stools with a great deal of ease. After to the Stomach was applied this: R Origanum, Wormwood, Mints, each M℔. Seeds of Miliun, Anis tosted, each ℥℔. Flowers of Camomel, Rosemary, and Goltfoot, each p. i. Bay-berries ℥i. Nutmegs 3℔.

℞. make a gross Powder of them all, and stich them in Sarsanet, and make a Bag in form of the Stomach, which was besprinkled with Sack, and applied and reiterated as oft as there was occasion. Thus he was perfectly cured, and continued so for a long time.

OBSERV. XXVIII.

Mrs. Chandler, of Stratford upon Avon, aged 36, five days after Labour, fell into an Erratick Feaver, with horror, heat, and shaking often day and night, was thus cured: ℞ the Decoct. of Hartsborn (as Obs. 26.) ℥iij. Of this she drank continually, shaking the Glas as she was to take it. After she took the following: ℞ Hartsborn prepared ℥ij. Rain water ℔℔. Boyl them to ℥iv. After add Syrup of red Poppies ℥ii. Rose water ℥i. Spirit of Vitriol sufficient to make it acid: It was for two doses: After which she was very well.

OBSERV. XXIX.

MR. Fortescue, aged 20, was troubled with the Falling-sickness, by consent from the Stomach, as also Hypochondriack Melancholy, with a depravation of both Sense and Motion of the two middle Fingers of the Right-hand; his Urine was much clear, like Spring-water, and heavy. Being called to him, I thus proceeded: The fifth of June 1623. were administered these
C 4 Pills:

Pills: Rx Pil. sine quibus ʒi. Fatid. ʒii. Castor ʒi. Aq. Borag. q. s. f. Pil. 7. These exhibited gave three Stools. At the conclusion of its working, the Sense and Motion of the Fingers were returned. The sixth day there was drawn ʒviii of Blood from the Cephalick Vein; the same night at bed-time was given Pil. Succin. N^o iii; the seventh day he had three Stools. The eighth day the following was prescribed: Rx Castor. opt. Assae fatid. ā ʒß. Rad. Pæon. subtilis. pul. ʒi. Aromat. rosat. ʒii. Misc. cum Syr. de Menth. f. Pil. 7. He took one of them when he entred his Bed. The next morning was given the quantity of a Nutmeg of the following: Rx Conserv. Bugloss. Borag. Anthos. ā ʒiß. Confect. Alkerm. ʒii. Laticif. Gal. & de Gem. ā ʒß. Pul. Rad. Pæon. Aristol. ā ʒi. Rasur. Ebor. C. C. Coral. ā ʒii. cum Syr. de Hyssop. q. s. f. Opiat. In the very instant of the Fit the following Fume was used: Rx Benzoin. Mum. Pic. nigr. ā ʒi. Misce cum Succ. Rut. f. Suffit. You may also anoint the Nose with the same more liquid. Observe that in the morning before the Opiat. was used this neezing Powder: Rx Pyreth. Rad. Pæon. ā ʒii. Hell. nigr. ʒß. f. Pul. subtilis. By these means, through the mercy of God, he was in a short time cured; and now ten years from the time afflicted he hath been very well.

OBSERV. XXX.

Mrs. Nash, aged 62, having of a long time laboured of a Consumption, and now afflicted with Wind of the Stomach, as also Heat thereof, with sweating from the Pit of the Stomach to the Crown of the Head, having great Pain of the Head, especially after Meat, was thus cured: R Loaf-sugar \mathfrak{z} iv. Cubebs, Grains of Paradise, Galangal, Ginger, each \mathfrak{z} i. Long Pepper \mathfrak{z} ss. Cinnamon \mathfrak{z} iii. White-wine \mathfrak{lb} ii. Let them stand to infuse for twenty four hours, after strain them through a Bag, and make a Drink commonly called Hippocras: Of which she took \mathfrak{z} iii in a morning. There was used a Clyster of Linseed Oil with good success. Lastly she took \mathfrak{z} iii of the following Syrup: R Cinnamon grossly beaten \mathfrak{z} ij. Calamus Aromaticus \mathfrak{z} i. Infuse them in \mathfrak{lb} ii of Sack for three days in a Glass Vessel, near the gentle heat of the Fire. To the straining add Sugar \mathfrak{lb} is. Boyl them gently, and make a Syrup, S. A. These freed her from Wind, and she was able to eat, and said she was very well for a long time after.

OBSERV. XXXI.

MR. Kempson, aged 60, oppressed with Melancholy, and a Feaver with extraordinary heat, very sleepy, so that he had no sence of his Sicknes, was cured as followeth: Rx Leaves of Mallower, Beets, Violets, Mercury, Hops, each M i℥. Borage M ii. Epithymum ℥℥. Penny-royal p. ii. Rhue, Wormwood, Cammomel, each M℥. Seeds of Anis, Rhue, Carraway, Cummin, Fennel, Nettles, Bay-berries, each ℥℥. Polypod. ℥ i℥. Sena ℥ i. Bark of black Ellobore ℥ i. Boyl them all in ℥ iiii of Whey, till half be wasted. Of this strained, take ℥ x. Confect. Hamech, Diaphanie. each ℥ v. Salt ℥ i. Mix them, and make a Clyster. This brought away two Stools with a great deal of Wind; it was given in the morning, and again at night. After these there were applied to the Soles of his Feet, Radishes sliced, besprinkled with Vinegar and Salt, renewed every third hour. This hindered the Recourse of Vapours, and drew them back, and so he slept far more quietly, without starting and fear. The following was prepared for his ordinary drink, Rx Spring water ℥ iiv. Syrup of Limons ℥ i. Julep of Roses ℥ i℥. Hartshorn burnt and powdered finely Div. Spirit of Vitriol, so many drops as sufficed to make it tart. After the Leeches being applied to the Anus, there was drawn forth ℥ viii of Blood. After which was exhibited this: Rx Lap. Bezoar. gr. v. Tinct. Coral. gr. iv. mix them; it was given in Posset-drink. After this the Urine was very frothy,

with

with a great sediment, and he was much better. The Clyster, Drink, and Powder was repeated with desired Event. To remove Sleepiness, he used to neeze only with Tobacco. The Restorative of Quercitanus, fol. 187. of his Dieteti. polychrest. sect. 4. chap. 8. was used. But yet his Stomach being ill, I gave him this; R Emetick Infusion ℥vi. Syr. Violets ℥ii. Oxymel of Squils ℥i. This gave four Vomits and nine Stools: After which he was well for five days, and then relapsing into a shaking Ague, a Clyster being injected, he became well, bidding farewell to Physick, and so was cured beyond all expectation, and lived for many years.

OBSERV. XXXII.

Mrs. Garner of Shipson, aged 22, miserably weakened with the Whites, was cured as followeth: R Cassia newly drawn with Parsley water ℥vi. Terbentine washed in Parsley water ℥ii. Gum of Guaiacum ℥ii. With Sugar make a Bole. The next day this Plaster was applied; R Ung. Comitif. ℥i. Gyps. Bol. Arm. ā ℥ss. cum Alb. Ovi f. Empl. It was applied to the Back. After I prescribed the following: R Coriander Seeds prepared, Seeds of Sorrel, Plantain, and de Agn. Cast. each ℥i. Sealed Earth, and Bole Arm. each ℥ss. Spec. Diatrag. frig. ℥i. Make a very fine Powder, and with Sugar dissolved in Plantain water make Roulis or Tablets (add Gum Tragac.) weighing ℥ii. Of these she eat one before dinner and supper, and presently after drank drank a spoonful of red Wine. This is admirable in Uterine Fluxes. By these she was healed.

OBSERV. XXXIII.

BRowen, a Romish Priest, labouring of an Un- garick Fever, in danger of Death, was cured as followeth: Rx the Emetick Infusion ℥vi. Syrup of Violets ℥ii. Oxymel of Squils ℥i. mix them. Being given, it gave five Vomits, and four Stools. The next day there was removed ℥vi of Blood. After which was prescribed the following: Rx Spring- water ℥iiij. Syrup of Pomgranats, Julep of Roses,
each ℥i℥. Hartshorn prepared ℥iii. Spirit of Vitriol, as much as will make it a little tart. In Broths he took Tinct. of Coral ℥i. And at Bed time there was a Clyster injected, made of emollient Herbs, Pul.
Sen. lax. and coarse Sugar, it gave three stools.
In the day and night was taken the quantity of a Walnut of the following, often: Rx Rob. rib. Conser.
Rosar. Conser. Car. citrior. ā ℥i. Cortic. Citr. condit.
℥℥. Aurant. condit. Spe. liberant. ā ℥ii. C. C. prep.
℥ iv. Lap. Smaragd. rub. Hyacinth. prep. ana
gr. vi. Flor. Sulphur. ℥i. Coral. rub. prep. ℥i.
Succ. Granat. ℥℥. Syr. acetos. Citr. q. s. f. Elect.
liquid. This I have used with happy success without the precious Stones, to corroborate the Heart. I gave the following at thrice: Rx Conserve of Roses ℥i. Tincture of Coral ℥ii. C. C. prep. ℥i.
Diascord. ℥℥. Flor. Sulphur. ℥ii. mix them. The following was preferred to quench thirst: Rx Barly
℥ii. Liquoris ℥℥. Borage, Succory, each M i. Boyl them

them in ℥iiij of Water to ℥ii. Add Sal. Prunel. ℥ss. Burnt Hartshorn ℥iii. after boyl them a little. He took of this thrice a day. His Meat was besprinkled with this Cardiac and Alexipharmic Powder: R̄ prepared Pearl, prepared Coral, burnt Hartshorn, prepared Granats, each gr.viiij. The Fragments of Jacynth. Smardines and Rubies, each gr. iij. One leaf of Leaf-Gold; mix them, and make a Powder. The former Julep being spent, this was used: R̄ Spring water ℥ii. Burnt Hartshorn, and Crude, each ℥iii. Species liberant. ℥iv. Boyl them to the consumption of half a pint, add the Juycce of Limons, a sufficient quantity to make it tart, boyl them again, scum it, and clarify it with Whites of Eggs. He took of this thrice a day. By these beyond all expectation the Catholick was cured, especially with the Decoction of Hartshorn, with which I have cured these and other Feavers in a short time, very many.

OBSERV. XXXIV.

Captain Bassett, aged 50. afflicted with Hypochondriac Melancholy, with trembling and pricking of the Heart, as also with Pain in the Head, and tumour about the Ancles, was cured as followeth: R̄ the Leaves of Succory, Borage, Bugloss, Violets, Strawberries, each Mi. Root of black Ellebore ℥ii. Liquoris, Polypody, each ℥ii. Citron seeds ℥ss. Seeds of Anis and Caraway, each ℥ss. of all the Myrobalans each ℥ii. Beat them all grossly, and rub them with your hands with Oil of sweet Almonds, After infuse them for twenty four hours in ℥ss of Fumitory Fumitory water. After take Roots of Parsly, Bugloss, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Flowers of Borag. Bugloss, Violets, Roses, each Mi . Boyl them all in five pints of Water, till two pints be wasted; strain it; and add Sena, Epithymum, Tamarisk, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Boyl them again to two Pints. In the straining, infuse for a night Troches of Agarick, Rubarb, Mechoacan, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{iii}$. Ginger $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$. Spikenard $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Cinnamon $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Strain it again, and boyl it with Sugar to the consistence of a Syrup; to which add Syrup of Roses solutive $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$. Manna $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. and reserve it for four Doses. This purged well, with happy event. At the end of purging, he took for a whole week one of the following Morsels, morning and evening, two hours before meat: \mathfrak{R} Spec. Latifican. Gal. Diamosch. dalc. Aromat. ros. ana $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Cinnamon $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Pistach. mund. $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Confect. Alker. Croc. off. de Cord. Cervi, Coral. rub. margarit. ana $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Chalyb. prep. $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Sacch. dissol. in Aq. Cinam. q. f. f. Morsul. pond. $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}\mathfrak{ss}$. On the region of the Stomach this was applied; \mathfrak{R} Labd. $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Cera $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Ol. Macis $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Spec. aromat. ros. $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. misc. f. Emplast. It is to be spread on Leather. I used a Clyster framed of Emollients and Carminatives with Sugar. After meat he used the following: \mathfrak{R} Coriander seed prepared $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Seeds of Fennel and Anis, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. of Carraway $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Liguoris $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Ginger $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Galangal, Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Make a gross Powder, or they may be made into Tablets with Sugar dissolved in Rose-water. Thus he was well cured, and thanked me.

OBSERV. XXXV.

A Child of Mr. Walkers of Ilmington, Minister, aged six months, afflicted with the Falling-sickness, by consent was thus freed: First, I caused round pieces of Piony roots to be hanged about the Neck. When the Fit afflicted, I commanded to be applied with a sponge to the Nostrils the Juyce of Rhue mixed with White-wine-vinegar; by the use of which it was presently recovered; and falling into the Fit again, it was removed in the same manner. To the Region of the Heart was applied the following; R̄ Theriac. ven. ʒii. Rad. Pæon. pul. ʒß. Misc. The Hair was powdered with the powder of the Roots of Piony. And thus the Child was delivered from all its Fits.

OBSERV. XXXVI.

Elizabeth Hall, my only Daughter, was vexed with Tortura Oris, or the Convulsion of the Mouth, and was happily cured as followeth: First, I exhibited these Pills: R̄ Pil. Coch. & Anre-ar. ana ʒi. f. Pil. 10. She took five the first day, which gave her seven Stools; the next day with the other five she had five stools. I fomented the part with Theriac. Andromac. and Aq. Vita. To the Neck was used this: R̄ Unguent. Martiat.

Martiat. magn. ℥i. Ol. Laurin. Petrolei, Castor. & Terebinth. ana ℥ss. de lateribus ℥ss. Misc. By this she had great advantage, her Courses being obstructed. Thus I purged her: Rx Pil. fatid. ℥i. Castor. ℥i. de Succin. Rhab. agaric. ana ℥iss. f. Mass. She took of this five Pills in the morning, of the bigness of Pease; they gave eight stools. The next day she took Aq. Ophthalm. see Obser. 3. as Rx Tutia, &c. her Courses flowed. For an Ophthalmia, of which she laboured, I used our Ophthalmick Water, dropping two or three drops into her Eye. Her Courses staying again, I gave the following Sudorific Decoct. Rx Lign. Vita ℥ii. Sassafras ℥ss. Sassap. ℥i. Chin. ℥vi. macerat. per 24 hor. in Aq. fontan. ℔ viii. After boyl them to ℔iv. After the use of these, the former form of her Mouth and Face was restored (there was not omitted Ol. Sarsap. which was above all to anoint the Neck) Jan. 5. 1624

In the beginning of April she went to London, and returning homewards, the 22d of the said Month, she took cold, and fell into the said Distemper on the contrary side of the Face; before it was on the left side, now on the right; and although she was grievously afflicted with it, yet by the blessing of God she was cured in sixteen days, as followeth: Rx Pil. de Succin. ℥ss. Antear. ℥i. f. Pil. v. She took them when she went to bed. The same night her Neck was anointed with Oil of Sassafr. In the morning I gave ℥ss of Pil. Ruffi. and again used the said Oil with Aqua Vita, and dropped into her Eye the Ophthalmick Water. The aforesaid Oil being wanting, I used the following: Rx Pul. Castor.
Myrrh.

Myrrh. Nuc. Mosch. Croci. ā ʒi. Ol. Rata, Laurin. Petrol. Tereb. ā ʒii. Ungu. martiat. ʒʒ. Ol. Costin. de Peper. ā ʒi. Misc. But first the Neck was fomented with Aqua Vita, in which was infused Nutmegs, Cinnamon, Cloves, Pepper. She eat Nutmegs often. To the Nostrils, and top of the Head was used the Oil of Amber. She chewed on the sound side, Pellitory of Spain, and was often purged with the following Pills: R Pill. fetid. ʒi. Castor pul. ʒʒ. Pil. Ruffi. & de Succin. ā ʒi. f. Pil. N^o v. And thus she was restored.

In the same year, May 24. she was afflicted with an Erratick Feaver; sometimes she was hot, and by and by sweating, again cold, all in the space of half an hour, and thus she was vexed oft in a day. Thus I purged her: R the Roots of Parsly, Fennel, each Mʒ. Elder Bark M ii. Roots of the vulgar Oris, of Madder, each M i. Roots of Sparagus M ii. Boyl them in sufficient quantity of Water to six pints. To the straining, add Rubarb, Agarick, each ʒʒ. Sena ʒvi. Mechoacan ʒii. Calamus Aromaticus ʒi. Aniseeds ʒi. Cinnamon ʒʒ. Infuse them in a Vessel well stopd according to art: strain it again, and to the straining, add Sugar sufficient to make a Syrup. of this take ʒiv. Rubarb infused in ʒv of Cichory water ʒii. Mix them, and give seven spoonfulls every day fasting. It gave seven or eight stools without pain. R Sarsap. ʒi. Sassafr. ʒii. Guaiac. ʒi. Liquroris ʒʒ. Herb of Succory, Sage, Rosemary, each Mʒ. Boyl them in ten pints of Water till half be wasted. Of which she took a draught hot in the morning. The following was used to anoint the Spine: R Gum. Galban. Bdel. dissol. in Aq. Vit. ā ʒʒ. Benzoin. ʒi. Styrac. liquid. ʒi. Fol. Rut. Chamapith.

mapth. Flor. Stachad. Lavendula, ā ʒii. Rad. costi. ʒß. Castorei ʒi. infund. misc. & pulverisat. in Aq. Vite. It is to be infused in some hot place for some days. Before it was used, the Spine was rubb'd. An hour after it was used, all the Symptoms remitted daily till she was well. Thus was she delivered from Death, and deadly Diseases, and was well for many years. To God be praise.

OBSERV. XXXVII.

Mrs. Sands after her Purification was miserably afflicted with a Tumor, and pain of the Hemorrhoids. I appointed they should first be anointed with Ung. Populeon. After there was applied the Tolk of an Egg, well beaten with Oil of Roses, and added a little Saffron powdered. In Winter may be used Oil of sweet Almonds, &c. This mollified their hardness, and removed their pain.

OBSERV. XXXVIII.

MR. Queeny, labouring of a grievous Cough, with vomiting abundance of Phlegm and Meat, having a gentle Feaver, being very weak, and had red Urine without sediment, was thus cured: R Troches of Agarick ʒiß. Olibanum, Mastic. each ʒß. Terbentine sufficient to make a Mass of ʒi, make five Pills. These he took at Bed-time. In his

his Sauces he used Saffron, because profitable for the Breast; and he eat Mustard and Honey, which caused spitting in abundance. Rx Hydromel simplex, newly prepared with the best Honey lbss. add Raisins of the Sun stoned ʒi. Figs ʒo. Oris Roots, Calamus Aromaticus, each ʒi. Boyl them altogether, after strain them, to which add Sugar-candy and Penidies, each ʒiii. Cinamon bruised ʒss. So make an Hydromel. He took of this morning and evening ʒviiij or ix. To the Head I applied this: Rx Roots of Oris, Galangal, Ciperus, Angelica, each ʒii. Roots of Pellitory of Spain, Agarick, Rubarb, Squills, each ʒi. Sena ʒii. Marjoram ʒi. Coriander seeds, Bay berries, Cloves, Nutmegs, Mace, each ʒi. Gitb seeds, Mustard seeds, each ʒss. Benjamin, Storax, each ʒiii. Chalcantib. alb. ʒss. Lapis Calaminaris ʒii. Alum ʒi. Oyl of Nutmegs some drops. Oil of Marjoram and Sage distilled, Rosin and Wax sufficient to make a Plaster. The Head was first shaved. The days he rested, in the morning I gave the following in White-wine: Rx Saffron ʒj. Musk gr. i. For his hoarsness I gave the following: Rx the Juyce of Liquoris ʒi. Myrrb. ʒss. Gum Tragacanth ʒi. Sugar-Candy, and Penidies, each ʒss. of which make Morsels. Hold one of them in your Mouth, lying on your back, to the end it may dissolve of it self. There was also given an Emulsion, or Milk of Almonds, Pine-nuts, and some new Goard-seeds, expressed to ʒiv. in it was dissolved Sugar of Roses ʒii. And it was drunk every other morning warm, fasting; it was continued fourteen days. Being not wholly freed from it, he fell into it again the next year, and all Remedies proving successless, he died. He was a Man of a good

Wit, expert in Tongues, and very learned.

OBSERV. XXXIX.

Joan Chidkin of Southam, aged 50, being troubled with trembling of the Arms and Thighs, after felt Vapours ascend to the Heart, thence to the Throat, and after thought her self suffocated, was thus cured: Rx Merc. vitæ gr. v. Diaphœnic. ʒß. Misc. This exhibited, gave two Vomits and two Stools. After she took Theriac. Andromac. ʒi. in Possët-drink. I purged her with the former again, only adding one grain of the Mercury, which gave four Stools. After which she had the foreiner Theriac. with the shavings of Hartshorn, for four days. By which she was helped miraculously, all Symptoms vanishing.

OBSERV. XL.

MR. Winter, aged 44, cruelly tormented with the Worms and Feaver, was cured as followeth: He first had a Suppository made of Honey, drank the Decoction of prepared and crude Hartshorn, had an Emplaster applied to the Navil against the Worms. I purged him with ʒß of Manna dissolved in Broth; with which there came forth many dead Worms, with stinking Excrements. He also took in his Drink and Meat the following Powder: Rx Coral gr. viii. Pearl, Hartshorn, born, Granats, all prepared, gr. viij. Fragments of Jacinth, Smardine, Rubies, each gr. iii. one leaf of Gold: mix them for use. For his Cough he used Syrup of Poppies, with Syrup of Maiden-hair. By these, with God's blessing, he was cured in three days.

OBSERV. XLI.

Mrs. Fortescue, aged 12, having a most vehement Cough, and cruelly troubled with the Worms, was thus cured: First there was used a Suppository of Honey; to the Navil was applied the Emplaster against Worms. For her Cough this was used: Rx Flos Sulphur. ʒss. Benzoin. vel Assæ Odorat. ʒss. Make them into very fine Powder, and divide it into twelve parts: there was given every morning one part, and at night Hartsborn, with which the Cure was perfected.

OBSERV. XLII.

Mrs. Throgmorton, aged 35, being afflicted with pain at her Stomach, Melancholy, and the Mother, was thus cured: She first took the following Purge: Rx Rubarb ʒi. Agarick ʒii. Sena ʒss. Cinamon a little. Make an Infusion in tlb of Wormwood wine, to ʒvi. strain it. Of this she took six spoonfuls, with two spoonfuls of the Syrup of Succory, with Rubarb, and so for three days, which gave six stools a day. The third night she had a greater Flux of her Courses than in many years before, and so for that time I was dismiss'd in March. She sent again the first of April, I purged her with these Pills: Rx Pil. sine quib. & Ruffi. ā ʒi. f. Pil. 9. She took three at a time when she went to sleep. The Body being purged, there was given of the following steeled Wine two spoonfuls, and so to four and six, increasing it by degrees. *Rx prepared Steel ʒi. the middle Bark of Ash, Tamaris, Roots of Cappars, each ʒʒ. This Gargarism was used: Rx the Decoction of the Bark of Guaiacum, and of Barley, each ℥iv. Syrup of Mulberries, and Honey of Roses, each ℥ii. Spirit of Vitriol so many drops as will make it taste sharpish. In this also was there often in a day a piece of Sponge, applied to the pained Gums, and there it was held the whole day. By these Medicines he was delivered from all his Symptoms; the second day he could eat meat, and the third day he was perfectly healed.

Thonerus hath some short Observations concerning Pain of the Teeth, which receive here:

I have (saith he) tryed on my self, if the Tooth be hollow, as also on many others to stop the Tooth with a little Campfire: But if they be not hollow, then he boiled ℥ls of Campfire in half a pint of Vinegar, which was held hot in the Mouth. Both which he found successful.

One who had Pain of the Teeth, and Tumor of the left Jaw, from a hot defluxion, was thus cured: Rx Mas. Pil. Aurear. Cochear. sup. quib. ā ℥i.

OBSERV. LXIX.

THE eldest Son of Mr. Underbil of Loxley, aged about 12, having laboured the summer before of a malignant Spotted-Feaver, after fell into the Measels, of which he was cured Jan. 1. 1634. Being sent for to him, I found him grievously afflicted with the Scurvy; on the right side he had a Tumor without discoloration, so that I judged there was a Tumor of the Liver. He was grown as lean as a Skeleton, was Melancholy, with black and crusty Ulcers appearing in the Legs. He had a loathing of Meat, a disposition to Vomit, and an Erratic Feaver; his Urine was red, as in a burning Feaver, yet without thirst or desire to drink. The Pulse was small, weak, and unequal, scarcely to be perceived with the Finger; all Signs of a confirmed Scurvy. His Parents were very earnest with me to cure him; I told them, I would do my utmost to do it, but it would require some time, and it would be difficult. I proceeded as follows: R Crystal. Vener. ʒii. Spec. Diatrion. Santal. ʒi. Pul. Holland. a ʒii. M. f. Pul. for four doses. It gave him every day three or four stools without any gripings. The affected Part was anointed with Unguent.

Unguent. Fido variol. To the Ulcers was used Diapalm. After for three days was given Cream of Tartar ℥i, in the morning; and an hour after was taken the following: Take of our steeled Wine ℥iiij. the Essence of Fumitory and Germander, (which you have in Bald. Rons. fol 259. with Senertus in 8vo) each ℥ss. Syrup of Brooklime ℥ii. of Water-creffes ℥i. Juyce of Scurvy-grafs prepared ℥vi. mix them. The Dose given was four spoonfuls, after which to use exercise: With which he had two stools, and cast up by vomit the first day some Phlegm. The next day in the morning he took Diacurcum ℥ss. after the steeled Wine. Every third day he purged with Diatart. Quereet. ℥ss. in the pap of a roasted Apple. After he used our Antiscorbutic Beer, To his Spleen was applied Empl. de Ammoniac. Forest. Sometimes he used the next: Take Juyce of Scurvy-grafs ℥ss. Syrup of Brooklime and Water-creffer, each ℥i℥ for three mornings. The Chalibiat Wine was continued for a whole Month, with the Juyce of Scurvy-grafs, &c. as before. He purged with Pil. Ammoniac. River. Of ℥ss. was made three Pills, one of which he took every third day, which gave him two or three stools. The Side swell'd and pained, was anointed with the following: R Unguent. Splanch. Magistr. Dialth. ā ℥i. M. morning and night. In the use of the Scorbutic Beer all other was forbidden. After the use of the former Pills twice, there fell out a painful Tumor of the Foot, which hindred his Sleep by night, and moving by day; with which were joined Faintings. Therefore to corroborate was used the following: R Pul. Pannon. rub. Di. Magist. Conal. ℥ss. Lap. Bezoard. gr. iij. M. To the the Foot was used the next: Take Brook-lime, Miv. Wormwood, Melilot, Chamomel, Sage, each Mi. Boyl them in sufficient quantity of Beer for a Bath. Which used for three days, he was almost altogether freed from the Pain and Tumor. Then I purged him with the following: Rx Pill. Russi. Stomach. Hier. cum Agaric. ā ʒi. f. Pil. 6. He took one at Bed-time. The Foot being well, there fell out a miserable Pain in the right Shoulder, which he was freed from in twenty four hours, by the use of Ung. Fido. He never left off the Steeled Wine, except those days he purged. After meals he took of the next so much as would lie upon a shilling: Rx Plerisar. ʒss. Sacch. ʒii. Misc. Especially he purged twice with Pil. River. And sometimes he took in a morning two of the following, which gave three or four stools: Rx Pil. de Ammoniac. ʒi. Gum Gamb. ꝑp. gr. ix. sine quib. ʒss. M. f. Pill. By this method he was cured, God be praised.

OBSERV. LXX.

ANne Green, the Daughter of Mrs. Green, aged 22, was troubled with Pain of the Head, sometimes a vivid Colour through all the whole Body, after that white, with an universal Itch over the Body, with painful Pustles, so that she could not walk without great Pain, was thus cured: Rx Sarsaparilla ʒii. Hermodactiles ʒiss. Guaiacum, Liquoris, each ʒi. Polypody of the Oak, Sena, ā ʒii. Agaric. ʒii. Roots of Fennel, Parsly, each ʒi. Betony, Sage, each M℔. Rosemary p. i. The Seeds of Anis, Anis, Carraways, and Coriander, each ℥ss. Cinamon ℥i. Boil them in eight pints of Water, till half be wasted; after strain it, and of the strained Liquor take ℥iiss. Syrup of Roses solutive ℥i. Oil of Vitriol so much as will make it sharpeish. It was given, and procured five stools. This being continued five days, the Body was well purged. After was given this Decoction: Take of China sliced ℥iiss. Infuse it in three pints of Spring water for twentyfour hours; after boil them on a gentle Fire till half be wasted. After being strained, there was given a Draught in a morning five hours before Dinner, and also three hours before Supper, hot, till all was drunk. It was given every third day. After the use of this Sudorifick Decoction, the following Bath was used: R Oak leaves Mxx. Fennel Mxv. Roots of Briony, Elicampane sliced, each Miv. Brimstone, Allum, Sea salt, each ℔i. Boil them in sufficient Water for a Bath. From the Bath she went into her Bed, and sweat. After, her Body was anointed with the following: R Roots of Elicampane, Briony, each as much as pleased, Alum a little, make an Ointment with May Butter. By these means she became fair and smooth.

OBSERV. LXXI.

John Nason of Stratford upon Avon, Barber, aged 40, always after Meat suffered most bitter Pains of the Stomach, as also cruel Misery in the Loins, so that he had seldom any Sleep at nights; was entring into the Yellow Jaundice; his Urine

was

was thin, red, the Crown yellow and frothy. R our Emetick Infusion ʒi. It gave six Vomits, and rode with King James in his Progress into Scotland.

OBSERV. LXXIII.

Mrs. Boughton, Sister to Mr. Comb of Lauford fair, aged about 36, very handfom, was afflicted with a most grievous Disease, and bitter Symptoms, for above two years; and although many expert Physicians did lend their help, yet there was no Profit, yea rather all was more bitter and grievous. She could scarce swallow or breath, she felt something hard in her Throat to the bigness of a Dove's Egg, so that she could scarce swallow either Meat or Drink. This was caused from Wind; for she felt it move, and in its motion it was sometimes more and less painful. The tumor of the Almonds was not great, from a Rheum which distilled from the Head, which vexed her most in the night. Her Illness and Pain hindred her Sleep, and she feared she should be choaked; yet her Head was afflicted with a notable numness, and an incredible proneness to sleep; her Body was so also afflicted, by which she could scarce walk, and natural Action was deprived; hence there were a long time of Symptoms. By intervals her Hands would be livid, not without coldness; the Thighs tumified, and a Scorbutick Dropsy broke forth; all these being caused from the Spleen, Liver, and suppression of the Courses. Rx Sena ℥i℥. Cream of Tartar ℥ii. the best Turbit, Hermodactils, each ℥i. Rubarb, Troches of Agarick, each ℥ii. Scamoni ꝑp. ℥ss. Mace, Cinnamon, Galangal, each ℥iii. Sugar of Violets the weight of all, make a Powder. Dose from $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$ to $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$ in Broth, wherein was boiled Peniroyal, Mugwort, Horebound, Sage, Betony. This ended, the next Decoction was taken. \mathcal{R} China sliced $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Sassafras $\mathfrak{z}\text{iii}$. Spring water $\mathfrak{lb}\text{vi}$. Juycce of Limons $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Infuse them for twenty four hours, after boil them till a third part be wasted, and then let it pass through an Ippocras bag. Of which there was drunk $\mathfrak{z}\text{v}$ morning and night, with $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$ of the Juycce of Scurvy-grass prepared. Every third day, if the Body was not open, was given a Clyster framed of $\mathfrak{z}\text{xii}$ of the former Decoction, red Sugar $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. and Honey of Rosemary flowers $\mathfrak{z}\text{iii}$. For her Mouth, \mathcal{R} Spring water $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Oil of Vitriol so many drops as made it very sharp, in which Water was dipp'd a Feather, and so convey'd to the swell'd Fauces. This was done often in each hour, by the use of which there ran out, and was spit forth continually very much Phlegm. After was used a Fume of Amber, which was received by a Tunnel into the Mouth. To the Stomach was applied our Plaster for the Stomach, Observ. 19. \mathcal{R} Diamor. simp. $\mathfrak{z}\text{v}$. Mel Rosar. $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$. Succ. Matris sylvæ $\mathfrak{z}\text{viii}$. Aq. Hord. $\mathfrak{z}\text{xii}$. Ol. Sulph. q. s. ad gratiam acidit. This Gargarism was often used in a day. Thus she was cured, and lived eight years after.

OBSERV. LXXIV.

ESquire Beaufon, (whose Name I have always cause to honour) at the end of his Supper eating great quantity of Cream, about the age of 70, after his first sleep he found himself very ill, and so continued. The second day he sent for me, I found his Pulse quick, and his Urine red and little, often pissing, his Stomach full of Phlegm and Choler, as appeared: for falling into a voluntary vomiting, there came up a great quantity of Choler, like the Yolks of Eggs putrified. This considered, I gave him an \mathfrak{z} of our Emetick Infusion, which gave ten Vomits and three Stools, which answered desire. To drink, he had prescribed the Decoct on of Hartshorn with Sugar and Limon. And thus he was cured in four days.

OBSERV. LXXV.

ESquire Packinton was troubled with want of Appetite, to whom I prescribed the following Powder, which was taken for many days: \mathcal{R} Sena \mathfrak{z} iii. Ginger, Mace, each \mathfrak{z} i. Cinamon \mathfrak{z} ss. Cream of Tartar \mathfrak{z} ii. mix them, and make a Powder. Dose \mathfrak{z} i in Broth. This restored his Appetite, for which he thanked me, desiring the Receipt. The next year after he also used it with good success.

The

The following hath cured many of the like Affect :
 First purge with a Potion framed of the Decoction of Wormwood and Agrimony, and ʒss of Diaphani-
con. After was drunk the following : R Leaves of Agrimony, Wormwood, and Certaury, each Mi .
 Boil them in water to fss of the straining ; add a little Sugar, drink it every morning for three or four mornings.

OBSERV. LX XVI.

MR. Rogers, Clerk, aged about 40, was troubled with Pain in the Throat, Tumor of the Tonsils and Palat ; he could hardly either swallow or breath, and was almost strangled, to whom I coming prescribed the following : R Figs, Liquoris, Raisins, Anise seeds, each ʒi . Spring water ʒiv . Boyl them till half be wasted, and use it for ordinary drink. Take the Fume of Amber oft in a day. To the Neck and Tumor appearing, I commanded this Cataplasim : R Green Wormwood
 M ii . Hogs grease as much as will make a Pultis, being well beat together. In one nights space he was cured, and had his swallowing again. This was proved an hundred times.

OBSERV. LXXVII.

THe Lady Beaufou, godly, honest, being of a noble Extract, continuing healthful till the age of 28, which was 1617, July 1. fell into a burning malign continual Feaver, with great Pain of the Head, most vehement Heat, Pain in the Stomach; the Body all over, especially the Arms, was full of spots; the Urine was red and little. It was then called the New Feaver, it invaded many, I was called the third day of its Invasion. The Stomach being stuffed and burdened with ill humors, as I perceived, I advised the following Vomit: R Emetick Infusion ʒix. This gave twelve Vomits without any great trouble. The day before she had (unknown to me) drunk much Milk to quench her thirst, by reason whereof the Vomit at first drew forth a wonderful quantity of curdled Milk, so that she was almost choaked, after came Cholera mixed with Phlegm, afterward burnt Melancholy. She had also six Stools Phlegmy, mixed with green Cholera and much Serosities. Her vomiting ending in three hours, I gave a Pill of Laudan. Paracelsi gr. vii. (sure he mistook her, for four is a good Dose) after which she slept four hours, the Pain of her Head ceasing. Then to me unknown her Servant gave her a draught of Whey, which being drunk, she presently had three Vomits of black Stuff without any trouble, and two such like Stools, and was cruelly afflicted with the Hiccough, to allay which I gave Claret wine burnt with Aromatick, which succeeded; she was quieter the rest of the Night, but did not sleep well. In the morning I gave Chicken-broth, made with appropriate Herbs, and so for four hours she rested. At the end of that time I gave a draught of the Decoction of Hartshorn hot. On Munday morning having some evacuation, I appointed the same Decoct. should be given cold. She was miserably afflicted with Pustles, with great heat of the Tongue and Throat, that she could not drink without great difficulty, for which she used the following Gargarism: R Diamoron. simp. ℥iv. Honey of Roses ℥ii. Rosewater, ℔j. Oil of Sulphur, so much as made it sharpeish. After the use of the Hartshorn Decoction, the seven h day, the Pox appeared, yet the foresaid Gargarism was used for the Throat, and she drunk of the Decoction of Hartshorn cold four times a day, and so she was cured. I ordered that the Pox after the eighth day should be anointed with this: R common Oil, and Carduus water, well shaken together, and so there were left no Scars.

OBSERV. LXXVIII.

MR. Farman, afflicted with the Small Pox, whilst being at my Lady Beaufou's, so that he could not go to his Father's at Leicester. To expel them, I gave him this: R Diascordium ℥i. Mithrid. ℥ss. Croc. ℥ss. Aq. Dracuncul. ℥iii. Corn. Cervi ℥i. f. Haustus. This caused him to sweat, and the same day began to appear his Pox. This caused no small joy to his Sister, and thankfulness to God, that he was delivered from the Jaws of Death. For his thirst, he drank at his pleasure the Decoction of Hartshorn, and used the same Gargarism prescribed for the Lady Beaufou; as also anointed his face often in a day, when it began to dry, with this: R Carduus water ℥ii. Sallet Oil ℥iſs. Stir them much together. This removed the Pits.

OBSERV. LXXIX.

THE Lady Rouſe of Rouſelench, aged 27, fell into a Quotidian Feaver two days after Child-birth; in the very Fit she was most violently afflicted with the Head-ach, as also cruel Pain in the Neck, was thus cured: R Diascord. ℥i. Magiſt. Perlar. Tinctur. Coral. ā gr. xii. Aq. Card. benediſt. ℥ii. It was given two hours before the Fit, it was reiterated before the next Fit, and so for two days. She was delivered from the Pain of her Neck with this Plaster: R Caran. ℥i. diſſol. in Viño Hiſpan. Pic. alb. ℥i. f. Empl. Spread it upon Leather, and apply it to the Neck. And thus she was delivered from her Pain and Feaver.

OBSERV. LXXX.

William Clavel, troubled with a virulent Gonorrhœa, and extream heat of Urine, having been under anothers hands for a month without Profit, was cured with the following Remedies in fifteen days space, being in the Month of November: R Gum. Guaiac. pul. ʒi . It was given in Beer. It gave five stools. Afterwards he took a pint of the following Decoction, morning and night: R Sarsaparilla ʒii . Hermodactils ʒiʒ . Guaiacum, Liquoris, each ʒi . Sena ʒii . Seeds of Anis, Carraway, and Coriander, each ʒʒ . Boyl them in eight pints of Water, till half be wasted. After the strained Liquor was taken, Dose ʒiv . there was given the following Electuary: R Gum. Tragacant. ʒʒ . dissolve it in sufficient quantity of Plantain water, strain it, add Gum. Guaiacum powdered ʒii . Terbentine burnt ʒi . mix them. Dose ʒiʒ . By the use of the Decoction of Sarsaparilla he was very well purged, and delivered altogether from the pains of the Loins, and the heat of Urine in four days, and by the use of the Electuary he was altogether cured of his Gonorrhœa.

OBSERV. LXXXI.

Richard Wilmore of Norton, aged 14, vomited black Worms, about an inch and half long, with six feet, and little red heads; when he was to vomit, he was almost dead, but in a little time after he revived, I gave him Merc. Vite. The next day after his Father brought some wrapped up in Paper, they crept like Earwigs, and were very like, save in colour, he earnestly desired my best advice. I considering the state of the Disease, the strength of the Party, and that for most part he was thus cruelly afflicted every New Moon, unless he devoured abundance of Meat, insomuch that he was ready to tear himself in pieces, I gave the following Remedies: R Merc. Vite gr. iii. Conser. Ros. parum. This gave seven Vomits, and brought away six Worms, such as I never beheld or read of. The following day I gave this: R the Emetick Infusion ʒv. It gave five Vomits, and brought up three Worms. The third day I gave the following: R Spec. Diaturb. cœn Rh. lb. ʒi. Pul. Sen. lax. ʒb. Aq. Portulac. ʒ iii. Syr. Ros. sol. ʒii. Ol. Vitriol. gut. 8. Misc. This purged well, but brought away no Worms. Thus he was delivered, and gave me many thanks. I met him two years after, and asked him whether he had any Erolion of the Stomach, or an Ejection of Worms, and he told me he had never been troubled with it since.

OBSERV. LXXXII.

Mrs. Kempson, being for many days and nights cruelly tormented with a hollow Tooth, and had used many Medicines, as also Charms, and yet not profited, came running to me, to whom I prescribed the following Water, which being used, removed the Pain, provoking a great deal of spitting, which was very thin: R Water of Corn Poppy ℥ii. Oil of Vitriol so much as made it sharp, being well mixed. There was dipp'd in it Lint, and applied to the hollow Tooth, it was reiterated often. This speedily removed the Tooth-ach, yet Pain in the Head continued, for which was prescribed the following Pills: R Pil. Coch. ℥ss. Aurear. ℥i. Troch. Agaric. ℥ss. cum Aq. Betonic. f. Pil. 7. These gave ten Stools, and three Vomits, and brought away four great long Worms by stool. And thus was she delivered from her foresaid Symptoms.

OBSERV. LXXXIII.

Baron Compton, President of Wales, being much afflicted with swelling of the Face arising from Rheum, which made his Face very ill-favoured, was thus cured: R Unguent. Dialib. ℥ss. Ol. Chamomel. Viol. Amygd. d. ā ℥ii. Axung. Gallin. ℥i. f. Unguent. With this his Face was anointed, and a double double Linnen Cloth laid upon it. He took ʒiſs of Amber Pills, when he went to bed, by which the Tumor of the Face was removed. There was used as a Gargarism, the following: R Syrup of red Poppies ʒſs . Water of the same ʒiii . Oil of Vitriol so much as made it sharp. And thus he was wholly cured in two days.

OBSERV. LXXXIV.

Esqwire Rainsford, aged 35, being miserably afflicted with a malign Feaver, Thirst, Wind, Pain of the Spleen, Tumor of the Stones, and Hypochondriac Melancholy, was cured as followeth: R Manna ʒſs . Rubarb ʒi . This he took in Possét-drink. It gave five Stools without any ease, with this he purged himself. I being called, applied the following Platter to the Region of the Spleen: R Labdan. ʒii . Cere flav. ʒi . Empl. Melilot. ʒii . Emplast. ex Saturn. rub. ʒſs . Being well freed from the Wind, for the flatuous Tumor in the Scrotum was first applied a Pultis made of Rue, Chamomel, Parfly, boiled in Claret-Wine. This removed, was applied a Plaster framed ex Empl. Nostr. Saturnali, & Melilot. à part. equal. By these that Tumor was removed. To mollify the Belly was used the following Clyster: R Ol. Sem. Lin. ʒviii . Ol. Rute, & Cham. ā ʒi . Diaphæn. ʒi . Dia-cath. ā ʒſs . in Vin. Hispan. dissol. f. Clyst. It gave two Stools with Wind. He after complained of his Stomach, for which the third day I gave him this: R Emetick Infusion ʒi . Aqua Celestis three drops.

drops. It gave six Vomits. This removed his Illness, and want of Appetite. The same day he took the Vomit, at the hour of Sleep was given the following: R̄ Diascordium ℥i. Syrup of Limons ℥i. It was given in Posset-drink. The next day after the Vomit, he received a Clyster framed of Diacatholicon, red Sugar, and Milk, which gave two Stools, and thus was cured.

OBSERV. LXXXV.

MR. Barns, aged 36, being long lame of a Canker in the Leg, was thus cured: First, I purged his Body with Pills, after I used a Decoction of Guaiacum. After I applied the following: R̄ White Copperas ℥ii. Bole Armoniack ℥i, ℥ii. Camphire ℥iii. Make a Powder, of which take ℥i. which was cast in hot Smiths Forge-water; after a while it was taken from the Fire, and taken from the settling. With this Water (I may say) the same Ulcer was washed, and a Cloth laid upon it wet in the said Water; with which being almost cured, to cicatrize it I used the following Plaster: R̄ White Lead lb̄ss. Crete ℥iv. Powder them, and with Hogs grease make a Plaster. It was applied the thickness of ones Finger, and lay on nine days. Before it was applied, the Canker was washed with the following: Take white Copperas, and boil it in water. After the Plaster was removed, another was applied for six days, a third was applied three days, and always it was washed before. By these he was cured.

Good-wife Sheffeld, a Husbandman's Wife of Old Stratford, aged 48, was cruelly afflicted with a Dysentery, and much weakened with the Flux of her Courses; having been retained for five years before, was cured as followeth: Rx Laud. Parac. gr. vi. Mithrid. ℥ss. Conserve of Roses ℥ss. Crocus Martis ℥i. mix them. By this she was freed from her Dysentery, and Flux of Courses; yet being vexed with thirst, this was given: Rx red Poppy Water ℥iv. Syrup of Violets ℥ss. mix them. And thus she was freed from all.

OBSERV. LXXXVII.

THe most Illustrious Lord, Lord William Compton, President of Wales, being troubled with a Distillation from the Head to the Gums; he had also want of Appetite, which I cured as followeth: Rx Sena well picked from the stalks ℥ss. Rubarb ℥ii. Agarick ℥i. Cinamon ℥vi. Infuse them all for twelve hours in Borage and Succory Water warm, of each ℥x. In the morning they were boiled to the wasting of four ounces, after being strained six or seven times, and sweetned with four ounces of Sugar: He took of this ℥ii when he went to bed, with which in the morning he had a great stinking Stool, that being the the 21th of April. The 22th in the morning he took $\mathfrak{z}\text{v}$ of the said Decoction, by which he had eight Stools. The 23th, R^x Pil. Aurear. de Rubarb. \mathfrak{a} $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. By which he had thirteen Stools. After the third Stool he began to be better, there being taken Broth. The Body well purged, the following Decoction was administred: R^x China sliced $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Sassafras cut into thin round pieces $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Boyl them in eight pound of Water till half be wasted. Of this he took $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$ at the least for eight days, every fourth day taking $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$ of Pil. Ruffi. And thus he was cured.

OBSERV. LXXXVIII.

Boil them in three gallons of new Beer, till half a gallon be wasted, strain it, and put Barm. to it; after put it in a Vessel, and into it the following Bag: R^x Sarsaparilla, Sassafras, Shavings of Ivory, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Sena, Polypody, each $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{v}$. Hermadaetils $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Liquoris $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Galangal, Rubarb, each $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Mecoachan $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Cinamon, Cloves, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Cut them all grossly, and mix them, and put them into a Canvas bag, with a stone in the bottom, being put into the Beer, tie it at the top of the Barrel. After ten or twelve days she took a draught morning, and at four in the afternoon. By this she was well purged, purged, and digested her Meat very well.

OBSERV. LXXXIX.

ESq; Packinton, as he was riding to London, in his Inne was suddenly and miserably afflicted with the Gout in hands and feet, so that he could neither stand nor handle any thing. Being called to him, I thus cured him: Rx Mallows with the roots cut small, they were boyled in equal parts of Wine and Vinegar, to the wasting of the third part, to which was added Rye bran after a light boylng. They were laid to the pained Joints, with which he was well eased in one day, and delivered from the Inflammation by fomenting the parts with Water of the spawn of Frogs. After was applied Emplast. Diachalcit. The same day I gave ℥ii Pul. Sen. Montag. cum Hermodact. gr. xv. He was restored the third day, and rid towards London.

OBSERV. XC.

Wilson of Stratford, aged about 48, was miserably afflicted (for a long time) with Pain of the Stomach, and Indigestion, so that he durst scarce eat; to whom being called, I cured with only the following Powder: Rx Sena ℥vi. Ginger, Fennel seed, Zedoary, Cummin seed, each ℥ii. Cloves, Galangal, Nutmegs, each ℥i. Rubarb ℥ii. Sugar Candy ℥vi. make a Powder. Dose, the quantity of a Bean spread on a Toast, first moistned in Wine, morning; and at night when he went to bed, the quantity of a Filbert with a little Wine, by which he was cured. Thus the Author.

I remember that both Riverius and Thonerus cured each one, cruelly tormented with Pain in the Stomach, with letting blood: the latter cured several others, two with distilled Oil of Carraway seed, five drops in two spoonfuls of hot Broth; two other with the like quantity of Oil of Amber, given in like manner for some days.

OBSERV. XCI.

Mrs. Hanberry of Worcester, aged 30, cruelly tormented with the Cholick, and Pain of the Back, that she could not stand upright, was thus cured: R Emplast. Nost. Caran. which was applied to the Loins. To the Belly was applied the following: R Feathersue, Rhue, Chamomel, each M*i.* Seeds of Carraway, Cummin, Lovage, Anis, Carrots, each M*ss.* Boil them all in sufficient quantity of Claret Wine, after strain them, but not too hard: Which apply to the Belly till they be cold; after they are cold, heat them again in the same Wine, and so do twice or thrice, or as need is. There was given inwardly Seeds and Tops of red Nettles boyled in White-wine, I mean the Decoction, it was given in a morning hot. And thus she was delivered from all her Symptoms.

OBSERV.

OBSERV. XCII.

THe Sister of my Neighbour Sheffield, much debilitated with too great a Flux of her Courses, to whom I gave of Alum the weight of two pence in Rose water, for three days, fasting. Two hours after she took Broth made of Mutton, altered with Milfoil, and the inner Bark of an Oak. She drunk her Drink steeled. With which she was cured safely and quickly.

OBSERV. XCIII.

MY Lady Rouse, being in the eight Month of Child-bearing, was infested with Convulsion of the Mouth, very ill-favoured; she was aged 28. R Rosemary ashes what quantity pleased, with which was made a Lye with Whitewine, with which the affected part was fomented with four double Linnen. After to anoint was used the Unguent, with the Oils in the beginning of Observ. 36. There was held in her Mouth Rose water sharpened with Oil of Vitriol. And so she was cured, as in the foresaid Observation.

OBSERV. XCIV.

MR. Barns of Clifford, after the pulling out of a rotten Tooth, was troubled with a Flux of Blood from the same place, two days after, which I cured in a short space: he having bled twenty four hours, having no Remedy for present at hand; I bid him to hold cold water in his Mouth, and often cast it out, and so he continued till other Medicines were provided: After I used this: R White Vitriol, part ii. Bole Armoniac, pa.ii. Camphire pa.℞. Rose water hot, sufficient to make a Lotion; In which dip a Linnen Cloth often, and apply cold to the place. This was used five hours, and then it ceased. But after a time it bled again, which I stayed with a Spunge dipped in the aforesaid Lotion, and Crocus Martis put upon it: And so he was altogether cured.

This Observation of the Author's calls to mind a like Accident, which befell to a Maid in Cornhill, near Popes-head Alley, London, which when other means proved successles, I stayed, by keeping my Fingers only upon the Mouth of the Artery, removing them several times.

OBSERV. XCV.

ONE Hudson, a poor Man, labouring of a swimming in his Head, called Vertigo. I caused ʒx of Blood to be taken from the Cephalica, purged him with Pil. Aurear. & Cochear. ā ʒii. Troch. Alband. gr. viij. f. Pil. 7. They gave nine stools. Lastly he took Peacock dung dried ʒi. infused in White-wine for a night, and after strained. And this he continued from New Moon to Full Moon, and was cured.

OBSERV. XCVI.

THE Lady Rouse, being with Child, was miserably troubled with the Mother, and Faintings, and extreme Pain in the Head: First, she had a Fume of Horse hoofs burnt, which restored her as soon as it was drawn into her Nostrils. Then she had a Suppository put up, framed of Honey, and Pul. Sanctus, which gave two stools, and brought away much Wind. She had a Fume of Odorificks below, and smelt to stinking things. Her Neck was anointed with Oil of Spike, after with Unguent. Martiatum. She having the year before been troubled with Tortura Oris, and now much fearing it, in a morning fasting she took the quantity of a Nutmeg of the following Electuary:
 R̄ Species Dianthos. Conserve of Borage, each ʒi.
Mithridate,

Mitbridate, Diacymini, each ℥ii. Harts-horn prepared ℥iii. In Broths she took Hartshorn prepared. To her Navil was applied a Plaster of Caranna, in the middest of which was put Musk gr. iii. Thus she was cured, and at due time was brought to bed, March 16. 1620.

OBSERV. XCVII.

Mrs. Mary Murden, aged 17, labouring of a few and ill coloured Courses, Pain of the Head, and Redness of the Face after Meat, was cured as followeth: R^x the Roots of Fennel and Parsly, each ℥ii. of Sparagus, and Butchers broom, each ℥iii. Calamus Aromaticus ℥℥, Betony, Mugwort, Avena, Water-cresses, Hyssop, Rosemary, Pennyroyal, Nettles, each M℥. Elicampana roots ℥℥. Liquoris ℥ii. Seeds of Anis, Fennel, each ℥iii. Raisins stoned, M℥. Sena, Polipody, each ℥iv. Hermodactils ℥ii. Rubarb, Agarick, each ℥ii. Boyl them all in a gallon of Water till half be wasted; in the strained Liquor was dissolved Syrup of Mugwort, Augustanus, Succory with Rubarb, each ℥ii. Dose ℥iii to v. By the use of which she was presently cured.

OBSERV. XCVIII.

Dixiel Brunt of Pillerton, aged 3 years, had a Tumor of the Navil, out of which broke five long Worms out of a little hole like a Fistula; the Nurse pulled out four dead, but the fifth was somewhat alive, the fore-part not moving, the hinder part stirred, as witnessed the Nurse, Father, Mother, and Maid. The Tumor being hard, I appointed a Plaster of Honey to be applied. The same day was given a Suppository of Honey, but no Worms appeared. The next day was applied a Cataplasme framed of green Wormwood, beat with the Gall of an Ox, and boyled. There was given a Suppository. After these the Navil was cured, and he lived.

OBSERV. XCIX.

The Countess of Northampton, March 6. 1620: fell into that Dropsey called Anasarca, with swelling of the Face and Feet, and was cured as followeth: & the Decoction prescribed for Mrs. Murden, Observ. 97. adding of Rubarb ℥ii. Sena ℥i. The Dose given was $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$ for three days. The first day it gave eight Stools, the second day eighteen, and the third fifteen, without any loss of strength. After she took for five mornings the quantity of a Nut of Electuar. Diacubeb. After she

she used the following Decoction: Rx Guaiacum ℥bi. Soldanella sicca ℥i. Cinamon ℥ii. Currans ℥ii. Boyl them in this of Water till half be wasted; being kept in a hot place, there were poured in three pints of White-wine. Of this was taken ℥vi in the morning hot, and ℥iv in the evening, covering her well to sweat. Every morning after she had sweat, an hour after she took of the foresaid Electuary, and every third day she was purged with the following: Rx Mecochan ℥i℥. Syrup of Roses solutive ℥i. Wormwood water simple, and Sack, each ℥ii. It gave first two Stools, after that two Vomits, after that three Stools, after that one Vomit, at last twelve Stools, after which the Tumor was altogether removed. After which she took Elect. Chalyb. Crat. By which she was perfectly cured, and brought to a good colour in twenty days space.

OBSERV. C.

Mrs. Goodman, aged about 54, was troubled with a Pain of her Head and Stomach, and was cured as followeth: Rx Mass. Pil. Mastic. ℥ii. Aloes ros. ℥i. cum Syr. Ros. sol. f. Pill. They were taken before supper, and so continued for three days. After upon a fasting Stomach take of the following Electuary the quantity of a Filbert: Rx Conserve of red Roses ℥iv. Spec. Aromat. Gabr. ℥i℥. Cloves sliced ℥i. Amber-grease gr. vi. Mix them with the Syrup of Citron Pills. By these she was perfectly cured.

The Second Century.

OBSERV. I.

MAfter Penil, Gentleman to Esq; Grevil of Milcot, was troubled with Spots and Pustles, that broke forth in his Hands, which being broke, there dropp'd forth a clear venomous Water, which inflamed and excoriated the Hands greatly. Many Remedies being used in vain, the Head also was inflamed and burned, and full of scales; being aged about 38, was thus freed: R̄ Agrimony, Scurvygrass, Water-creffes, each Mi. Sage, Cichory, Fumitory, each MB. Elicampana root 3℔. Polipody of the Oak 3iii. Roots of Sassafras 3℔. Boyl them all in ℔xii of Water till half be wasted. In the straining add Rubarb, Agarick, each 3℔. Sena, and Liquoris, each 3i. Seeds of Anis, Carraway, Coriander, each 3ii. Cinamon 3i. Boyl them again till ℔ii be wasted: to the straining, add Syrup of Roses solutive 3ii. Oil of Vitriol 12 drops. The Dose was 3iv, continuing it for four days. Every day he had six or seven stools. To anoint, he used this: R̄ White Ointment camphorated, mixed with the Juice of Housleek, as much as you please; with which the Hands were anointed.

anointed. The Liver Vein was opened to ʒvii . Thus he was quickly cured, and delivered from his Scabs.

OBSERV. II.

Rogers of Stratford, aged 17, did labour of Vomiting, Jaundice, stopping of the Courses, and bleeding at the Nose, on April 4. 1621, was cured as followeth: $\text{℞ Emetick Infusion } \text{ʒvii}$. Syrup of Violets, half a spoonful. This given, gave seven Vomits, and five Stools. After this, $\text{℞ the Decoction of Sarsaparilla } \text{ʒiii}$. the laxative Powder of Sena ʒi . This purged very well. The third day there was given ʒi of the white of Hens dung in White-wine, with Sugar. And so she was cured.

OBSERV. III.

Mrs. Randolph, aged 55, being vexed with a burning Feaver, in which she fell into the yellow Jaundice; her Urine was red, and Saffron-like, having Pain of her Stomach, with Tumor and hardness, Pain of the Loins, Tumor of the Spleen, and the Dropsy, desired my advice, which was given as followeth: $\text{℞ Emetick Infusion } \text{ʒvi}$. Oxymel of Squills ʒii . Syrup of Violets, half a spoonful: mix them. It gave three Vomits, and four Stools the next day. $\text{℞ Elect. \& Succ. Ros. } \text{ʒii}$

 ation of her Friends.

OBSERV. IV.

MR. Broad of the Grange, vexed with a desperate Squincy, with a burning Feaver, heat and excoriation of the Tongue, aged 42, left of all, was thus cured: R the common Decoction for a Clyster ℔i. Diacath. & Diaphen. ā ℥i. make a Clyster, which injected gave four Stools. He was let blood
 under the Tongue; used the following Gargarism; R Honey of Roses. Plantain and Rose water, each alike, to which was added a little Oil of Vitriol. For a licking

licking this: Rx Syrup of Liquoris and Hyssop, each ℥ii. Oxymel of Squils ℥℥. best Honey ℥i. mix them. It was used after the Gargarism. To the Throat was applied the following: Rx Green Wormwood, with Hogs grease, make a Cataplasme. I commanded he should be let blood, but he would not, although I told him the danger, which fell out, for he fell into continual burning. For ordinary drink he had the following: Rx Liquoris, Anis seeds, Figs, Raisins of the Sun, each ℥i. Boyl them in two quarts of Water till a pint be wasted. And so I left him. The next day his Feaver increased, and his Strength abated, and he said he could not possibly live, and I was sent for speedily. When I came, I found his Life in danger, he could scarce speak, I presently had a Vein cut, and took away ℥x, with which his speech returned, and he said he found great ease. The same day at the hour of Sleep, I gave him our Julep against the Feaver, and he rested pretty well; for his ordinary drink, the Decoction of Harts-born. And thus he was delivered from his Feaver, and danger of Suffocation, and became very well; for which God be praised, that can only work wonderfully.

OBSERV. V.

Mrs. Sadler laboured of a grievous Cough, with difficulty of breathing, and loathing of Meat, she was aged 60. Rx Oxymel of Squils ℥ii. Syrup of Violets ℥℥. Emetick Infusion ℥ii. mix them. This gave seven Vomits, and twelve Stools, by

by which she found her self much eased : R Pil. de Succin. Cochear. ā ʒi. Rhab. Pul. ʒʒ. f. Pil. cum f. q. Oxymel Scill. These gave seventeen Stools. The Lincture was this : R Loboch. San. & expert. de Pulm. Vulp. Syrup. Liquorit. Tussilag. ā ʒi. Oxymel. Scill. ʒii. f. Linct. It was taken with a Liquoris stick. She also held in her Mouth one of the following : *R Succ. And thus in one week she became well.

OBSERV. VI.

Mrs. Brown, young, of a very good habit of Body, was for three years troubled with a watery Flux of the Belly, especially in the night, having every night no less than six or seven stools. It brought her to extream danger, with great dejection of strength; she was also much griped, and was sleeplels; who desiring my advice, I prescribed as followeth : R Pil. de Succin. ʒʒ. Rhab. opt. Pul. ʒi. cum Syr. de Storchad. f. Pil. 7. By which she had eight stools. R Sarsaparilla, the Bark of Guaiacum, each ʒii. Sassafras ʒi. Guaiacum ʒʒ. Coriander seeds prepared ʒiii. Cut and bruise them, after infuse them in Spring water ʒxiv. for twenty four hours, after boyl them till half be wasted. At the end of boyling, add Cinamon bruised ʒiv. Of this Decoction strained she took three draughts every day, one in the morning hot, at four a clock in the afternoon, and at going to Bed, both cold. Of the Fæces was made a second Decoction. Her Head being covered, the following Fume was received: R Roman Nigella, Storax, Calamus, Benjamin, each ʒiii. Macè, Cloves, each ʒi. Make a gross Powder for a Fume. R Leaves of Sage, Marjoram, Stæchados, each M ʒ. Seeds of Anis, Fennel, Cummin, each ʒii. Bayberries bruised ʒʒ. Milij. ʒbi. Common Salt ʒʒ. torrefy them all in a Frying-pan, and put them into Bags, which apply very hot to the Head and Neck: when they are cold, after use the Fume. With these she was cured.

OBSERV. VII.

Mrs. Mary Talbot, Sister to the Countess, a Catholick, fair, was troubled with the Scurvy, with swelling of the Spleen, erosion of the Gums, livid Spots of the Thighs, Pain of the Loins and Head, with Convulsion and Palsy of the Tongue; her Pulse was small and unequal, her Urine was troubled and thick. The Countess asked me whether there were any hopes of Life? I answered, Yes, if she would be patient and obedient, although her Scurvy was confirmed. I first purged her Body with Pil. Ruffi, and Tart. Vitriol. She used with her Meat Salt of Scurvy-grass, and in her Broths Salt of Wormwood. All other Drinks being forbid, she drunk the following: R Garden Scurvy-grass M iv. Water-creffes, Brooklime, each M ii. Juniper-berries bruised M i. Wormwood M ʒ. Boyl them in sufficient quantity of new Beer

Beer to four gallons, of which make Beer. After fourteen days she begun to drink it in the morning, exercising an hour after. After she swallowed for the space of six days the quantity of a Nutmeg of an Electuary, made of the Flowers of Scurvy-grass; afterward she began to walk, and at last was very well.

OBSER. VIII.

MR. Handslop, aged about 61, afflicted with the Scurvy, with which there was straitness of the Breast, difficulty of breathing, Thirst, yellow Jaundice, hard Tumors of the Thighs, being livid and black, Retraction of the Sinews of the Ham, so that he could not go without a staff, the Appetite lost, and troubled with vomiting, his Pulse was little, scarce perceived to move; the Urine was various, sometimes thin, the next day yellow without sediment, the Belly was loose; was thus cured: Rx Elect. Diacath. & Venterflu. Solenand. \bar{a} Zii . Confect. Hamech. Zss . Pul. Senæ, cremor. Tart. \bar{a} Zss . cum Sacch. f. Bol. This gave six stools, but being weak, he was ready to faint. The next day, Rx prepared Harts-horn, Shavings of Harts-horn, each Zi . Powder of Earth-worms Ziii . Conserve of Barberries, a sufficient quantity to make an Electuary. Dose the quantity of a Filbert. After take six spoonfuls of the following Wine: Rx Wormwood Wine Ziv . the Syrup against the Scurvy by Forest. Zii . mix them. The livid Tumors of the Thigh I bid to foment twice a day with a Decoction of Brook-lime made in Beer, it is to be with doubled Clothes

Cloaths hot, R New Worms prepared, bruise them in a Mortar with two spoonfuls of Wine, after strain them through a Cloth, to which add a quart of White-wine. Of this was given three spoonfuls morning, four in the afternoon, and night, and an hour after it Zii of the following: R Syrup. Sceletyrs. For. Zvi . Vin. Absynth. lbss . For the tumor of the Thighs was used this: R the Powder of the Flowers of Chamomel, the tops of Wormwood, each Ziii . Briony root and Dazies, each Zss . Meal of Wheat, Orabus, and Beans, each Ziii . Crums of white Bread lbii . mix them altogether with Cows milk, or rather Goats milk, and by gentle boyling make a Pulstess. For ordinary drink he took the following: R Scurvy-grass Miv. After they are boyled, let them stand, infusing for all night: to the straining add Syr. Sceletyr's Forest. ʒii. Diasireos, Syr. Cichor. cum Rhab. ā ʒi. mix them with ʒii of Cinnamon water. Dose seven spoonfuls, which gave six stools. After to the Region* of

of the Spleen was applied Cera de Ammoniac. Forest. This dissolved the Tumor, and eased the Pain. Yet although well purged, there remained the Scorbutic Pain of the Belly. After purging, the Urine was troubled, and the sediment was various. To the Beer used for Mr. Handslop, was added M ii of Fumatory. The Leeches were applied to the Hemorrhoids. After was used the Electuary for Mr. Handslop, Observ. 8. Cent. 2. framed of Harts-horn, Ivory, Worms, &c. By the use of these she was freed from the Scurvy, and came to enjoy perfect health.

OBSERV. XI.

Mrs. Murden, aged about 53, troubled with Verrigo, Pain in the Head and deafness, was by me cured presently: R Aloes Ros. ʒi. Rhab. Pul. & Aq. Cinam. aspers. ʒii. Agarick, Recent. tro. ʒi. Mastic. Myrrh. ā ʒss. cum Syr. Betonic. f. Pil. N^o. 25. Dose Pil. 5. hor. ante canam. These were administered April 17. 1626. by the use of which there was the desired effect, and they were much praised; they were after given for prevention.

OBSERV. XII.

MR. George Underhil, aged about 64, was much weakned with an immoderate looseness of the Belly, and cruelly tortured with the Cholick, by eating Herrings, was thus cured: Rx Elect. Ventriflu. ℥vi. Cremor. Tart. ℥i. Rhab. pul. ℥ii. cum Sacch. f. Bol. It gave nine stools. At the hour of Sleep he took this: Rx Diascord. ℥i. Aq. Scabios. ℥iiij. Syr. Lim. ℥i. Syr. Papav. ℥ss. Misc. He took the Shavings of Harts-horn twice a day. For the Stomach, Rx Conserv. Ros. rub. ℥ii. Spec. Aromat. Ros. Gab. ℥i. Caryophil. incis. ℥ss. Amber-grease gr. iij. Misc. cum Syr. Cortic. Citr. q. s. f. Elect. Dose, the quantity of a Filbert. After Meat he took the following Pouder: *Rx Sem. Coriand. præp. Sem. Fœnic. Anisi. Carvi, ā ℥ii. Cor. Cer. præpar. Coral. rub. præp. Cinam. And thus he was cured.

OBSERV. XIV.

Mrs. Kenton of Northampton, aged 48. weakened and discoloured with the Whites, was cured as followeth: R^e Venice Terbentine ℥℥. dissolve it with the Yolk of an Egg, adding of the purest Honey ℥i. Sugar of Roses ℥ii. White-wine ℥vi. mix them: of which take every day ℥i. She drank her ordinary Drink warm, which was a Decoction of Barly, with Liquoris and Mallows. After the former Potion, she used this Bole: R^e Olibanum, Bole Armoniack, and sealed Earth, of each ℥℥. make them into a very fine Poulder, and with two Whites of new-laid Eggs make a Bole. This is an admirable Secret, it is to be used for divers days, six hours before Meat. She also had this Drink: R^e Guaiacum chips ℔i. of it Bark bruised ℥iv. infuse them eight days in Spring water ℔viii. with a drachm of Oil of Sulphur, in Horse dung, being in a Glass Vessel well stopt with Wax and Brimstone; after strain it: in the strained Liquor put a fresh quantity of the Guaiacum, &c. and infuse it as before & after three days days strain it, and after sweeten and aromatize it to the Patients palat. The Dose is two, three, or four ounces, according to the strength and nature of the sick. Two ounces of this doth more than fbb of the ordinary Decoction. It is safe in the Spleen, Picracholic, and Jaundice confirmed; cures the Dropsy, Apoplexy, French Pox, and other grievous Diseases of the Head. Of the Feces may be made a second Decoction, which may be used with Meat, instead of Drink. To the Back was applied, R Empl. contra Rupt. & pro Matrice, a ʒi. Ung. Comit. ʒii. Mastick. Sang. Drac. & Coral. alb. a ʒii. Ros. rub. p. i. Rad. Bistort. Musc. Querc. a ʒii. Ter. sigill. ʒiʒ. Malax. omnia simul cum Ol. Myrril. f. Emplast. Of this spread so much upon Leather as may be for a Plaster for the Back, and Os sacrum, and another to the lower Belly, which are to be continued on betwixt the time of the Courses, and then removed. By these she was cured.

OBSERV. XV.

Mrs. Delaberr, of Southam near Gloucester, having been long sick with loathing of her Meat, insomuch that no sooner she had eaten, but it came up, her Urine often changing; and although she was pretty well whilst in Bed, yet when she rose she was troubled with swooning: having also the Scurvy, was cured as followeth: R Pil. Hier. cum Agarick, Russi, a ʒii. de Succin. aggregat. Crem. Tart. a ʒiʒ. Oxymel scil. q. s. f. Pil. 15. deaurent. She took two at a night, and three in the morning, every third day, she being well purged. To the Spleen was applied this Plaster, R Cerat. de Ammoniac. Forest. ℥i. Emplast. de Melilot. ℥ss. Misc. Spread it upon Leather, and a red Sarcenet upon it. Those days she purged not, she took of this Electuary: R Conserve of Damask Roses ℥i. Conserve of Scurvy-grass ℥iii. Conserve of Bugloss, ℥ii. Spec. pterisarch. ℥ss. Cream of Tartar, prepared Steel, each ℥ii. Wake-robbin roots prepared ℥i. Confect. Alkerm. ℥i. with sufficient quantity of Sugar make a soft Electuary. Dose, in the evening the quantity of a Bean, and in the morning before she rose, the quantity of a Nutmeg, and so for two days, the third she purged, by which she came to be so much better, as that to walk and ride, and then would to the Bath, where she used the following Decoction, when she came out of the Bath, and went to bed and swet: R Chips of Guaiacum ℥iii. Bark of the same ℥ii. Sassafras ℥i. China cut thin ℥ss. Shavings of Ivory ℥iii. Liquoriz ℥i. Agrimony, Carduus benedictus, Scurvy-grass, Water-creeses, Brook-lime, each M ss. the tops of Fumitory, Flowers of Bugloss, Stachados, Rosemary flowers, each p. i. Nutmegs, Cinamon, each ℥ii. Infuse them upon the Fire for twelve hours in six quarts of Water, after boyl them to the half, and then strain it, and being sweetned with Sugar, Dose was ℥iv. It was used in the morning every fourth day, purging with these Pills: R Pil. Hier. cum Agar. Russi. ā ℥ii. with which being well purged, she used no other Physick, but went home very well.

Dose ʒii in the morning, and so much before supper. He also before meals took some grains of the best Olibanum, his Diet was spare and drying. And thus he was cured.

Observe well, 1. If there be a good Digestion, and not the like separation, then there is a Dysentery. 2. If there be Separation and not Digestion, then it is Lientery. 3. If neither Separation, nor Digestion, there is present a Diarrhea. If the matter in the Stomach be putrified, then there is a Flux of the Belly, with various colour.

OBSERV. XVII.

Mrs. Layton, born of a noble Stock, long laboured of a Scorbutic Epilepsy, always at her first falling into it, it was with a Feaver, and convulsive motions, the rest of the Signs in Engal, fol. 86. and Senertus, fol. 60. In the Fit she was most miserably vexed with cold horror, and concussi-

concussion of the Members, for half an hour, so that the whole Bed shook; the Fit lasted ten hours, she not knowing nor feeling any pain. After in the same day she laboured of another Fit for six hours, and yet was delivered from it beyond the expectation of the By-standers. After she fell asleep, another Fit she had, wherein she said she had cutting pain. She was also afflicted with a Jaundice, with diminution of the Courses. I cured her with the Prescriptions following: R Elect. Ventriflu. ℥vi. Crem. Tart. ℥i. Rhab. pul. ℥ii. f. Bol. It gave six stools. For the Jaundice, which was filthy, she took this: R Mithridate ℥i. prepared Harts-horn ℥ii. Powder of Worms ℥ii. Conserve of Barberries ℥i. mix them, for two mornings; by which she was pretty well delivered from the Jaundice. Afterward I thus purged her: R Pil. fetid. Alephang. Coch. ā ℥i. Agar. Troch. ℥℔. Castor. gr. vi. cum Syr. de Stæchad. q. s. f. Pil. 7. She took three of them at night, going to bed, and four in the morning. After I used the following neezing Powder: R Nuc. Mosch. Rad. Peon. ā ℥℔. Eleleb. Nig. ℥i. Pyrethr. Piper. alb. ā ℥℔. Misc. f. Pul. a Portion of which was blown into the Nostrils. Whilst the time of the Fits was expected, there was given every morning ℥ii of this Opiat: R Conserve of Scurvy-grass ℥ii. (which I always used to mix with other Medicines in Scorbutic Affects to infringe the Ill of the Disease) Dianthos, Conserve of Betony, each ℥i. Old Mithridate, Venice Treacle, each ℥i. Misseltœ of the Oak, Shavings of Harts-horn, Piony seeds, Man's scull pulverized, each ℥iv. mix them. It is to be taken of it self, or with Betony water, to which is added Oil of Vitriol.

By these she was fully delivered from her Fits for many years.

OBSERV. XVIII.

LYdia Trap, the Daughter of Mr. Trap, aged about two years, labouring of a burning Fever, want of sense and motion in some parts, and the Worms, insomuch that Death was daily expected, by me through God's blessing was thus restored: R^e prepared Harts-horn ℥iii. Spring water ℔i. Boyl them to the half; after was added a little Rose water, an ounce of Syrup of Limons, a spoonful of Sugar, and so much Oil of Vitriol as made it sharpish. She took this for her drink, forbearing all other. To the region of the Heart was applied this: R^e Old Treacle ℥i. Powder of Piony root ℥℔. make a Plaster. About her Neck she wore round slices of the same Root; and the Powder of the same Root was strewed upon her Head; her Neck was anointed with the Oil of Amber and Sassafras, each ℥℔. Spirit of Rosemary vi drops. To her Navil was applied this Plaster: R^e Aloes ℥℔. Pil. sine quib. ℥i. Worms ℥i. Myrrh. ℥i. with Ox-gall make a Plaster. To extinguish thirst, and provoke stools, was given the following: R^e Syrup of Roses solutive ℥i. boyled Water ℥ii. Oil of Vitriol, sufficient to make it sharpish. For the Stomach was used Ung. pectorale. By these in a few days she became well.

OBSERV. XIX.

THe Lady Underhil, aged 53, was troubled with Pain of the Joynts in the hands, and when she rubbed one with another, there arose a flatuous Tumor; she had also on a sudden a red Face, her Voice was also much lost, so that when she spake, the By-standers could not understand her; she felt as it were the sense of biting of Ants in many parts of the Body, and these from the Scurvy. R Sarsaparilla ℥iv. Saffafras ℥i. Agrimony, Scurvy grass, Water-cresser, Brook-lime, each Mi. Bark of Capar root, Myrobalsans of India, each ℥iv. Polypody of the Oak, and Liquoris, each ℥ss. Raisins stoned ℥x. Infuse them in six pints of Water for a night, after boil them to the half: to the straining, add Sena ℥i. Rubarb ℥i. give them two or three walms, adding Syrup against the Scurvy by Forestus ℥iv. mix them. The Dose was six or eight spoonfuls, which purged her well, and she became very well, and so highly praised the Apozeme, as if it wrought by incantment.

OBSERV. XX.

ESquire Underbil, aged 50, was miserably tormented with the running Gout, which pained all the Joynts of his Body, as Ancles, Knees, Arms, Neck, &c. Which was by the ensuing Medicines cured in a few days. Rx the Poulder of the Root Sarsaparilla, Sena, each ℥vi. Cream of Tartar ℥iii. mix them. The Dose was from ℥ii to iv. which gave him three or four stools a day. The Body being well purged, the following Bath was used: Rx Salt lbs. Quick Brimstone ℥ib. Alum lbs. Bay berries ℥iv. Boyl them in sufficient quantity of Water: he sat in it daily up to the knees morning and evening. This delivered him not only from the Pain in his Feet, but from that callous hardness under his Toes. For preservation in the month of October was used the following: Rx Caryocost. ℥iib. Elect. de Tamarind. ℥ib. Cryst. Tart. ℥i. f. Bol. cum Sacch. After was used Pil. Podagr. Plater. As Rx Hermodactils skinned ℥ib. Aloes, Turbith, Mecoachan, Rubarb, yellow Mirobalans, also Chebuls, Mastich, each ℥i. Roots of round Birthwort ℥i. St. Johns-wort, Seed also of Cummin and Ginger, each ℥ib. Salt gem. ℥ib. with the Juice of Ground-pine make Pills, adding Diagrid. ℥ib. Dose, sometimes every month was taken ℥i. and so he was delivered from that Pain begun, but yet wholly it was removed by the former Poulder: to which was added Betony ℥ib. Sugar of Roses ℥i. And thus for many many years he was cured, and it never returned again.

OBSERV. XXI.

MR. Izod, being upon light motion troubled with pissing blood, was thus cured: Rx a Mass of Terbentine Pills with Rubarb ℥ii. clear Terbentine ℥i. with Liquoris powder make fifteen Pills, which was given in a spoon with Syrup of French-Mallows. He used the following Tablets: Rx Troches of Winter-cherries with Opium ℥℥. Sugar ℥ii℥. with the infusion of Gum Tragacanth, make Tablets weighing ℥ii. He often drank Cream of Barly, as also Milk boiled with Eggs, and so became well.

OBSERV. XXII.

THe Lady Smith (a Roman Catholick) being greatly afflicted with Wind of the Stomach, after it much more tormented her by taking a strong Infusion of Stibium from an Emperick, so that for a month together she was forced to take 3 or 4 draughts of Broth in a night, for expelling the Wind, otherwise she could not sleep, nor rest in Bed for Pain. She was about the age of 27. Rx Pil. Hier. cum Agaric. de Succin. Ruffi. ā ℥i. f. Pil. sex, deaur. She took three of them when when she went to bed. In the morning she took the quantity of a Nutmeg of the following Electuary: R Elect. Chalyb. Craton. ʒiſs. Elect. Ventriflu. ʒß. Misc. After she took it she used exercise: R Sem. Coriand. præp. Fenicul. de Anisi. Carvi. ā ʒiſs. C.C. præp. Coral. Rub. præp. Cinamom. Nuc. Mosch. ā ʒß. Spec. Aromat. Ros. Letific. Gal. Diamosch. dulo. ā ʒß. Sacch. ad pond. omnium f. Tragea. This she took after Meals. The 24th of October she sent to me for the same Pouder, which was for the Countess of Leicester, who took it, and for it returned me many thanks. And by these was she delivered from those bitter Torments, and they did not return.

OBSERV. XXIII.

M^{rs. Winter, Widow, (Roman Catholick) aged 28,} was troubled with the Flux of the Belly, Inflammation of the Reins, with great abundance of Urine, even almost to fainting; she was also troubled with the Stone and Scurvy confirmed, and was much weakned, was thus cured: *R the best Mithridate ʒii. OBSERV. XXV.

BUller of Stratford, from gentle motion of his Body, was much troubled with pissing blood, which came in abundance, with Pain in the Kidneys; his Urine was so hot, that it very much tormented him, especially about the Prepuce, which I thus cured: First he drank of the Decoction of Sarsaparilla for eight days. After he drunk Tormentil in Wine. To his back were applied Plates of Lead, full of holes, moistned with Vinegar; it was often changed, and so in the the space of eight days he was much amended, and after cured.

OBSERV. XXVI.

Mrs. Richardson (a Roman Catholick) was troubled with Wind in the Womb, so that when she went to make water, the Womb sent forth the Wind, as if one had broke wind backward: she also had the Scurvy, swooning, Pain of the Head, over-flowing of her Courfes, also abundance of Whites. She was also troubled with much heat in her Loins, weakness of her whole Body, she could eat well, but could not endure Physick or the Light. She was thus cured, First she had a Restorative made of a Leg of Veal, a Cock, Harts horn shaved, and China, she took of it every morning, first drinking our Milk water with Manus Christi perlatae. To stay the Flux was used the following, R Water of Milk ℥iii. Spawn-Frog water two spoonfuls, Manus Christi perlatae. Confect. Alkerm. each ℥ij. To her Back were applied Plates of Lead perforated and moistned in Vinegar. To the region of the Womb was applied Emplast. pro Matrice. R Harts horn burnt ℥i. Confectio Alkermes ℥ss. Bezeare stone gr. iii. Scabious water ℥ii. Syrup of Limons ℥ss. mix them. It was given whilst she was cold, for she had an Erratic Fever. R Snail water of my preparation, of Spawn Frog water, each ℥iv. Confectio Alkermes ℥ii. Manus Christi perlatae ℥ss.

℞. Water against the Scurvy ℥vi. against the Spleen ℥ii. mix them. This was reiterated, and to it added ℥i℞ of Syrup. Leticif. Rod. à Fonse. By the use of this she gained strength very much, and said it was as good as Aurum potabile, and would never be without it. And thus she was cured wholly.

OBSER. XXVII.

Mrs. Peerse of Aūson, (Roman Catholick) aged about 28, was vexed with a fruitless endeavour to vomit, Melancholy, Tumour of the Feet at night, Weakness of the whole Body, a Scorbatic daily Feaver, with light horror, Pain of the Spleen and of various Joints of the Body, her Urine was like clear Water. OBSERV. XXXII.

Smith of Stratford, aged 38, being long troubled with an immoderate Cough, and Pain of the Head, was thus cured: R Flower of Brimstone ℥ii. Roots of Elicampana, Oris, and Liquoris, all powdered, each ℥i. Honey sufficient to make an Electuary; to which was added twelve drops of Oil of Sulphur, and so licked. After R Orpiment ℥i. Yolk of an Egg, as much made a Mass, which after it was dried, it was powdered; to which was added of Tobacco ℥℥. Coltsfoot ℥i. Anis seeds ℥iii. Oil of Anis seed three drops. Of this he took in a Pipe, and so was cured.

OBSERV. XXXIII.

Wife (whether of the Author, which is most probable, or of the Man that went before, or of some other, I know not, because not mentioned) was troubled with the Scurvy, accompanied with Pain of the Loins, Corruption of the Gums, Stinking Breath, Melancholy, Wind, Cardiac Passion, Laziness, difficulty of breathing, fear of the Mother, binding of the Belly, and torment there, and all of a long continuance, with restlessness and weakness. There was given this Bole: Rx Electuary of Tamarinds ℥ss. Cream of Tartar ℥i. mix them. To the Back was applied Emplastr. Oxycroceum, which freed her from pain of the Loins and Belly, Febr. 9. 1630. The tenth day taking cold, she had again miserable pain in her Joints, so that she could not lye in her Bed, inso-much as when any helped her, she cried out miserably; for which I used this Ointment: Rx Capons grease, Oil of sweet Almonds, of Dil. and Roses, Mucilage of the Roots of Althæa, drawn with Mallow water, each ℥i. mix them. After anointing, the Foresaid Plaster was applied with good success, for she was quieter all night; but yet in the morning she was troubled with Wind. Then I gave of Sennertus's Electuary, which is thus framed: Rx the Conserve of the tops and leaves of Scurvy-grass ℥iii. the Flowers of Bugloss, Clove Gilly-flowers, and Damask-Roses, each ℥ss. the flesh of Candied Nutmegs, Citron Pills candied and cut, each ℥i. Honey of Juniper-berries ℥iii. Confectio Alkermes ℥℞. Syrup of Cinamon ℥vi. Syrup of Scurvy-grass, or that of Forestus, sufficient to make an Electuary, to which was added Oil of Sulphur, sufficient to sharpen it. For the constipation of the Belly, was used this Suppository, R Honey ℥i. Spec. Hier. Pic. ℥ii. Troch. Alhand. ℥℞. Cummin seed ℥℞. make a long Suppository. For the Cardiac Passion was used Elect. Cloves, Mace, Cinamon, Ginger, each ℥iii. Ceterach, Flowers of Broom, Rosemary, Marygolds, Epithymum, each p.i. Juniper-berries ℥i. Steel prepared according to Crato ℥iv. White-wine ℥viii. infuse them together at the Fire in Bal. Mar. for eight days at least, stirring them twice a day; after strain it three or four times, and to the straining add Saffron ℥℞. first drawn out of Scurvy-grass water, Confect. Alkermes ℥ii. Sugar sufficient to sweeten it. Dose is two or three spoonfuls in the beginning, which may be increased, if there be need. And by these she was cured.

OBSERV. XXXIV.

Mrs. Combs, aged about 36, being troubled with a long confirmed Scurvy, accompanied with the like and more dreadful Symptoms, than are in the former Observation described, was cured as followeth: To prepare the humors, R our Oxymel ℥iii. Syr. Diaserios ℥ii. Syr. Schelet. Forest. ℥ii. Water of Water-creffes ℥iii. Dose ℥iii], with White-wine for three mornings together, which gave two or three stools a day. After I purged her thus: R Pil. Hier. cum Agarick, Alephang. Ruffi. ā ℥ii. Ol. Salu. Chym. gut. vii. cum Aq. Bet. f. Pill. 7. Deaurat. She took three at the hour of sleep. Being well purged, she used that Chalybiated Wine, prescribed in the former Observation, as also the Electuary in the same. After was taken the Antiscorbutic Water, prescribed Observ. 26 of this Century. For the Loins was used the Ointment in Observ. 33. After which was applied Emplast. de Ammoniac. Forest. For the corruption of the Gums we used this: R Scurvy-grass water, Water wherein Iron was quenched, ā ℥vi. Honey of Roses and Mulberries simp. ā ℥ii. Oil of Vitriol, sufficient to make it sharp. With this she washed her Mouth. She drunk the Antiscorbutic Beer, prescribed, Observ. 7. and 24. of this Cent. For the Stomach was prescribed this: R Spec. Diamb. Aromat. Ros. ā ℥i℥. Ol. Mastic. ℥i. Cer. flv. ℥vi. Labdan. ℥iii. f. Emplast. To the Back was applied Oxycroceum. There were often used at the hour of sleep five Pills framed of Cyprus Turpentine, pentine, and Cream of Tartar. By these she was freed, and brought forth a goodly Daughter, beyond all expectation.

OBSERV. XXXV.

THe Lady Clark, aged about 44, afflicted with a Bastard Tertian, was cured as followeth: I gave the following Vomit upon the coming of the third Fit; Rx Emetick Infusion ℥vi. It gave eight Vomits and one Stool, and she had a gentle Fit. After the heat coming on, she drank of the Decoction of Harts-horn. The intermitting day she had the following Clyster: Rx Mallows, Beets, Mercury, Origanum, Calamints, each M℥. Seeds of Anis and Fennel, each ℥ii. Whole Barly p. i. Flowers of Chamomel and Melilot, each p. i. make a Decoction in water to ℥x. in the straining dissolve Diacatholicon and Diaphanicon, each ℥i. Spec. Hier. Pier. Holland Ponder, each ℥i. make a Clyster. Which purged well. Before the fit she took the following: Rx Confect. Alkermes ℥℥. Laudanum Paracelsi gr. ii. Magistery of Pearl gr. iii. mix it. After which she became well.

OBSERV. XXXVI.

MR. Thomas Underbil of Lamcot, aged about 39, was exceedingly weakened with pissing blood, with pain from very light motion of the Body,

Body, as also heat of the Urine, who was cured as followeth: R Mass. Pil. de Tereb. cum Rhab. Craton. ℥ii. form. Pil. vi. of a drachm. Three were given in the morning rolled in the Pouder of Liquoris, in a spoonful of some Syrup of Althæa. These taken, R Troch. Alkekengi cum Opio ℥℔. Rad. consolid. Mel. ℥i. Sacch. Ros. ℥ii. Vin. generos. ℥vi. Misc. Of this was drank ℥i. every morning, which gave three or four stools, at night he took the Trochas. He wore at his back a Plate of Lead perforated, and moistned in Vinegar, both night and day, and by these he was cured.

OBSERV. XXXVII.

Katherine Starley of Stratford, aged 44, being fat and corpulent, cast out altogether bloody Urine without any pain of the Loins, or Neck of the Bladder, yea, there was little sense in its coming away, was thus cured: R Liquoris shaved ℥vi. French Barley p.i. Fijubes, five leaves of Water-Lillies, Violets, Roses, each p.i. Seeds of Parslain, and Sorrel, also four greater cold Seeds, each ℥i. Roots of Suceory ℥i. Endive, Sorrel, Plantain, Fumitory, each Mi. Boyl them in Cicer-broth, with water to ℔i. after strain them; to which add Sugar-candy ℥ii. and make an Apozeme. Of which give the third part at a time fasting, it was taken for eight eight days. To strengthen the Kidneys I appointed this Electuary, R Harts-horn prepared, red Coral prepared, each ʒi. Old Sugar of Roses, Marmalad of Quinces, each ʒi. Syrup of dried Roses, sufficient to make an Electuary. Of which was taken ʒss two hours before meat daily, twice a day. By these she was cured. First I applied the following: R Sanicle, Ladies mantle, Golden rod, Sen-green, Betony, Agrimony, each Mi. Althæa, Mii. Fearn, Flowers of Chamomel, St. Johns-wort, Mugwort, Bryers, Origanum, Tormentil leaves and roots, each Mi. They are all to be in three Bags of half a yard long a-piece, being equally laid and basted, after they are to be boiled in the Faeces of red Wine, and applied to the Loins, the Patient lying upon her Belly. These were used one after another, till the Flux of blood was stayed.

OBSERV. XXXVIII.

THE Lady Hinks, aged 69, cruelly vexed with a continual burning Feaver, with torment of the Side, and pain of the Stomach, as also with binding of the Belly for eight days; the Urine was confused, and there was great danger of death, yet she was recovered as followeth: R Mallowes, Althæa, Mercury, each Mi. make a Decoction in Water, of which R ʒ xii. Diaphænic. Diacathol. ā ʒi. Pul. Sanct. ʒi. make a Clyster. This gave her two stools. After we gave our Antiscorbutic Julep. To the pained Side, the following: R Unguent. Dialth. ʒii. Ol. Amygd. dulc. ā ʒss. dissol.

& misc. ad ignem. With this was the pained Side anointed; after which was applied a double Linnen Cloth, anointed with Butter, by which the Pain remitted. The next day was taken of the former Decoction tss. the Emetick Infusion ℥ii. make a Clyster. Which injected, gave three stools. For expectoration, R the Magistral Syrup of Scabious ℥i. Loboch of Currants by Quercetan ℥ii. f. Linā. Which was taken with a Liquoris stick. The Diet was moistning. The Drink was this: R French Barly ℥iiii. Roses, Violets, each p. i. Shaved Liquoris ℥iii. Raisins ℥ii. Figs three, Sugarcandy ℥ii. boyl them in two gallons of Water to the consumption of a third part; and drink the strained Liquor. Thus the Fever ended, Thirst remitted, Appetite was restored, she was freed from difficulty of breathing, and she slept well, and all this beyond all expectation within fourteen days: praise to God alone.

OBSERV. XXXIX.

B Aronet Puckering, aged about 38, very learned, much given to study, of a rare and lean Constitution, yet withal phlegmatick, was troubled with a Vertigo, and after Meat with sudden dejection of strength; sometimes there was present pain of the Head, and darkness of Sight; his Appetite was mean, his Urine well-coloured, but spumous. There were other Accidents from consent, by reason of the fault of Concoction, therefore first Concoction was helped; secondly the Head and Nerves were strengthned, and their offending cause removed. But first of all, the first ways were gently emptied with $\text{ʒi}\text{ss}$ of Manna dissolved in Broth, altered with Agrimony and Succory, roots and all. After he was purged thus: R Pil. de Pæoni. ʒi. de Succin. Ruffi. ā ʒi. Cephalic. Fern. ʒii. cum Aq. Betonic. f. Pil. 15. He took three at the hour of sleep, and had three stools in the morning. These ended, he took the Carminative Powder prescribed Observ. 12. of this Century. After meals, adding to it Diamosch. dulc. ʒi. I appointed the following Capital Roll: Spec. Diamosc. dulc. ʒi. Ol. Nuc. Mosch. per expr. ʒi. Ol. Succin. alb. gut. iii. Ambr. gris. gr. iv. Sacch. in Aq. Lavend. dissol. ʒiv. f. Confect. in Rotul. Of which he took two or three fasting, by which he found much ease. After he had the Leeches, and so became well. For preservation, in the Fall, he used the following: R Roots of Fennel and Parsly, each ʒi . of Butcher-broom and Sparagus, each $\text{ʒi}\text{ss}$. Calamus Aromaticus ʒii. Agrimony, Betony, Maidenhair, each Mss . ended; he took the Carminative Powder, adding Pul. Diamosc. dulc. ℥i. Confect. Alkerm. ℥iii. In the morning he used the aforesaid Rotula's, to which was added Confectio Alkerm. By which means he was perfectly cured.

and

OBSERV. XL.

Baronet Clark of Broom-court, aged about 57, being troubled with a burning Tertian, with pain of the Stomach and Head, his Urine was red: Being called, I cured him in three days, as followeth: ℞ Emetick Infusion ℥℥. Oxymel nostr. ℥iv. This gave five Vomits and eight Stools, by which all was well remitted, and he inclined to health. The following day I gave the Decoction of Harts-horn, which he took often in a day, which he much extolled. This administered for three days, with a convenient Diet, he became very well.

OBSERV. XLI.

THe Lord of Northampton, aged about 29, was vexed with a desperate Squinsey, inso-much that he could scarce draw his breath, could not swallow, from his Mouth flowed abundance of viscid humidities. He would not admit of bleeding, although pressed unto it. Therefore I thus purged him: ℞ Sena ℥i. Rūbarb ℥iii. Agarick rick ℥ii. Cinamon ℥ss. Seeds of Anis and Fennel each ℥i. Calamus Aromaticus ℥ss. Liquoris ℥iii. they were infused for twelve hours in ℥liij of Water, after boiled at a gentle Fire, till a third part was wasted; to the straining was added Syrup of Succory, Rubarb, Diaserios, each ℥i. Of this, being at hand, I took ℥iv. Syr. Diaserios, and Succory with Rubarb, each ℥vi. mix them. Much ado he had to swallow it, it gave him six stinking stools. This being reiterated, gave eight stools. For the first day I prescribed this Gargarism: R Honey of Mulberries simple, Honey of Roses, each ℥ii. Waters of Plantain, Barly, and Honey-suckles, each ℥iv. Spirit of Vitriol and Sulphur, sufficient to make it sharp. Some of this was kept hot in the Mouth as long as he could, wasting all the parts by moving of it gently in the Mouth. Outwardly was applied a Cataplasim of green Wormwood and Hogs grease, morning and night, with happy success. That night being restless, he sent for Dr. Clayton from Oxford, yet would not be let blood, who prescribed the following Cataplasim, which delivered him from pain and danger; R Swallows nests, straw, dirt, dung and all, N. ii. they were boiled in Oil of Chamomel and Lillies, afterward they were beaten, and passed through a Sive; to which was added white Dogs turd ℥i. the Meal of Linseed and Fennugreek, each ℥i. Unguent. Dialthea, and Hens grease, each ℥ss. and so make a Pulstess. It was applied hot. There was used a Fume of Amber, and at bedtime was held in his Mouth one of the following Troches: R the Juyce of Liquoris, white Sugar, each ℥i. seeds of Parslain, Cucumbers, Melons, Gourds cleansed, ā ℥i. Starch, Trag. ā ℥ss. Penid. ℥iv. f. Troch.

For

For his Wife and others troubled with the Squin-1y, I prepared these following: Rx Seeds of white Poppies $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Gum Tragacanth and Arabick, each $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$.
 Seeds of Parslain, Melons, Cucumbers and Gourds, each $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$, Juycce of Liquoris $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Sugar of Roses and Penidies, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. with Syrup of Poppies make Troches. But he contented himself with the former. After the application of the Cataplasim he had this Gargarism; Rx Plantain water $\mathfrak{lb}\mathfrak{ss}$. Seabious water $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$. red Roses $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Pomegranate Pills $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. after they were gently boiled and strained there was added Syrup of Mulberries, and Honey of Roses each $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. This he washed his Mouth withal often in a day, and taking after half a spoontul of the following; Rx Syrups of Liquoris and Maidenhair, each $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Diatrag. frig. $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Syrup of Mulberries and Poppies $\mathfrak{a}\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. mix them, and make a Licking.
 For ordinary drink he took this; Rx Seeds of Anis, Figs, Raisins of the Sun, and Liquoris boyled in $\mathfrak{lb}\text{iv}$ of water, till a pint be wasted. By these all the Tumors were removed, and he cured.

OBSERV. XLII.

Mrs. Stocken, Servant to Mrs. Sheldon of Weston, aged about 44, was grievously afflicted with the Jaundice, accompanied with Pain and Torment on the right Side, being in danger of Death, was thus cured: Rx Electuary of the Juycce of Roses $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Diacatholicon $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Diaphenicon $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ii}\mathfrak{ss}$.
 Rubarb $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Spike gr. v. Syrup of Succory with Ru-barb $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Succory water $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{iii}$. make a Potion. This gave

gave two stools. She was (all the time of her Jaundice) miserably afflicted with binding of the Belly. I caused a Vein to be opened, and there were removed ℥iv of Blood. By this she was freed from the pain of her Side. After she was purged thus: $\text{℞ Ammoniacum } \text{℥i. Oxymel } \text{℥ii. Agrimony water } \text{℥i.}$ mix them; and so for four days. Being well purged, I prescribed a Gelly framed of shaved Harts-horn ℥i. with ten Worms washed in White-wine, after boiled all in ℔i℔ of Water, till half were wasted; at the end of the boiling I added Saffron finely powdered ℥i. Of this was given two spoonfuls in Broth, altered with Celendine, Barberry bark, and Mary-gold flowers. Her Drink was a Decoction of Harts-horn. She also took the following: $\text{℞ White-wine } \text{℥iv. Celendine water } \text{℥iii. Saffron } \text{℥℔. Venice Treacle } \text{℥i℔. Bezoar } \text{℥℔.}$ the Juice of Goose-dung three spoonfuls; make a Sudorifick Potion. Dose ℥iv , at four a clock in the morning. At night she took the following Electuary: $\text{℞ yellow and white Sanders } \text{℥iii. Currants infused in White-wine, and after passed through a Sieve, } \text{℥iv. Rubarb } \text{℥i. Saffron } \text{℥i. f. Elect.}$ Dose, the quantity of a Filbert. By these she was cured. After I advised to use the following: $\text{℞ Elect. Chalyb. } \text{℥ii. Rhab. Pul. } \text{℥i. Ammoniac. Pul. } \text{℥iv. Elect. de Tamarind. } \text{℥℔. Diatrionsant. } \text{℥iii. Misc. f. Elect.}$ Dose ℥℔. using exercise. And thus in twenty days she was delivered from Death.

OBSERV. XLIII.

One of Northampton, aged about 65, was much troubled with the heat of Urine, and Strangury, with an Ulcer in the neck of the Bladder, was cured as followeth: First I gave him the Terbentine Potion, prescribed Observ. 14. of this Century. For eight days for ordinary Drink, he took the same appointed there. All this while he wore Plates of Lead much perforated, and often changed, to his Back. I appointed the following Injection: Rx Troch. alb. Rba. sine Opio $\text{ʒi}\text{ss}$. Lap. Calamin. & Tutie præp. ā ʒi . Plumb. ust. lot. in Aq. Plantag. Bol. Arm. purif. ā ʒii . f. Pul. subtilif. cujus ʒi Misc. cum Decoct. seq. and inject it, adding ʒi of the Mucilage of Gum Tragacanth, made in Plantain water. Rx Horse-tail, Plantain, each Mi . Comfrey roots ʒii . red Roses p. i. Pomegranate Pills ʒii . first beat them, and after boyl them in steeled Water. At the end of these was used the following Tablets: Rx Troch. Alkekeng. cum Opio $\text{ʒ}\text{ss}$. Rad. consolid. Terbent. coct. indurat. ā ʒi . Sacch. $\text{ʒii}\text{ss}$. cum infus. Gum Tragac. f. Troch. ʒii pond. One was taken with Milk, or the Water distilled off Whites of Eggs, &c. For many days a Leaden Pipe was put into the Yard, and there kept (which was anointed with Ung. Rubrum) as long as he could. His Cods being tumified, were anointed with Unguent. de Minio, for which also he drank the Decoction of Sarsaparilla. Thus was he freed from the heat of his Urine.

But

But now being vexed with a virulent Gonorrhea, he took the following Pouder for ten days: Rx Sarsaparilla ℥i℥. Bark of Guaiacum ℥℥. Cinamon ℥ii, gr. v. Sena ℥ii. Dodder, Hellebore root, each ℥i. fine Sugar ℥ii. mix them, and make a Pouder. Dose ℥i℥. Sometimes the Dodder and Hellebore was omitted, And by this he became well. But after riding to London, (by what occasion I know not) it broke forth again, where he had the advice of Doctor Harvy, who prescribed what follows: Rx Troch. Rbafis alb. ℥℥. Troch. Gord. ℥i. Aloes opt. ℥i℥. Penidior. ℥i℥. Aq. Plantag. ℥℥. f. Inje&ct. The following Electuary he used at night, the quantity of a Bean, when he went to bed: Rx Troch. Alkekeng. cum Opio ℥℥. Syr. Limon. q. s. Gum Tragacanth, Mastich, Crystall. prep. Coral prep. ā ℥i. f. Elect. By these he was again restored. After he went to St. Vincent's Well, and was much better by their use. After this, being hurt with the forcing in a Pipe to remove a Caruncle by a Chirurgeon, he again relapsed, and never was cured.

OBSERV. XLIV.

Mrs. Mary Comb of Stratford, aged about 13, Febr. 15. 1631. Two years before this she had her Lunar Evacuations sufficient, they beginning to flow abundantly in the eleventh year of her Age; but now they being stopped, upon which she felt a light Convulsion in the K 2 right

right eye (to use her own word, a twitching) as though her Eye was pulled inward, and presently it would be gone: after both eyes did suffer with great pain of the Head, for which I administered at bed-time, Pil. Céphal. Fern. ʒss. by which she had three stools, the next day they were repeated. Then she became cruelly vexed with the Mother, continuing in the Fit for nine hours, with some light intervals of ease, from which she was delivered by the following Medicines: She had a Fume of Horse-hoofs. There was also given Aq. Hysteric. now called Aq. Brionia compos. Dose three spoonfuls, by intervals as she could take it. I applied Emplast. Hyster. below the Navil. Lastly, I appointed the following Ointment to anoint the inner part of the Matrix: Rx Musk gr. iv. Nutmeg ʒi. Oil of Lillies ʒss. mix them. By this it returned to its place. For a Fume she had the following, used to the Nose: Rx Castory, Galbanum dissolved in Vinegar, each ʒss. Sulphur ʒi. Assa fetida ʒi. make Troches with Oil of Castory. Rx Pil. de Pæon. de Chamæp. ā ʒii. Ol. Salu. Chy. gut. v. f. Pil. N^o 10. Three of these were given at bed time, to which was added Extract. Hyst. ʒii. By these she had five or six stools. The following day she had another Fit, but less; but by the foresaid Fume and Ointment she was well amended. Inwardly were given two spoonfuls of Aq. Brion. comp. At night she took two of the foresaid Pills; coming to her in the morning, I found her eased of her pain of Head and Stomach. The 11th of Febr. she was gently afflicted with the Mother, and a light Fever; to prevent which I gave Extract. Hysteric. ʒii. cum Aq.

Aq. Hist. q. s. f. Pil. 10. She took one of them in the morning fasting, and so she became well. March 28. she fell again into the Mother, with Convulsion of the Eyes, the said Convulsion having grieved her two days before she was afflicted with the Mother: R Pil. de Pæon. Chamæpit. Hier. cum Agarick, ā ʒii. Pil. de Succin. Russi. ā ʒi. Extract. Hyster. ʒii. cum Aq. Hyster. f. Mas. Of this there were made five of a drachm covered with Gold; of these she took three at bed-time. By these she was delivered.

OBSERV. XLV.

THE First-born Son of my Lady Harrington, after the Pox, laboured of a Tumor of the Nose and Lips, and sometimes the Cheeks, with a Rheum distilling from the Head; he was about the age of 10, which I cured as followeth: R Scirvy-grass, Water-cresses, Brook lime, each Miv. Juniper berries ʒss. Agrimony Mi. Wormwood, Carduus benedictus, each M ss, boyled them in five gallons of Beer, till a fourth part were wasted. Of the strained Liquor was taken ʒii. Sena ʒii. Ruland. and at night a Plate of Lead. He drank of the foresaid Beer.

Beer. Which Course having been continued for few days, he was cured of his Lip.

OBSERV. XLVI.

Margaret Baker, aged 9, having after the Pox a grievous ugly Tumor upon her Nose and Lip, was perfectly cured as followeth: Rx Pil. de Succin. ℥ss. f. Pil. iij. They were given her at a night when she went to bed, and so for four days. Being well purged, the Lip was washed cum Aq. Merc. Ruland.

OBSERV. XLVII.

MY Lady Rainsford, (beautiful, and of a gallant structure of Body,) near 27, was three days after her being laid of a Child miserably tormented with pain in her Belly, from which I delivered her with the following: Rx the white of Hens-dung ℥i. being put in Beer and Sugar, she took it. To the Belly the following was applied hot: Rx new Milk and Honey, each ℔bi. Horeborend. Mi. Wheat flower ℥iii. Saffron ℥i. boyl them to a Pulves. By these she was deliverd. The Translator hath freed several from this Distemper with Chamomel Posset-drink.

OBSERV. XLVIII.

Mrs. Grace Court, Wife to my Apothecary, aged 27, being grievously afflicted with a burning Fever, and that continual, Pain in the Loins, small bleeding at the Nose, Pain of the Head, with small Delirium, was cured as followeth: First, I appointed her to bleed four or five ounces, although she had passed fourteen weeks of her time, being with Child. The same day I gave the following Cordial: Rx burnt Harts-horn, Spec. liberant. pul. Pannon. rub. Confect. Alkerm. ā ℥ii. Conserve of Barberries ℥i. Of this she took the quantity of a Bean every three hours. She drank no drink but the following: Rx Spring water boyled ℥iiii. Syrup of Pomegranats ℥i℥. Julep of Roses ℥ii. Spirit of Vitriol, as much as made it sharp. To the Soals of her Feet were applied Radishes beaten with Salt, and besprinkled with Rose-vinegar, which was renewed every fourth hour. For the inflammation of the Tongue, was used the following Gargarism: Rx Spring water ℥ii. Julep of Roses ℥i℥. Honey of Mulberries ℥vi. Rose vinegar ℥i. Spirit of Vitriol sufficient to sharpen it. With this she washed her Mouth, which brought away much Phlegm. Now and then the dry places were anointed with Honey of Roses, and sometimes Butter. To the Wrists I caused to be applied Ung. Antifebri. Rx Ung. Popul. ℥i. Tel. Aranear. multas, Nuc. Arbor. parum, Misc. For the Back, Rx Ung. Popul. Ros. ā ℥℥. Alabast. ℥ii. Ol. Nymph. ℥vi.

Camphor. ℥ss. Misc. But because there was no Oil at hand, the following was used: R^x Ol. Scorp. ℥ii. Amygd. dulc. ℥ss. Ung. Ros. ℥i. Misc. For the pain of the Head was used the following: R^x Aq. Ros. Plantag. Flor. Sambuc. ā ℥iii. Ol. Ros. Aq. Lactuc. ablut. aliquot. ℥iiss. Pul. Santal. rub. ℥iiss. Misc. In this were dipped Linnen Clothes, and applied to the Head. And lest she should fall into Carus, we used the following Decoction: R^x pure Spring water lbii. Seeds and Pills of Citrons, each ℥i. burnt Harts-horn ℥ss. Spec. Liberan. ℥ii. boyl them till a quart be wasted; to the straining was added the Juycce of Citrons, and Sugar, and after boyled, being not only skimmed, but purified with Whites of Eggs. Of this she took three draughts in a day, one in the morning, the other an hour before dinner-time, and the third at four a clock in the afternoon. For the strengthening of the Heart, and repelling malign Vapours, she took twice a day (before she drank the foresaid Decoction) the quantity of a Nutmeg of the following Cordial: R^x Rob of Barberries, Conserve of the Pulp of Citrons, each ℥i. Spec. Liberan. prepared Pearls and Smaragdines, each ℥i. with the Syrup of Citrons make an Electuary. Of this she also took at night. After her third draught the next day she took of the Electuary, wherein was Pul. Pan. rub. And afterwards a Clyster: R^x Althea roots ℥i. the four emollient Herbs, each M i. Barly p. i ss. Gourd seeds ℥ss. make a Decoction to ℥xii. in which dissolve Cassia ℥i. Honey of Violets ℥i. Oil of Violets ℥iii. with Salt make a Clyster. The 20th day of June she vomited a Worm with Melancholy matter. Then I gave of the following Electuary the quantity of a Bean every fourth hour: Rx Conſerv. Roſ. vitriolat. ʒi. Spec. Diarrhod. Abbat. ʒi. Pul. Pan. rub. ʒi. Conſer. Barb. q. ſ. f. Elect. Theſe remitted her Fits; and ſhe came to a compoſed mind, and in a ſhort time became well.

OBSERV. XLIX.

THE Counteſs of Northampton, (born of a noble Off-ſpring, notably educated, and of a very good diſpoſition, very fair and beautiful,) in the ſeventh month of her Child-bearing, fell into a Baſtard Tertian, as alſo a filthy yellow Jaundice, Torment of the Belly and Head, and Pain of the Back, being aged about 26, deſiring my advice, being not willing to purge, I preſcribed as followeth: Rx the Flowers of Marygolds and Roſemary, each p. i. Carduus benedictus p. ʒ. Flowers and leaves of Melilot p. ii. boyl them in ſufficient Poſſet drink, to ʒʒ. with a little Sugar. She took half of it an hour before her Fit, hot, by which the Fit was retarded two hours; it beginning, ſhe took the other half, which freed her from her ſhaking, then her Jaundice appeared in her Water manifeſtly, after ſweat broke forth, the next Fit was leſs. In the heat of the Fever and ſweat, ſhe took the Decoction of Harts-horn, with Juyce of Limons, of which ſhe drank liberally, in which Decoction ſhe would not admit Roſe-water. - On her quiet day ſhe took every third hour the quantity of a Bean of the following: Rx Conſerve of Barberries ʒʒ. Pul. Pan. rub. ʒii. but after ſhe had taken

of it once, she abhorred it. She had a Gelly of Harts-horn with Marygold flowers, and Saffron. The 22th of July, before her Fit, she had five grains of Bezoars; and an hour before her Fit the foresaid Possiet-drink. This Fit she was troubled with shaking, but the hot Fit and sweating was less by six hours. The 23th day, by five in the morning it left her. She took this: R Tincture of Coral, Magistral of Pearl, each gr. iv. Pul. Pannon. rub. gr. xii. mix them. She took it an hour before dinner, and an hour before supper. The 24th day by three a clock in the morning she took as before, and the Possiet-drink, which mitigated the Fit; the 25th, as the 23th. The 26th there was applied hot to the Feet the following: R Worm-wood, Rue, Fetherfew, Nettles, each equal parts. She also had the Possiet-drink, as before. The foresaid being hot, was anointed with Ung. Popul. with Opium. To the Back was applied Emplastrum Oxycroceum, which removed the Pain of her Back wholly; that day her Fever was very little. The 28th she took the following: R prepared Harts-horn, Pul. Pann. rub. each ʒʒ. Carduus water ʒii. Syrup of red Poppies ʒʒ. Bezoar gr. iv. mix them. It was given five hours before the Fit, and the Herbs were applied to the Feet. The heat coming, R Syr. Papav. ʒi. Lim. ʒʒ. Aq. Scab. ʒii. Ol. Vitriol. gut. v. Aq. Celest. gut. vii. Misc. With these Remedies in twelve days she was wholly cured. August the 5th taking cold, she relapsed. Then before the Fit two hours, were applied the Herbs to her Feet; to her Pulses this: R Ung. Popul. ʒʒ. Tel. aran. multas, Nuc. arbor. parum. Her Temples were anointed with Populeon. For her her Coldness, Rx Aq. Bezoar. Coch. f. Lap. Bezoar. gr. v. Succ. Lim. Coch. ii. It was given two hours before the Fit. When her heat came, her Temples were anointed with Unguent. Popul. ℥ss. Opii in Aq. Ros. dissol. ℥ss. By these she was again cured, and after she was brought to bed with a Daughter, which I saw in her Arms.

OBSERV. L.

MR. Fisset, (a Minister) aged about 55, was cruelly tormented with the Hemorrhoids, for which many Medicines had been used, yet fruitless. After he came to me, to whom I used the following: First, I caused them to be fomented with warm Milk, after applied this: Rx Oil of Linseed, and Elder, of the first ℥ii. the other ℥i. They were applied with double Linnen Clothes night and day. After was used Tapsi valentia. And after this, Rx Ung. Popul. ℥i. Opii torrefact. & pul. ℥i. Misc. It was applied to the part. By these he was cured.

OBSERV. LI.

ANne Ward of Stratford, had black evacuations both from Mouth and Belly, after fell into the rising of the Lungs, so that all looked on her as dead; she could not speak, her Breath was sent out with a noise; for an hour she lay thus. Being

Being called, I presently caused a great Cupping-glass to be set to the Mouth of the Stomach, and presently she spake. And so twice before I delivered Mrs. Goodyear, and Mrs. Savage, from danger of Death. All the night after she held in her Mouth of our pectoral Rolls, and after had this Clyster: Rx Ol. Carmin. Quer. Diacathol. ā ʒ ii. Decoct. Carmin. pro Clyst. ℥ss. It gave two stools the following day. Rx Elect. de Tamarind. ʒss. de Succ. Ros. ʒiiii. Crem. Tart. ʒi. cum Sacch. f. Bol. It gave eight stools, and so she was cured.

OBSERV. LII.

Mrs. Fines, aged 22, 1632. (Wife to the Lord Say's eldest Son, a very religious excellent Woman,) was miserably afflicted with the following Symptoms, viz. Obstruction of the Courses for the space of two months; and when she had them at a fit time in a laudable quantity, they were of an ill watery colour, with great pain in the Womb; there was also difficulty of breathing, with trembling and beating of the Heart, as if it would have burst through; after sleep she was sick, with torment of the Belly, and gnawing about the Navil, but these Pains were most miserable about the time of her Courses; upon breaking wind she was somewhat eased; her Belly was also very hard, and moved, as if with child; but hot Clothes being applied removed the Pain and Wind. She was also vexed with pain of the Spleen, Whites, Leanness, Pain of the Loins, a light Vertigo, as also of the Scurvy, and truly I judged all these Symptoms to arise from it. Which I cured as followeth: Rx Pil. de Succin. ℥ii. Ruffi. ʒi. f. Pil. N. 15. She took three at bedtime, and two in the morning, which wrought excellently. For the Wind, Rx Spec. Plerisarc. ʒ℥. Sacch. Ros. ʒiv. Misc. Dose, half a spoonful after meat. By the use of these her Courses flowed well, with many lumps like Flesh, not dissoluble in water, they were expelled with torment, as in Child-birth. To cleanse the Womb, Rx Hier. cum Agaric. de Succin. ā ʒ℥. Terb. Cypr. Pil. Ruffi. ā ʒ℥. f. Pil. N. 20. She took these as the former, cum custodia. These ended, she took Spec. Plerisarc. ʒii. and used exercise. The fifth of March, at four a clock in the morning, she took Crem. Tart in Broth. An hour after that, of our Chalybiat Water, thus framed: Rx Oil of Sulphur pint i. Spirit of Wine pint ii. boyl them in a great new made Iron Spoon at a gentle Fire, till half be evacuated; the Ponder remaining, keep very close, lest it dissolve. Of this Rx ʒii. to which put Agrimony water ʒiv. and infuse them upon hot ashes. Of this she took ʒ℥ in Broth, and used exercise; the first day she vomited, and the second and third days she did not; she used it for fifteen days. It is excellent in all Diseases arising from the Liver, as Dropsy, Cachexia, Green-sickness. To her Spleen was applied Empl. ex Ammoniac. Fer. & Oxyroc. She used every day Plerisarc. and Sugar. Scorbutic Beer was not omitted, as Cent. 1. Observ. 1. By these she was cured, taking in the morning Diacubeb ʒii.

OBSERV. LIII.

FRANCES Finch of Stratford, aged 47, being troubled with the Worms, Pain of the Back and Sides, was thus cured: R Pul. Dudlian. Scamon. prep. ā gr. xiv. Crem. Tartar. gr. x. Aq. Boragin. *℥i*ss. Syr. Ros. Coch. half. This being exhibited, gave four stools, with abundance of little Worms. The next day being given again, she was cured. It is observable, that Riverius hath several Observations about Worms, and his special Remedy is Mercur. dul. cum Scam. aut Resin. Jalap. the which the Translator hath proved very often, given in a due Dose.

OBSERV. LIV.

Mrs. Jackson, (Wife to Mr. Jackson Jun.) aged about 24, being not well purged after birth, fell suddenly into a grievous Delirium, no other Disease preceding; she was most angry with those that formerly she most loved, yet her talk was very religious. By intervals there was a Fever acute, which made me fear a Frenzy. By reason of much business I could not have time to visit her, yet there was a happy success by the following Prescriptions: R Syr. Artem. ℥i. El. Lenit. Diacath. ā *℥i*iii. Rhab. Castor. ā *℥*ss. Aq. Betonic. *℥i*iii. Misc. Her Stomach being full of wind, she vomited after after without Pain, she had five stools. She took it again. The 22th of May there were taken away ℥vi of blood, very black and aqueous; yet the Delirium was not wholly removed. The 23rd day, ℞ Leaves of Mallows, Violets, Beets, Lettice, Borage, each ℥ii . Barly ℥i . Seeds of Gourds and Cucumbers, each ℥℥ . make a Decoction with a sufficient quantity of Water, to ℥xii . To the strained Liquor add Oil of Violets ℥iii . Cassia new drawn, Diacath. each ℥i . Salt ℥i . make a Clyster. After for watching and restlessness I gave the following Syrup: ℞ Syrup of red Poppies ℥℥ . Syrup of Violets ℥℥ . Scabious water ℥iii . Rose-water a little, Oil of Vitriol to sharpen it. To the Forehead was applied this: Oil of Roses omphac. ℥iii . Vinegar of Roses ℥i . Powder of red Sanders ℥℥ . Waters of Lettice, Plantain, and Roses, each ℥i . mix them. To the Head was applied a Hen new cut thorow. To the soles of the Feet, Radishes bruised with Salt and Vinegar, every third hour, for revulsion. The 25th, ℞ Cassia newly drawn with Betony water ℥i . Syrup of Roses solutive ℥℥ . Waters of Bugloss, Borage, Violets, each ℥ij . make a Potion. It was given in the morning. There were also Scarifications, with Cups to the Scapula's and Shoulders. And thus in seven days she was happily cured.

OBSERV. LV.

May the 2d, Mrs. Woodward of Aven-dasset, (a Maid very witty and well-bred, yet glibous,) aged 28, six days before this fell into a continual burning Fever; then by the Physician being purged, and let blood; from it she fell into a Bastard-Tertian, pernicious, with a yellow Jaundice, and spots like flea-bitings, which after left marks, which discovered the Fever to be joined with the Scurvy. For often it happens both in Continual, Tertian, and Quartan Fevers, as appears in Eugaleus. She wanted her Courses, and had constipation of the Belly. I coming on the intermitting day, gave this: R Tincture of Coral gr. vi. Spec. Liberant. ℥ss. Manus Christi perlat. ℥ii. Lap. Bezoar. gr. v. with Conserve of Barberries. In the same day she took often the Decoction of Harts-horn, with Manus Christi perlat. For her Broth I appointed these Herbs, Brook-lime, Water-creffes, Borage, Cichory. May the 26th, R Diaturb. cum Rhab. (because there was no other ready at hand) ℥iv. It was infused all night in Posset-drink, in the morning it was strained, and taken with Sugar. I being absent, it gave four stools without pain. Towards evening she expected her unwelcome Enemy, with grief of mind. To the Wrist I applied Ung. Antifebrif. to the Feet, Wormwood, Rue, Chamomel, boyled in Water, and applied hot in bladders before the Fit came. R Spec. Liberant. ℥ii. Conserv. Barbar. ℥ii. Of this she took took the quantity of a Bean often in a day, with our Antiscobutic Water, Observ. 26. of this Cent. For the Jaundice and Scurvy, R Ammoniac. Pul. ℥ii. Oxym. simpl. ℥ii. Aq. Agrim. ℥i. It was repeated on the quiet day, as need required. To the Spleen was applied Empl. de Ammon. There was used Elect. Diacurcum. the quantity of a Nutmeg, after meals. Being altogether freed from the Fever, yet not the Scurvy, I prescribed the Chalybiat Wine (Observ. 42. Cent. 1.) ℥vi. Syrup of Scurvy-grass ℥iiij. of Brook-lime and Water-creffes, each ℥ii. Dose was six spoonfuls, with exercise. And every other day, R Pil. Stomac. Russi. cap. Pill. iii. ex 3℔. at going to bed. And so she was cured.

OBSERV. LVI.

Mrs. Happer, aged 24, after birth, the After-birth was retained and corrupted, so that it was cast forth in little stinking bits, whence a direful stink ascended to the Stomach, Heart, Liver, Diaphragma, and from thence to the Brain; so that there was Pain of the Head, often fainting, and cold sweats; so that there was great danger of death, yet was recovered as followeth: R Colocynthis boyled in equal parts of Water and Juyce of Rhue, with which was mixed Myrrh, the Meal of the Seeds of Line, Fenugreek, and Barly, of each a spoonful; boyl them all together, and make a Plaster. Which apply to the whole Belly from the Navil to the Privity. The Matrix was anointed with Ung. Basilicon. R Castory gr. vi. Myrrh, Saffron, each gr. iij. Mithrid. ℞. make three Pills. Which was given at bed-time. And thus in twenty four hours she was delivered.
L each

OBSERV. LVII.

Good-wife Archer of Stratford, was suddenly taken with Convulsion of Face and Eyes, loss of speech, her Matrix carried from its proper place, and so cast, as if she had been the very Image of Death, sometimes vehemently opening and casting her Eyes hither and thither; was cured as followeth: ℞ Castory ℥i. Juyce of Rhue a spoonful, Sage water ℥ii. Syrup of Mugwort ℥i. She was constrained to take it. To her Nose were applied stinking things. Within the space of few minutes she both spake and stood up. The next day, ℞ Spec. Hier. cum Agaric. ℥℔. Pil. fetid. de Paon. ā ℥i. Fæcul. Brion. Diagrid. ā gr. vi. f. Pil. 5. They were taken in the morning with custody. After ℞ Briony root ℥iii. Sena ℥℔. Ginger ℔. Cinamon ℥i. Sugar ℥i. infuse them for a night in hot Whey lib℔. Of this Infusion was taken ℥v for several days together. With which the Cure was perfected.

OBSERV. LVIII.

Mrs. Lewes, Sister to Mr. Fortescue, three days after Child-birth, getting cold, fell into an Ague, with torment of the Belly, was cured as followeth: She drank the Decoction of Harts-horn, our Julep against the Fever, two spoonfuls every fourth hour. She also, had a Clyster of Milk and Sugar. There was Origanum and Marjoram lapped up between a Linnen Cloth, and applied hot to the Belly. And so she was suddenly helped.

OBSERV. LXI.

Mrs. Vernon of Hanberry, Wife to the Minister, aged about 30, August 13. 1632. was afflicted with the Scurvy, joined with various Symptoms, as coldness in the soles of the Feet, which like a cold vapor ascending to the Stomach, made her grievous sick; after that she was afflicted with heat, after with a cold sweat, and all in the space of two hours, and then she was well. Further she was afflicted with Melancholy, trembling of the Heart, and pain of the Spleen, so that she was forced to press it hard with her hands; she had cruel pains of her Teeth and Gums, Loins, Laziness of the whole Body, Tumor of the Feet towards evening. In the time of her Courses she was miserably tormented, her Flux being much and inordinate, by which she was weakened. The Fits of the Mother often afflicted her, of which she was not delivered till she shed tears. Sometimes she had filthy black spots on her Thighs, sometimes she was also without stools for four days. Her Urine was of various colours. R Mal-lower, Mercury, Althæa, each Mi. boyl them in sufficient quantity of Milk to lbj. in the straining was dissolved Diaphænic. Diacathol. each ℥vi. Holland powder ℥i. make a Clyster. It gave three stools with wind. At her going to bed she took ℥iij of London Treacle. The fourteenth day, R Brook-lime, Water-creffes, each Mi. Marygold flowers, and of Rosemary, each p.i. boyl them in sufficient quantity of Whey to lbss. To the straining was added lbss of Sugar; it was again boyled and scummed; after was added ℥ss of Saffron tyed up in a fine rag; after a walm or two it was taken from the Fire. Of this Decoction were taken eight spoonfuls, Holland powder, and Cream of Tartar, of each as much as lay upon a Six-pence, in the morning, fasting two hours after, and then taking Veal broth, altered with Borage, Bugloss, Brook-lime, Water-creffes, and Succory; dining at the usual time, supping at five. At bed time she took London Treacle, as before. For the Mother was prescribed Aq. Brion. compos. now so called. For the coldness of the Feet was applied this Plaster: R Pitch lbii. best Rosin powdered and sifted, Frankinsence, each lbii. Sheep-sweet ℥i. Saffron and Mace, each ℥ii. Labdanum ℥iv. Cloves ℥i. mix them, and boyl them for half an hour, or more. It is to be spread on Leather, like to a Shoo soal. This was continued for fourteen days, or six weeks, and then removed. And for certain this Plaster is profitable in all pain. By this Plaster I cured Mr. Feriman of an old pain in the Feet. For tumor of the Spleen I used Ung. Magist. pro Splen. In pain of the Back was used our Emplast. Nephritic. As R^e red Lead and Wax ℥ii. Opium gr. xv. Oil of Roses, of Water-lillies, each ℥ii. Juyce of Night-shade ℥i. boyl them to a Plaster, Spread it upon Leather. For wind of the Stomach, R^e Conserve of Bugloss ℥ii. Spec. Plerisarch. ℥ii. Dose, the quantity of a Nutmeg. There was also used our Scorbutic Water, with Syrup of Clove Gilly-flowers. She had also an Antiscorbutic Beer, and Chalybiat Wine. By the use of which she became well.

OBSERV. LX.

THou, O Lord, which hast the power of Life and Death, and drawest from the Gates of Death, I confess, without any Art or Counsel of Man, but only from thy Goodness and Clemency, thou hast saved me from the bitter and deadly Symptoms of a deadly Fever, beyond the expectation of all about me, restoring me as it were from the very jaws of Death to former health; for which I praise thy Name, O most merciful God, and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying thee to give me a most thankful Heart for this great favour, for which I have cause to admire thee. About the 57th year of my age, August 27. 1632. to Septemb. 29. I was much debilitated with an immoderate Flux of the Hemorrhoids; yet daily was I constrained to go to several places to Patients. By riding, a hardness being contracted, the Flux was stayed for fourteen days. After I fell into a most cruel torture of my Teeth, and then into a deadly burning Fever, which then raged very much, killing almost all that it did infect, for which I used the following method, which by the help of God succeeded. First, I purged thus: R. Rubarb infused ʒi. (surely it was infused in some proper water, suppose ʒiii.) Syrup. Diaserios ʒi. Elect. c. Succ. Ros. ʒiii. This gave four stools. After I used the Decoction of Harts-horn, and so the Disease was almost cast out by Urine, it flowed very much for four days space; so that I was not only much maciated, but also weakned, so that I could not move my self in my Bed without help. I also had Convulsion of the Mouth and Eyes. Then was a Pigeon cut open alive, and applied to my feet, to draw down the Vapours; for I was often afflicted with a light Delirium. Then my Wife sent for two Physicians. I had used a Clyster with Emollient Herbs, and Electu. Diacath. & Leniti. By the Physicians my Friends, was prescribed the following Electuary, of which I swallowed the quantity of a Nutmeg twice a day. R. Elect. de Gem. cal. ʒii. Spec. Plerisarch. ʒi. (from fear of the Scurvy) Manus Christi perlat. ʒi. Conserv. Buglos. & Violar. a ʒii. Syr. Lujn. ʒi. Syr. Viol. ʒss. Limon ʒi. Ol. Vitriol. gut. vi. f. Elect. The 27th of Septemb. I was thus purged: R. Elect. Ienit. ʒiss. Aq. Absynth. ʒiv. Misc. It gave three stools. At the hour of sleep I took Diacodium, Syrup of red Poppies, with Diascordium. For the heat heat of the Back, R̄ Refrig. Gal. ʒiʒ. Cerat. Santal. ʒʒ. Succ. Sed. Acet. Vini alb. ā coch. i. f. Unguent. mol. An Emplaster for the region of the Heart, R̄ Labd. ʒvj. Styrac. Calam. ʒʒ. Spec. Aromat. Ros. ʒiv. Mosc. gr. iv. Misc. I again was purged thus: R̄ Syr. Diaserios ʒiʒ. Elect. e Succ. Ros. ʒiii. Aq. Cichor. q. s. It is to be observed, before the Physicians came, there were drawn ʒvii of Blood from the Liver vein, and three days after that were the Leeches applied to the Hemorrhoids, and thence removed ʒx. After the Decoction of Harts-horn. Thus I was pretty well able to take Meat. After I used Chalybiat Wine, with Juyce of Scurvy-grass, and Syr. Sceletyrb. Foresti, and purged once a week with Pul. sancti. Syr. Diaserios, & infus. Rhab. For the pain of the Teeth I used Ol. Lig. Heraclei. After I was troubled with Itch in the Scrotum, which was cured with our Decoction of Sarsa. with Antiscorbutic Herbs. And so I became perfectly well, praised be God.

OBSERV. LXI.

B Aronet Puckering of Warwick, aged about 44, was cruelly vexed with pain of the Head, especially in the morning, and about evening; yet when he cast himself upon his back, with his Head a little declining, he felt ease. I by the help of God cured him as followeth: R̄ Pil. de Paon. ʒi. de Succin. Ruffi. ā ʒi. Cephal. Fernel. ʒii. cum Aq. Betonic. f. Pil. N. 15. He took two at going to bed, and three in the morning. These ended, the Leeches were applied to the Hemorrhoids with happy and desired event, for he was altogether freed from the Pain of his Head. After he used the following Opiat: Rx Lign. Sassafr. incis. ℥vi. Cremor. Tartar. ℥i. Aq. Betonic. ℥ii. f. Haust. Which he retained for half an hour, and then vomited it, yet had four stools. The next day for his Cough and Phlegm, Rx Syrup of Maiden-hair and Hyssop, each ℥i. Syrup of Scabious, Magi. ℥℥. make a Lincture. He liking it well, it was repeated, with which he cast up abundance of Phlegm. I framed him a Julep with capillary Herbs, Snails, yellow Sanders, China, shavings of Ivory and Harts-horn, with Syrup of Limons and Violets. With three spoonfuls of this Julep were taken two spoonfuls of Aq. Saxon. frigid. Rx Magist. perlar. ℥i. Aq. Scabios. ℥iv. Syr. Caryophil. ℥i. Confect. Alker. ℥i. Misc. Thus he was delivered from his Fever. Afterwards for the preservation of his Health was prescribed the following Opiat, by Doctor Lapworth; Rx Conser. Flor. Betonic. Caryophil. hortens. ā ℥i. Cortic. Citri. condit. ℥vi. Extraet. Calam. Aromat. ℥i. Cortic. Winteran. pul. ℥i℥. Sem. Pæon. ℥i.

3i. Ol. Cinam. gut. iv. cum Syr. Betonic. q. s. f. f. condit. Of this he took the quantity of a Nutmeg, which was used with great success. For his Spleen I prescribed this: R^x Emp. Magist. pro Lien. 3iβ. Diachyl. comp. 3vi. Caran. in Acet. Scillitic. dissol. 3iv. Rad. Helleb. alb. 3ii. Ol. Lig. Rhod. 3i. Misc. f. Empl. It was spread upon Leather, and covered with some Sarcenet, and applied to the Spleen. By these he was delivered from all his Symptoms, and to prevent, had a Fontinel-opened in his left Arm.

OBSERV. LXII.

Alderman Tyler, being exceedingly troubled with heat and roughness of his Tongue, was cured with the following: R^x Syr. Scabiosf. mag. Becabung. Nasturt. aquat. Succ. Cochlear. præp. ā 3iβ. Syr. Tussilag. Liquirit. Papav. Erratic. ā 3i. Misc. It was taken often with a Liquoris stick.

OBSERV. LXIII.

THe Daughter of Alderman Smith, aged about 22, from diminution of her Courses, and fear, fell into the Mother, with Convulsion of the Eyes, and darkness of sight, it continuing all the Fit, together with distortion of the Neck, and palpitation of the Heart, as also a Fever, so that she tossed up and down her Bed. In the time of her her Fit I commanded to distil into her Mouth three spoonfuls of Aq. Hysteric. After I fumed her with Ungula Caballina, which delivered her from her Fit. To prevent, was given as followeth: Rx Castor. pul. ʒʒ. Pil. Fetid. ʒj. f. Pil. 7. deaur. This purged her well, and delivered her from the Symptoms. Lastly, Rx Pul. Castor. ʒʒ. Extract. Hyster. ʒi. f. Pil. N. 9. Of these she took three at bed-time, and two in the morning. By these few Remedies she was perfectly cured, and never had it after.

THE only Son of Mr. Holy-oak (which framed the Dictionary) fell into a burning Fever, pain in the Loins, and Cough, the fore-runners of the Small-Pox, which appeared after the taking of the following Potion: Rx Diascord. ʒi. Tinctur. Coral. Lap. Bezoar. ā gr. iii. It was given in Fennel water. By this he was freed from pain in his Back and Stomach, and they began to appear. To preserve the Eyes; Rx Plantain water, Eye-bright water, and Rose-water, each ʒi. Camphire ʒi. Saffron gr. ii. make a Collyrium. With which the Eyes were gently anointed often with a Feather. To preserve the Throat and Mouth, I prescribed that he should continually gargle Milk and Plantain water mixed, which is a most excellent Remedy. Syrup of Pomegranats is also a Secret both to defend the Lungs, Throat, Mouth, and Breast. Therefore I prescribed this: Rx Syr. Gran. dul. ʒii.

Pent-

Penideor. ℥iii. Syr. de Ros. ficc. Diamor. ā ʒʒ. Di-atrag. frigid. in Tab. ℥iii. Amyl. purif. ℥ii. f.
Eclegm. But because this was not to be had, there was used, Syrup of Scabious, Magistral. ā ʒʒ.
Syrup of Maiden-hair, and Liquoris, each ʒi. mix them. This was very successful. To refresh the Senses, R a little Bread dipped in the Vinegar of Roses, held to the Nose in a fine Rag. For Diet he used this Hordeat: R *Hord. mund. p. i. Amygd.
dulc.* ʒii. f. Hordeatum ibi. Which was sweetned with Sugar of Violets, that the Pox might be expelled more. To the Skin was used a De-coction of Liquoris, Figgs, and common Barly; which was given hot. He was kept constantly in bed, with a Fire in the Chamber. His Drink was Prysan. And thus he was cured.

OBSERV. LXV.

THE Lord of Northampton's Gentleman had the ambulative Gout, wherein he had extreme pain, sometimes in one knee, sometimes in the other, so that he could scarce walk. There was also sometime a Retention of Urine, he was aged 34. He was presently eased by the following Medicines: R Pil. sine quib. ferid. ā ʒi. ex Opopan. ℥ii. Troch Alband. ʒi. Sal. prunel. gr. xv.
f. Pil. deaurat. He took one at ten a clock at night, and four about seven a clock the next morning, and so for three days; by which he was well purged. R *Emplast. Oxycroc. Diachyl.
cum Gum.* ā ʒi. Ol. e Laterib. ʒi. f. Emplast.
Which

Which being applied to the pained part, eased it. The 27th of Decemb. to prevent, was given this: R̄ Elect. Caryocost. ℥ss. Crem. Tart. ℥i. Syr. Dias. ℥i. Aq. Beton. ℥iv. M. After, R̄ Pil. sine quib. ℥i. Fetid. ℥iss. Troch. Alband. ℥i. f. Pil. 10. There were given five for a Dose, by which he was wholly delivered.

OBSERV. LXVI.

Mrs. Boves, of Kings-cotton, aged 46, was miserably afflicted with Itch in the Fundament, and Ascarides, which were presently cured as followeth: R̄ Pil. Hier. cum Agarick, ℥ii. Ruffi. ℥i. Fetid. ℥i. f. Pil. N^o 15. Two of which she took at going to bed, and three in the morning. These done, I gave a drachm of the following Rotula's: R̄ Sem. Macedonic. Sem. Santon. ā ℥iv. Cortic. Granat. C. C. usti. ā ℥ss. Diſtam. alb. Rhab. elect. Caryophil. ā ℥i. Cinam. ℥ii. Croc. ℥i. Misc. f. Pul. with sufficient quantity of Sugar make Rotula's, weighing a drachm. There were Suppositories used sometimes of Lard, sometime Clysters of Milk and Sugar. She used the Rotula's for fifteen days, by which she was delivered from the Itch and Worms. Thonerus cured a Girl of six years old, only with these following: Elect. de Tamarind. cum Fol. Sen. ℥iii. Magist. Jalap. gr. vi. Misc. To preserve, he prescribed Rotul. contra Verm. August. ex Fol. Sen. &c.

THE Lady Brown of Radford, aged 49, Jan. 1. 1633. having laboured of the Scurvy long confirmed, and now of a Scorbutic, continual, burning Fever, accompanied with the following Symptoms, with which she was vexed, as beating of the Heart, Wind of the Stomach and the Belly, of which she found very little ease, although she vented wind both ways. Her Mouth was continually dry, although she could content her self with a little Drink. Her Pulse was variable, weak, unequal, and often vermicular: The Heat in this Scorbutic Fever was more gentle than in an exquisit, and joined with less thirst and restlessness; or if it were much, yet it was by intervals. Her Urine was thick and red, with the like sediment, unequal, yet thirst less. She was very subject to fainting when she rose out of her Bed, with many other deadly Symptoms, yet was she helped in a few days with the few following Medicines. Having great torment in the Belly, there was injected this Clyster: Rx the common Decoction for a Clyster ℥xii. course Sugar ℥iv. fresh Butter ℥ii. mix them. It gave two stools. But before the Clyster was administered, she took the following Electuary: Rx Spec. Liberrant. ℥i. in Conserv. Barber. It was given an hour before the Clyster. At the hour of sleep she took five grains of Bezoar, and the next morning the foresaid Electuary. The Clyster was again injected, jected, and procured three stools, which gave great ease. She often took the Gelly of Harts-horn in Broth, altered with Antiscorbutic Herbs. At the hour of sleep she took this: R. Aq. Cord. frig. Sax. ℥i. Syr. Sceletyrb. Forest. coch. ii. The third day I thus purged her: R. Man. ℥i. Rhabarb ℥i. Crem. Tartar. ℥i. Syr. Sceletyrb. Forest. ℥i. Aq. Cichor. ℥iii. Misc. This gave four stools. For her thirst she used the Decoction of Harts-horn. And thus she was cured.

OBSERV. LXVIII.

THE Lady Rainsford, aged about 62, cruelly tormented with the Stone, Fever, Thirst, Pain of the Back, was cured as followeth: R. Pul. Holland. ℥i. Tereb. Cypr. ℥ii. Misc. f. Pil. Of which was given ℥i made in five Pills. R. Ol. Scorpion. ℥i. Amygd. dulc. ℥ii. With this her Back was anointed. R. Decoct. comm. pro Clyst. ℥xii. Elect. Lenit. & Diaphænic. ā ℥i. Syr. Ros. fol. ℥iii. Misc. This gave two stools. Six hours after it came away, was given another prepared only of the said Decoction, red Sugar ℥iv. and Butter ℥iv. But note, every third hour she took the following: R. Spec. Liberant. ℥i. Syr. Papay. erratic. ℥℥. Hypoc. q. s. She rested quietly this night. R. Rhab. pul. ℥ii. Aq. Fumitor. ℥viii. bul. ad quartam Col. adde Tart. Cryst. ℥i. Syr. Diaserios ℥ii. f. Haust. This gave five stools. The following day she had a Clyster framed only of Oil of Linseed. At bed time she took this: R.

R^x Spec. Liberant. ℥ii. C.C. præp. ℥i. Tinctur. Coral, ℥ss. And so in the morning the was well.

OBSERV. LXIX.

DOCTOR Thornberry, Bishop of Worcester, aged about 86, Febr. 1. 1663. was long tormented with a Scorbutic wandering Gout, falsely imagined by his Physician to be a true Gout, as appeared not only by the frequent Change of his Urine, both in colour and substance, but also livid spots in his Thighs. He had very unquiet Nights from salt and sharp humors, and Vapors ascending to his Head; and if he did sleep, it was with terror, which happened from the sudden slaughter of one in his Family, which did much terrify and perplex his Spirits, and afflicted him grievously with Melancholy. His Pain lay sometimes in his Knee, otherwhiles in his Foot, without any tumor in the Foot, but about the Knee and Intiep there was great swelling, and after in the Feet. I said he might be eased, but never perfectly cured, which I effected as follows. I omitted purging; he being very weak, and having been before purged. He had a Gelly framed of Harts-horn, with Knuckles of Veal, Partridg, Raisins, Dates, and Antiscorbutic Herbs. It being strained, there was added a little Tincture of Saffron and Alkermes, with Sugar-candy to sweeten it. He took the Juyce of Scarvy-grass prepared in Wine twice or thrice a day. For the Pain and Tumor

Tumor was applied live-Worms, which I have often applied to others in like pains with good success. Afterwards I used the following, which removed the Tumefaction in three or four days. The Feet were bathed with this: R^x Brook-lime M^x. boyl it in sufficient quantity of Beer, for a Bath; which was used morning and night. After bathing, was applied a Pultefs framed of the Ponder of Wormwood, and Yolks of Eggs. The first night he slept more quietly. There were used also inwardly our Antiscorbutic Water, with the Juyce of Scurvy-grafs, as before, as also the Gelly. He also had an Antiscorbutic Beer. By all which he was wholly delivered from the pain and tumor in his Feet, so that he could walk abroad.

MR. Simon Underbil, aged about 40, troubled with extream Vomiting, wind of the Stomach, difficulty of breathing, constipation of the Belly and Scurvy, was cured as followeth: R^x Jalap. ℥i. Crem. Tartar. ℥ss. Tereb. Cypr. q. s. f. Pil. N. 3. which wrought well. For difficulty of breathing: R^x Spec. Pterisarchon. ℥ii. Conserv. Cochlear. ℥ii. Confect. Alkermes ℥i. Misc, Dose the quantity of a Nutmeg an hour before Meat. It was often repeated. There was also used Diacurcuma before supper ℥ii. By these he became much better, so that he sent me away, and after came home to me, and said I should either cure cure him perfectly, or kill him. The 7th of March, after his first sleep at night, he was much troubled with Wind in his Stomach, for which was used this: Rx Pul. Pan. rub. ℥ii. Conserv. Flor. Viol. & Cochlear. Misc. He slept after that better in the morning. He had a Clyster of a Decoction framed of Brook-lime, Water-creffes, Scurvy-grass, and Nettles, a ℥xii . Holland powder ℥i . Diaphænic. ℥i . Spec. Diaturb. cum Rhab. ℥i℥ . mix them, and make a Clyster. This brought away abundance of Wind. But before the Clyster he swallowed this: Rx Conserve of Scurvy-grass ℥iij. Pul. Pan. rub. ℥i. The 9th day, Rx the Juycce of Scurvy-grass prepared ℥viii. Syrup of Brook-lime and Water creffes, each ℥ii. He used Chalybiat Wine, and Elect. Plerisarch. after meat, and continuing the Antiscorbutic Beer for fourteen days, he became perfectly well.

Mrs. Swift, (dwelling with Baronet Brook at Warwick Castle, a Maid,) aged about 20, was miserably afflicted with the Mother, Convulsion of the Mouth, as also of the Arms and Hands. She had been well purged by expert Physicians, and many other Medicines fruitlessly used; yet by the assistance of God I thus cured: Rx the Decoction of Briony with Uterin Herbs ℥℥ss. Spec. Hier. Picr. ℥ii. Holland powder ℥i. make a Clyster. This injected, gave two stools with success. I gave her Aq. Hysteric. (now called Aq. Brion.) ℥i . which she vomiting up, I presently exhibited the following:

ing: R Extract. Hysteric. ℥i. Facul. Brion. ℥ss. f. Pil. N. iii. deaur. Half an hour after she had taken them, she vomited them up with some Phlegm and acid Melancholy, complaining of great heat of her Stomach, as if it were excoriated. I presently commanded she should drink half a pint of clear cold Water, which she presently cast up; it was reiterated, and as soon as it was hot in her Stomach, she cast it up again; it was again repeated, and then she contained it with ease. For her Convulsion, R Ung. Marriat. ʒ ss. Ol. Saffas. & Succin. ā gut. 5. Misc. With this was her Neck anointed. To the Navil I applied an Emplaster of Caranna, in the midst of which was put of Musk and Civet gr. v. in Cotton-wooll. For many days she used a Gelly of Harts-horn, with a little Facul. Brion. & Aron. There was used Sternut. Ruland. Being troubled with faintings, twice in an hour there was given her the following, by which she was wholly delivered: R Mosc. opt. gr. 5. Cinam. Caryoph. Nuc. Mosch. ā ℥i. cum Confect. Alkerm. f. Pil. deaur.

OBSERV. LXXII.

Mrs. Finnes, being delivered of her third Child, the third day fell into a burning Fever, with thirst and great weakness, her Midwife being with her, gave her Posset-drink made of the Juice of Limons and of Wood-forrel; and with her Chickens gave her the Juice of Sorrel as Sauce. By which her Stomach being too much cooled, she fell fell into an Hydropick Tumor, with swelling of the right Thigh and Leg, so that for the pain the Midwife could not move it. To which she applied a Plaster of red Lead, rolling it hard on; the Pain and Tumor yet increasing, I was sent for, when being come, perceiving it hard, I conceived it to be a Scorbutic Dropsy. She implored earnestly my help, being in a very desperate condition. She being almost suffocated with Phlegm, I prescribed this Lincture, Rx Syr. Hyssop. Becabung. Nasturt. aquat. & Scabios. Magistr. ā ʒi. Misc. She took of this often with a Liquoris stick, with good event. For a Clyster, Rx Mallows, Brooklime, Water-creffes, Scurvy-grass, each Mi. Roots of Fennel and Parsly, each ʒii. Tops of Elder Mʒ. boyl them in a quart of Water till it come to ʒxii. in the straining dissolve course Sugar ʒiv. Misc. This cast in, purged her well of Wind and Phlegm. It was reiterated the next day with good success. At bed-time she took this: Rx Pul. Pan. rub. ʒʒ. C. C. præp. ʒʒ. Confect. Alkerm. cum Syr. Limon. f. Bol. That night she was in a fine moist sweat. It was repeated the next morning. She was subject to fainting upon rising, or when moved, for which I appointed this: Rx Conserv. Coch. ʒiii. Spec. Ple-risarch. ʒʒ. Misc. She took the quantity of a Nutmeg three hours before she rose. Multitude of business calling me away, and hindering my return to her, she sent again to me, telling me she had like to have been suffocated with Phlegm the night before; for which I repeated the foresaid Syrup, and our Antiscorbutic Water, of which she took every morning six spoonfuls, as also at bed-time, By these she was recovered beyond all Liguoris ʒi. Sarsaparilla ʒii. Saffron ʒi. Cortic. Winteran. ʒ℔. It stood fourteen days before it was drunk of, and then there was taken a draught in the morning fasting, as also before dinner and supper, and at going to bed. For the Contraction of the Leg, from the beginning, was used the following: Rx Ol. Cham. Lumbric. de Castor. ā ʒi. Ping. Anser. Gallin. ā ʒ℔. Ung. Dialth. ʒii. Succ. ē Fol. Cochlear. Recabung. Nastur. aquat. ā ʒi. Cer. q. s. f. Unguent. This proved excellent, for in three days space she was able to go with a Staff, Every day she also took four ounces of the following: *Rx Scurvy-grass, Water-cresses, equal parts, Brook-lime half so much; beat them in a stone Mortar, and boyl them in Milk, pouring not much Liquor upon them; and drank it as before, till the Beer was ready. She took the following Clyster twice a week: Rx of a Childs Urine ℥ xii. in which boill Leaven ℥i℔. Seeds of Fennel, Anis, and Dill, each ℥i℔. purified Honey ℥i. make a Clyster. And so she was restored to her former health.

Mrs. Wilson, who for the recovery of her health, took a Journey to Bristol, for as she thought she was tormented with the Stone, for which she drank of St. Vincent's Well too greedily, to the quantity of eighteen pints a day, for the expelling of the Stone; so that thereby cooling her Body too much, she fell into a Palsy. She presently got her self conveyed to the Bath, where being purged by Dr. Lapworth, and using the Bath, she was restored. Returning home in rainy and tempestuous weather, that night she was assaulted with the Mother, with fainting, and a light Palsy on the left side. To whom being called, by Divine assistance I helped as followeth: Rx Aloes lucid. ℥ii. Agaric. Troch. rec. Rhab. elect. ā ℥i. Cortic. Rad. Cappar. Winteran. Tamarisc. ā ℥i. Fecule Brion. & Aron. ā ℥ss. Castor ℥ss. Crem. Tartar. ℥ss. Spir. Succini gr. iv. cum Syr. de Fumar. compos. q. s. f. Pil. N. 6. ex ℥i. Of which she took three at a night when she went to bed, which gave her four Stools the next day. For the wind of her Stomach, Rx Spec. Diamb. ℥i. Ol. Salv. Chy. Nuc. Mosch. Caryoph. ā gut. iv. Sacch. in Aq. Ros. dissol. ℥ii. f. Roul. To be taken after meat. For the Palsy, Rx Spir. Rorismar. Ol. Succin. ā part. eq. With which her Neck was gently anointed. For fainting, Rx Spec. Pterisarch. ℥ss. Sacch. opt. ℥ii. Misc. Dose half a spoonful. When she fainted, this delivered her both from her fainting, fainting, and trembling of her Heart, with which she had usually been troubled. It is a Powder worth Gold, which I always carry about with me. She used also this Decoction: Rx Guaiacum ℥viii. Bark of the same, Rosemary, Sassafras, Sarsaparilla, each ℥i. Betony, Sage, Lavender, Germanander, each p. i. Roots of Elicampana, Piony, Oris, Citron Pills dried, each ℥i. Spring water lbvi. infuse them for twenty four hours in a hot place, after boyl them in a close Vessel; after straining, sweeten it with Sugar, and aromatize it with Spec. Diamb. ℥ss. She took ℥vi of it in the morning, and sweat, and as much at four a clock in the afternoon, without sweating. She had Clysters framed of the common Decoction, and Carminative seeds, to which was added Holland powder. She used also Cyprus Terbentine framed into Pills very often. And thus she was delivered from all these, and danger of Death.

Mrs. Wagstaff of Warwick, (Widow) aged about 48, was troubled with a continual vomiting, pain of the Stomach and Head, as if pricked or stabbed with Needles and Daggers; also she had pain of her Loins, and numbness of her Feet, whom I cured as followeth: Rx our Emetic Infusion ℥vi. It gave her three vomits, and three Stools. For the pain of the Stomach, Rx new Conserve of Roses ℥i. Spec. Aromat. Rosar. ℥i. Theriac. Lond. ℥i. Misc. For two Doses. For the Back, Rx Oil of Scorpions ℥ii. Oil of sweet Almonds ℥ii.

Mrs. Cooks, near 48, of a thin body, was much troubled with pain of the Stomach, darkness of the Eyes, deafness and noise in the Ears, beating of the Heart, with several other Symptoms toms, constant Companions of Flatus Hypochondriacus, arising from the ill Disposition and Obstructions of the Liver and Spleen, whom I cured as followeth: First I purged the first ways with the following: *Rx Sarsapar. ʒii. Hermodact. ʒiʒ. Guaiac. Liquor. ā ʒi. Sen. ʒii. Polipod. Querc. ʒii. Epithem. ʒʒ. Enul. Camp. ʒvi. Agaric. Rhab. ā ʒii. Sem. Anis. Carni. Coriand. ā ʒʒ. Twice a week was given of the following: Rx Pil. Stomach. sine quib. ā ʒʒ. de Peon. Chamepit. ā ʒi. f. Pil. N. 12. Of which three was given at the hour of sleep. After was taken the Electuary prescribed Observ. 72. Of Conserve of Scurvy grass, ʒii. &c. For deafness was used Carduus benedictus Water, twice distilled, and dropped into the Ear. By these she was perfectly cured.

Nurse Degle of Bengwort, aged 29, troubled with spitting of blood from the Lungs, as also with the yellow Jaundice, was cured as followeth: Rx Oxymel simpl. ʒiv. Syr. Capil. Vener. ʒii. Misc. for two mornings. After she was thus purged:

purged: R Rhab. Pul. ʒi . Syr. Ros. Sol. ʒi . Aq. Plantag. ʒiv . Syr. Capil. ven. ʒi . Misc. Being thus well purged, she had a Vein opened. After Astringents were used, as, R *Lapid. OBSERV. LXXX.

Mrs. Editba Staughton, aged 17, was miserably afflicted with Melancholy, her Courses as yet not having broken forth, as also with the Mother; she was very easily angry with her nearest Friends, so that she continually cried out that her Parents would kill her, as also of all others that came unto her. She had been purged well by expert Physicians, yet her Father desired my counsel, whether she was curable; to which

I answered, Very hardly, being her Constitution was Melancholy. I advised there should be few to trouble her, and so began with emollient and discutive Clysters, as also such as respected the Humor: As \mathcal{R} of Chicken-broth (wherein was boiled Sorrel, Pimpernel, Borage, Hyssop) ℥i . common Oil ℥iiss . Salt of Tartar ℥i . make a Clyster. This was used two days. After she was thus purged: \mathcal{R} of the foresaid Broth ℥v . Cream of Tartar ℥iv . Oil of Vitriol 5 drops, make a Potion. By this the Humor was rendred more obsequious. After was opened a Vein on the left Arm. She was the next day after purged again. After was applied the Leeches to the Hemorrhoids. Again she was purged with an Helleborated Apple, in which Apple was rosted ℥i of Hellebore; afterward the Hellebore was cast away, and the Apple given. Being well purged, we laboured to divert the Humor from the Brain by Ligatures and strong Clysters, strengthening the principal parts with the following: \mathcal{R} Conserve of Roses vitriolated, Borage, Bugloss, each ℥i . candied Citron Pills, Conserve of Clove Gilly-flowers, each ℥ss . Spec. de Gem. Lætific. ā ℥ii . Hyacinth. præp. ℥i . Confect. Alkerm. ℥i . Spec. Diamarg. frigid. ā ℥iss . with the Syrup of Apples make an Electuary. The Dose was ℥i before meat. To discuss wind, that Pouder was used, prescribed Observ. 34. Cent. 1. As, \mathcal{R} Coriand. præp. ℥ii . Sem. Fenic. &c. It was given after meat. There was also used the following Wines: \mathcal{R} the opening Roots, each ℥i . Bark of Cappar roots ℥i . Sassafras ℥iss . Wormwood, Ground-pine, each ℥i . Ceterach, Balm, Germander, each ℥i . Flowers of Borage, Bugloss, Scabious, each ℥i .

p. ii. Broom leaves p. i. seeds of Fennel ʒi . of Caraway, and sem. Siler. Montan. of each ʒi . All these were beaten, and put into a Vessel, in which was put the shavings of Juniper, and there was poured upon them of White-wine lb xxx . And so being well stopped, they were set in a Cellar. After they were infused eight days, I took 9 lb of it, wherein I infused R^ubarb ʒvi . Sena ʒii . Mechoacan ʒʒ . Dodder and Cinamon, each ʒʒ . Cloves ʒi . And so it was used instead of Purges. It was given every morning two hours before dinner, with taking some spoonfuls of Broth. After three days taking, she had that prescribed for comforting the Brain and Heart. In all Medicines we added Humectors. For her watching, I gave at bedtime a spoonful of Diacodium. This caused rest, and in it she sweat. There was Tartar often used by reason of its great force in contemporating Melancholy, and Atra bilis. And thus by the blessing of God she was delivered from her Disorder.

OBSERV. LXXXI.

MR. John Trap, (Minister, for his piety and learning second to none) about the 33 year of his age, of a melancholy temper, and by much Study fell into Hypochondriac Melancholy, and pain of the Spleen, with some Scorbutic Symptoms, viz. difficulty of breathing after gentle motion of the Body, beating of the Heart, with fainting at the rising of the Vapours, and became became a little better when they were dispersed. He had a gentle Erratic Fever, so that he was much amaciated; after he had done preaching on the Sabbath, he could scarce speak; his Urine changed often, his Pulse was mutable and unequal, and he languished much. Some ordinary Medicines were used, but not succeeding, he desired my help and counsel, which was readily performed by me in prescribing the following, by which he was restored from the very jaws of Death, both safely, quickly, and pleasantly. March 11. 1635.

R Tartar. Vitriolat. ℥iv. in pomo sub cineribus coct.
 With this he had two Stools, and his Urine came in greater quantity, but like clear Spring water. The 12th day, R Merc. dulc. gr. xx. Tart. Vitri. ℥i. Gut. Gamb. præp. gr. iii. Misc. This was given in the Pap of an Apple; it gave him four Stools. The 14th day he took \mathfrak{z} i of Cream of Tartar, it gave one Stool. For his Cough and Catarrh, in the night he held in his Mouth one of our pectoral Rolls. The 15th he took of our Chalybiat Wine; as R Vin. Chalyb. ℥iv. Syr. Sceletyrb. Forest. ℥iii. Misc. The first day he took two spoonfuls, the second day four, exercising two hours after. For the strengthning of the Spleen, R Raisins of the Sun lbj. boyl them in Sack to the consistence of a Pulstess, pass it through a strainer, and mix therewith Conserve of Rosemary flowers, of Bugloss, each ℥℥. Spec. Leticificant. Aromat. Rosar. Diamarg. calid. Diacinam. each ℥ij. Lig. Aloes adorti. ℥℥. candied Citron Pills, Cinamon, each ℥i. Chalyb. præp. cum Sulphur, ℥℥. Saffron ℥i. mix them. The Dose was the quantity of a Filbert in the morning. The 19th, R Syr. Magist. ad Melanchol.

Lanchol. ℥ii. Aq. Buglos. ℥ii. Tartar. subtilif. pul. Misc. It gave four stools. The next day he took the Chalybiat Wine. April the 2. he was purged as before, with which he was cheared for three days after he took the Wine. The seventh day he purged with Cream of Tartar ℥i. Now he had our Antiscorbutic Beer; and his Electuary being ended, he took six Spoonfuls of the following Water: R̄ Aq. Limacum nostr. Aq. Ranar. simpl. ā ℥iv. Confect. Alkermes ℥ii. Manus Christ. perl. ℥ss. Syr. Sceletyrb. Forest. ℥ii. Aq. nost. Antiscorbutic. ℥vi. Splenetic. ℥ii. (both Doncrelius) Misc. This being ended, he desired his Electuary again, in which he said the greatest hope of his Cure lay, and was worth Gold. He having it, used it for eight days, purging every fourth day. But being much troubled with bitterness of his Mouth, I gave him ℥v of our Emetic Infusion, which removed it, and he returned to the use of his Electuary. And thus by God's blessing he was freed from all his Symptoms, and was well cured, for which he returned me hearty thanks.

OBSERV. LXXXII.

THE Earl of Northampton, aged about 32, being following his Hounds in a cold and rainy day, got cold, and suddenly was miserably tormented with a flatuous Pleurisy, and pain of the Belly, like to a true Pleurisy. He had a small Cough, was restless, feverish, thirsty, and the Pain was stretching. I being present when he came home, prescribed prescribed this Clyster: R Decoct. com. pro Clyst. ℥i. Diaphænic. Diacatholic. ā ʒi. Pul. Hol. ʒii. f. Clyst. This gave three stools with much wind, and desired event, for the Pain was mitigated; yet in his Breast he felt a pricking, to remove which was this prescribed: R Ung. de Alb. ʒii. Ol. Amygd. dulc. ʒ℥. dissol. & misce ad ign. pro Ung. With which his Breast and Side was anointed, and upon it a double linnen Cloth spread with Butter warm'd. By this the Pain remitted, and he had a quiet night, and fell to sleep. The day following he used this expectorating Syrup: R Syr. Scabios. Magistral. Capil. Vener. Liguor. Hyssop. ā ʒi. Misc. He took it often upon a Liguoris stick. In the night he held in his Mouth one of our Pectoral Rolls. In the morning he was anointed again, and so was freed from all his pain, and he became whole.

Thus have I dispatched what I had of the Author; and if I add any more to compleat the Century, I hope it will not be offensive.

OBSERV. LXXXIII.

IN a Quotidian and Bastard Tertian, after the Body hath been well evacuated, the following hath been often experimented by Thonerus: R Carduus benedictus, and the lesser Centaury, each M ii. Sometimes add Roots of Assarabacca boyled in White-wine and Water to ℥i. Of the straining exhibit ʒiv, hot for several mornings, especially if the Members be tumified. It is to be taken in Bed, sweating.

I remember great Zacutus in Quotidians and other of long continuance, when other Remedies long used had proved fruitless, found most effectual ζ iv of the Juyce of Fennel Roots, given in a morning with Sugar fasting, for ten days. It is to be given in bed, being well covered; it most frequently provokes sweat abundantly; in some it procures spitting of abundance of tough Phlegm; in others it breaks wind both upwards and downwards. I cannot pass that of his in Febris Epiala, wherein cold and heat, if felt at one time, caused from pituitous gross Phlegm, and bitter Choler, which also is excellent in Bastard Tertians, which is this: \mathcal{R} Flowers of Chamomel (I have experimented the Herb it self, yea in various effects,) p. iii. tops of Roman or Pontick Wormwood p. ii. boyl them in three pints of Water till half be wasted; to the straining, add Sugar ζ iv. Vid. Author. Prax. Histor. pag. 592. & Prax. admirand. pag. 101. both in Folio. Thoner. p. 73. The Dose of the last, which I had almost forgot, is ζ v or vi every day.

One more of Thonerus in the same page for a Quotidian in his Wife: \mathcal{R} Carduus benedictus \mathcal{J} ii. Gentian root \mathcal{J} i. f. Pul. It was given in Wine before the Fit, and cured her; it caused vomit. Hence it concludes, that Emeticks and Diaphoreticks are more needful than Purges in intermitting Fevers.

OBSERV. LXXXIV.

THe same Tbonerus, pag. 76. and 79. of his Observations, gives us in two Cures of a Quartan. The first of a Captain, of melancholy nature, livid aspect, black beard, who having been molested with a Quartan, and the Cure successlesly endeavoured by various means, and other Physicians, he cured with this: Rx Polipody of the Oak new gathered ʒß. the roots of Succory, Fennel, Butchers-broom, and Sparagus, each ʒii. Wormwood, Centaury, Betony, Dodder, Agrimony, Ceterach, each p. ii. both Maiden-hairs p. i. Sena ʒiß. Agaric. Troch. ʒiii. Rubarb, Turbith, Gum, ā ʒii. Crem. Tart. ʒiß. Seeds of Anis, Galangal, each ʒß. with white Sarcenet make a Bag, for three quarts of Wine, and Betony water, and of Succory, each tßß. Within a few days the Fever remitted.

The other was performed upon a certain noble Officer, who although otherwise he was of a robust nature, yet having long laboured of a Quartan, other means proving empty, it was removed by this: Rx Gala. ʒiv. Diagrid. prep. gr. vi. Crem. Tart. ʒß. f. Pul. It was given in ʒiii of Hydromel. It brought away abundance of vitious Humors.

Zacutus tells us, he cured a contumacious Quartan, with opening the Salvatella in the Foot, in Prax. Hist. pag. 596.

Riverius gives several Observations of the Cure of this obstinate Disease. One of a Girl, aged 14, in Novemb. 1630. who for two months laboured of a double Quartan, whom he cured by the infusion of ζi of Sena in his Aq. Febrifuga for several days; the fourth taking, cured. Another aged 30, labouring of a Quartan, Decemb. in the same year, was cured by the same means, at the seventh taking. These are both in his first Century, pag. 32. His Aq. Febrifug. you surely have in his Prax. Med. chap. 4. lib. 17. We have him curing almost all others with his Febrifug. which he gives you an obscure description of in pag. 319 of his Cent. In imitation whereof I framed a Pouder of three parts of Merc. dulc. and one of Croc. Metal. with which I have cured some. I will not say if the Merc. could be got here twelve times calcined, that I had got his Secret; but I should think I had got that which would prevail.

OBSERV. LXXXV.

THE Author hath given in some Observations of Distillations on the Eyes, of none falling elsewhere, that I remember. Riverius in his third Century affords us an Observation on himself, which fell out Novemb. 17. 1644. The South Wind blowing, he was troubled with a Catarrh and hoarseness. The second day of the Disease he kept his Bed, and took nothing, only twice of an Hordeat at usual times of eating. The third day he took a laxative Pilsan with ζi of Manna. The fourth day he rested, his Hoarseness much diminished.

minished. The fifth day, a dry Cough being present, a Vein was opened. The sixth day the Cough persevering, he took Calomelanus ℥i. cum Resina Jalap. gr. viij. It did little till towards evening, when it gave two small stools; yet the Cough was altogether removed. I hope any that have heedfully read his Observations may observe, that his Calomel. is Merc. dulc. This I conjectured before the last Impression of his Praxeos Medic. And in that I think the Case is undisputably resolved, if he compare his Observation concerning Worms, and his Chapter about the same in his Praxeos; only remember, it must be six times prepared. The same Distemper he cured himself of with twice taking Laud. Opiat. the first time gr. 3. the next time gr. ii Cent. 3. Observ. 69. Only this is observable in his communicated Observ. viz. That in most violent Catarrhs nothing stays sooner than this of Rulandus: R Ferment. acrioris ℥ii. Carab. pulver. ℥ii. f. Catap. which is to be applied to the Suture, the hair being removed.

Thonerus tells us, that one being obnoxious to a Chronic Catarrh, other things being fruitless, was cured with the following, drawn up into the Nose, and the Decoction of Sassafras for Drink. R Fol. Nicotian. cum Ol. Anis. præp. ℥i. Flor. Majoran. ℥i. Mosc. gr. i. f. Pul.

OBSERV. LXXXVI.

E*mpyema*, a Suppuration from a Pleurisy, hath not yet been mentioned, I might heap up Observations of its Cure, both by operation of the Side, and by internal means. I my self cured one that had made its own passage without injection, only keeping a Leaden Pipe, an attractive Emplaster upon it, and the Diet-drink prescribed by Riverius, in his Chap. of Empyema. And he gives us two Observ. both which was opened, and after cured, Observ. 79. Cent. 1. and Observ. 75. Cent. 2. To the latter, being a Child, for some days he applied an emollient and attracting Cataplasin before Incision. Zacutus helps us with the like, Observ. 120. lib. 1. Prax. admirand. But for the cure of one without apertion, take Thoner. Observ. 6. lib. 3. which he performed by helping Nature to expectoration, although the Empyema was very grievous: R Aq. Hyssop. Veronic. prass. Card. bened. Scabios. Cheresol. ā ʒiij. Sacch. cand. alb. ʒvi. Of this surely he drank. R Spec. Diarr. Sem. Div. Diatrag. calid. ʒii. Extract. Rad. Enul. ʒj. Ol. Anis. gut. iv. Sacch. dissol. in Aq. Scab. ʒiv. f. Rotul. By these the noble Lord in a short time was cured.

OBSERV,

OBSERV. LXXXVII.

ONe molested with Chronic straitness of the Breast, often returning from a crass Phlegm adhering as Glue, was eased with nothing so much as the following Pouder, a drachm of which was given with Wine or Broth, yea, this he fled to as his only help, if he felt any ill: R Sena ℥ii: Jalap powdered ℥℥. Diagridium prepared ℥ii℥. Crem. Tart. ℥ii℥. Cinamon, Anis seeds, ā ℥i. Cloves, Ginger, ā ℥℥. f. Pul. It is also most excellent in affects of the Head and Stomach from Phlegm. Thoner.

OBSERV. LXXXVIII.

A Flatuous Pleurisy you have mentioned in Observ. 83. of this Cent. but of a true Pleurisy there is no Observ. that I remember by the Author; we shall supply therefore this defect from other Authors.

Riverius in Observ. 56. Cent. 1. tells us, after many bleedings, and other ordinary Remedies, the fifth day the Fever continuing violent, as also the pain in the Side, was cured by ℥i of Frankinsence roasted in an Apple, and eaten, and after drinking Carduus benedictus water ℥iv. Being well covered, he sweat a little, with decrease of the Fever; the next day he sweat much twice or thrice, and he became well. This I made trial of on one

John

John Fort, whom I let blood several times, and used both anointing and Linctures, yet all prevailed not; only I repeated Thus de Pom. twice or thrice.

Zacutus in one of his Observations helped us to an Ointment which I have found to answer expectation; it is this: Rx Unguent. de Alb. ℥i. Ol. Amygd. dulc. ℥ss. Misc. 'Tis thus to be used; after the pained Side is anointed with it hot, there must be strewed upon it some Pouder of the Flowers of Chamomel, upon this a Cabbage leaf anointed either with Butter or Hogs grease.

Thonerus acquaints us, that he cured one by exhibiting ℥ii of Oil of sweet Almonds, with Henbroth hot; by this he cast up abundance of Phlegm, and gave some stools: and this he often observed. Take one more of his, in which first he opened the Mediana of the same Side. To mitigate the pain, was used this: Rx Ol. Amygd. dulc. ℥ii. Sacch. cand. alb. ℥i. Misc. By this the Pain was much remitted, and he had ten stools after. Twice or thrice a day he took ℥iij of the following Decoction: Rx the Flowers of red Poppies M. i. Scabious water ℥iiss. Waters of Carduus and Corn-Poppy, each ℥iii. boyl them gently with a little Sugar make a Julep. This prohibited the Flux, and qualified the Inflammation. To absterge, Rx Waters of Hyssop and Carduus, each ℥iiss. of Scabious ℥ii. of Coltsfoot and Chervil, each ℥iiss. White Sugar candy ℥vi. Man. Christ. perlat. ℥ii. Misc. In few days he became well, although the sick Man himself despaired of Life.

OBSERV. LXXXIX.

A Maid, aged 18, was so vehemently molested with the beating of the Heart, that its motion was not only felt but seen, from a serous and vaporous matter environing the Pericardium, or Purse of the Heart, with a notable paleness of Face, and livid Lips, with which was conjoined the Green-sickness arising from a thick and tough pituitous humor mixed with Bile, as also the Obstructions of the Meseraick. To cleanse the whole Body, open the Obstructions, and to strengthen the Bowels serving to Concoction, the following was appointed: R roots of Succory, Elicampaña, Fennel, and Aven, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Roman Wormwood, Carduus benedictus, Centaury, Germander, Dodder, Balm, both Maiden-hairs, each p. i . Sena $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Rubarb $\mathfrak{z}\text{iii}$. Agarick new trochiscated $\mathfrak{z}\text{ii}$. Mechoac. $\mathfrak{z}\text{iss}$. Cream of Tartar $\mathfrak{z}\text{iv}$. Cinamon $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Galangal $\mathfrak{z}\text{iss}$. Anis seed $\mathfrak{z}\text{ss}$. make a Bag for three quarts of Wine, and Waters of Succory and Carduus benedictus, each $\mathfrak{lb}\text{ss}$. Every other day she drank of it a pint. In the mean time this was exhibited: R Rubarb $\mathfrak{z}\text{iiiss}$. Jalap, Cream of Tartar, each $\mathfrak{z}\text{ss}$. make a Powder. It was given in Broth with happy success. R Spec. Diagaling. aromat. Caryophil. Diacinam. ā $\mathfrak{z}\text{i}$. Dianis. $\mathfrak{z}\text{ss}$. *Man. A Woman so troubled with the after-pains, from the impurity of the Womb, insomuch that she thought she should die, was eased by the following: R Herbs of Mallow, Mercury, Betony, Balm, ā Mʒ. Oil of Chamomel, Dil, and sweet Almonds, ā ʒi. Honey of Rosemary flowers ʒi. the Yolk of an Egg, and a little Salt; f. Clyst. The pain not ceasing with this, the following was cast in, R Oils of Chamomel, Dil, and sweet Almonds, each ʒii. red Sugar, Rosemary flowers, and Hony, each ʒi. two yolks of Eggs, and half a pint of Hen-broth, make a Clyster. This was repeated; she highly commended the Physick and Physician. Those Clysters in torments of the Belly retained two or three hours, oftentimes so mollifie the Excre-

Excrements, that it is wont to provoke to more stools than a purging Clyster. Thus Thonerus.

I have often given ease to Women, by exhibiting a draught or two of Chamomel Posset-drink, with a Pouder framed of Nutmeg, Aniseed, and Cinamon. Zacutus highly commends his Pouder prescribed in Prax. Hist. lib. 3. chap. 20. That's more cheap, and may be as effectual, prescribed by Riverius, R of Comfry roots dried ℥i. Peach Kernels, and Nutmeg, each ℥ii. Amber ℥ss. Amber-grease ℥ss. of all which make a Pouder. Dose ℥i in White-wine, unless a Fever be present, and then give it Broth.

I my self have cured some by first giving them Vinum Rubel. ʒi. afterward the following Pouder: R. Chalyb. præp. cum Sulph. ʒi. Sem. Anis. ʒii. Nuc. Mosch. N^o i. Sacch. fini. ʒiv. f. Pul. subtilis. Dose ʒii or ʒiii. every day for fourteen days.

Riverius tells you, he cured one troubled with it joined with the Cholick, first by purging with a Potion purging Phlegm, a Vein being opened the day before, and also three days after, as I remember. After she took every morning Spirit of Tartar ʒss. with the Decoction of common Wormwood. The second time given, the Cholick vanished, and in continuing it for ten days, she was perfectly cured. For drink she used White-wine, wherein prepared Steel had been infused, which she continued for some time after. She was grievously afflicted with Obstructions of Liver and Spleen, was thirsty, her Courses suppressed, tension of the Sides, and a very ill colour of the whole Body, her Cholick afflicted her twice or thrice a day.

OBSERV. XCII.

HEmorrhages of Nose, and some other parts, have been dispatched by the Author. We shall give in briefly some of the Womb, out of others, and such only as are after the Birth and Abortion.

Riverius tells us of a Woman, after miscarrying suffering even to the greatest dejection of strength from an immoderate Flux of blood, whom he

he cured as followeth: He prescribed Frixions and Ligatures to the upper parts, Cups under the Paps, also Epythems and Pigeons, fomented her hands with hot Wine, and Confect. Alkerm. and the following Potion: Rx the Water of Plantain, Orange flower water, and Roses, ā ʒi. Syrup of Coral ʒi. Sal. Prunellæ ʒi. Dragons blood ʒss. make a Potion. Which being presently given, before the other Remedies were performed, yea, within a quarter of an hour, her pain of Belly and Loins was eased, and her Flux diminished, so that there needed no other Remedies.

And Observ. 96. Cent. 1. Thonerus informs us, that he cured a Citizens Wife of Ulm, who in Child-bed was sore troubled with Hemorrhoids of her Womb, with fainting, to whom he gave the following: Rx East Bezoar. gr. iv. prepared Pearl ʒss. with Borage water ʒi. Her Symptoms vanished. Rx Magist. Coral. gr. xii. It was given in Broth. For drink, Rx Syrup. Granat. Coral. ā ʒiss. in Aq. in q. Frustul. Auri. candesc. extinctum. He cured another with this: Rx Coral. rub. præp. ʒij. Margar. ʒss. Bol. Arm. præp. ʒi. f. Pul. It was given in Hen-broth. And to conclude, he tells us of a Maid suffering under the overflowing of her Courses; when other things were fruitless, she was helped with Tincture of Coral, which he saith is so helpful, as that it may be noted as a white Stone:

OBSERV. XCIII.

THe Stoppage of Urine, and Strangury, i. e. pissing by little, as drop by drop, may be joined together; the one being a total, the other a partial suppression of Urine; the total may be either true or bastard. The latter befell one Goody Brown in Warwick, who could not make water at all, and yet no fulness on the region of the Bladder, nor desire to make water. After I had used all means to procure it, as Clysters, Ointments, Cataplasms, and Catheter, she died. I opened her, and found her Bladder quite empty, and in her Kidneys several Stones, one in each Kidney fallen into the mouths of the Ureters, or passages of the Urine, like two Stopples, so that no Urine could pass.

Thonerus affords us an Observation of both Stranguria and Ischuria, with which one of 70 years being cruelly tormented, as if in labour in casting out the Urine by little and little, and yet fruitless, from the cold distemper of the Bladder, with redundancy of Phlegmatick Humors, who was cured as follows: R Mallows, Pellitory, Mercury, Betony, each Mi. Chamomel, Melilot, Dil, each M℞. Seeds of Fennel, Anis, Carraway, each ℥ii. Linseed ℥iii. boyl them to the third part; in $\frac{2}{3}$ of the straining, dissolve lenitive Electuary ℥vi.  rectified, six drops, in two or three spoonfuls of Parsly-water hot, or Broth of a Hen, did prevail much. He tells us in suppression of Urine, in a continual Fever, he used the following with admirable success: R̄ Pellitory of the Wall M̄iv. boyl
 it to the consistence of a Cataplasim; add Oil of white Lillies ℥ii. of Scorpions ℥i. make a Cataplasim.

OBSERV. XCIV.

PAINS in various persons are exceeding troublesom, and sometimes intolerable; they come sometimes from outward Causes, as Sprains, Blows, or Falls; in which case I have applied two Plasters with admirable success; one was Emplastrum Cro- catum, vid. Mel. Chirurg. the other Melilot simplex.
 Others come from Defluxions, and of these receive these Observations of Thonerus.

A Woman troubled with a grievous Pain night and day of the right Arm, from the shoulder downwards, with a Tumor, so that she could not lift it up, in few days the Pain and Tumor was removed with this: R̄ Diacalcith. ℥i. de Melilot ℥ib. Misc. It was spread upon Linnen.

A Maid cruelly tormented with pain of the right Arm also, was eased in one day with a Plaster of Taccamahacca spread upon Leather, as also many others, when from a cold cause.

Another vexed with a great pain of the Loins, from a Defluxion, was thus cured: R White-bread Crums infused in Milk, after (if you will) pass them through a Sieve, add the Yolk of an Egg, and fresh Butter, with so much of the following Oils as was fitting: R Oils of Chamomel, Dil, white Lillies, each ʒii . of Earth-worms ʒiſs . mix them. The Pullets being spread on Cloth, apply it hot. This gave present ease.

A Widow being troubled with the like pain, being aged 70 years, was cured with this: R Ung. de Alb. Anodin. $\text{ā } \text{ʒii}$. Pingued. Cunic. ʒiſs . Ol. Scorp. ʒii . Misc. In pain of Feet and Arms he often used a Cataplasm of new Cows dung, with Oil of Roses, with good success.

One having a grievous pain in her Thighs, as if moved with Convulsion, was cured with the following: R Ol. Hirund. cum Castor. ʒi . Aq. Theriac. Cephalic. Spir. Lil. Conval. $\text{ā } \text{ʒii}$. Misc. It was used hot.

Another Woman having a grievous pain of the whole right Arm, was cured with this: R Oil of Earth-worms, Fats of a Man, Dog, and Badger, $\text{ā } \text{ʒii}$. mix them. It was used hot. Another with a long pain of the right Arm, was cured with a Plaster of Oxycroceum. Such Pains I have oft-times cured with either Emplastr. Crocatum, or else with Paracelsus, two parts, and one part of Oxycroceum, dissolved with a little Oil of Dil.

OBSERV. XCV.

THe French Pox hath been cured by Thoneris as followeth: A Woman infected therewith, with Scabs, and excreſcence in Anus, having been before under a Chirurgeons hand, I cured thus. *Rx Elect. Diacath. Confect. Ham. ā ʒʒ. Pul. San. Lax. ʒii. f. Bol. by intervals. Rx Mas. Pil. Hermod. aurear. Coch. ā ʒi. cum Aq. Betonic. Rx Mas. Pil. Aurear. Coch. de Fumar. ā ʒi. Diagrid. gr. iii. cum Aq. Riverius tells us he hath cured many with a Sudorific and purging Decoction, taken for twenty days; and if this prevailed not, he used Ung. Mercur. In the midst of Winter he cured many with the said Decoction alone, in which a Sudorific Diet could not be administred, by reason of the sharpness of the Air.*

He also gave in an Observation of a Child of thirty months old, which it received from the Nurse, the Body being scabbed all over. Rx Rasur. Lign. Guaiac. ʒii. Aq. Font. ʒbii. infund. per 24 hor. deind. bull. ad 3 part. consump. Colat. Pul. tenuis. which was given with one or two spoonfuls of Panada sugared; upon it drinking a little Broth. This was used every fifth day, and the Dose of both increased according to working. The residence of the foresaid Decoction being boiled in three pints of Water, made an ordinary Drink, adding Sugar and Liquoris to gratify the taste. These Remedies continued a month, it became well. In our Mellif. Chirurg. is set down a purging Drink that hath cured several in Warwick-shire.

OBSERV. XCVI.

Struma's, vulgarly called the Kings-Evil, have been cured as follows, by Zacutus, with the following, which he takes God to witness, never failed him: Take the great root of Briony well wash'd, and cut it in small pieces, boyl it in lbiii of Oil, till it be wasted; to the straining, add Terbentine lbss. Wax ℥iv. and the Vessel removed from the Fire, make an Unguent. This he spread upon Cloth, and applied it twice a day; if it be not ulcerated, it either mollifies and resolves them, or brings them to suppuration. Therefore this Ointment draws to it self by little and little the Humor turned into Sanies, cleanseth the Ulcer, mundifies, and incarns. If it do not bring away the roots, then put upon the Ung. a little Sublimate, like a Mustard-seed, for this draws the Mucous to it self. If upon the application of this, there follow heat, burning, and inflammation, for some days content your self with applying the Ointment only; if the heat and burning be very much, anoint the part with COUNS. XI.

Hurt in the Eye.

THe Honourable, Mr. Algernoon Grevil, being hurt with a Foil in the Eye, was cured by Dr. Bates's direction, which was as followeth : The Foil being run into his left Eye, it presently swell'd, and he bled at the Nose, and was troubled all the afternoon with vomiting. There was immediatly applied to it a Plaster of Conserve of Rofes. At night Dr. Bates being sent for, he prescribed what follows : He took a Clyſter of a pint of new Milk, and six ſpoonfuls of Sugar. As ſoon as it had done working, he bled ʒviij from the Cephalic on the ſame ſide. After was applied this : Take green Wormwood M ſs. Carduus M ſs. red Roſes M ij.

Mij. boyl them in Milk and Water to a Pulstess, being taken from the Fire, there was added the Yolks and Whites of three Eggs well beaten, and after all well mixed. It was to be applied warm every seventh hour. But these not being to be had, was appointed Chamomel, Violet leaves, and Smalage, each Mi. The next morning he took Manna ℥ii. Syrup of Roses three spoonfulls, in a pint of Whey, several times, till all was drunk up. That morning was appointed two Leeches to be applied behind the Ear, and as many to the Temples, to prevent the growing Film. And then was applied this Pulstess: Take leaves of Hyssop, beat them in a Mortar, like a Conserve, after put to it a little warm Water, and a little washed Butter, and a little prepared Tatty, and so applied to the Eye affected. To the Eyebrow was applied Empl. ad Hern. spread upon Taffaty Ribbon, about an inch broad, and two or three inches long. After this the Eye mended, but seemed lesser than the other, and he had about it somewhat an obtuse pain, whereupon for fear that some bruised blood might remain, he had four Leeches applied to the Temple-Veins on the same side; and the next Pulstess was applied at night for a week together: Take Flowers of Broom, Elder, each ℥iii. of St. Johns-wort ℥ss. the seeds of the last ℥vi. leaves of Sage Mi. Kings-Evil.

Mrs. Martha Throgmorton, the Daughter of the foresaid Esquire, being troubled with Scrofula's Tumors, with a Tumor possessing most part of the Thigh, by the same Doctor. That in the Thigh fluctuating in pressing of it in several places at once, it was intended to be opened. The Doctor desired to do it himself with my Incision Knife, which done, the Matter flowed out plentifully. I desired he would please to stop, and not take too much; but he thinking her strength good, and matter in abundance, let it run; but beginning to change, he stopt, and she presently fainted; being instantly laid upon a Bed near. After she fell into a Fever, and Convulsive Motions, for which he commanded me to open a Vein, which I did two days together, and applied Cups to her Shoulders, with Scarifications, for two or three days; after which she was let blood in the foot. The Fever and Convulsive Motions removed, she was purged with the following: R̄ Diaturb. cum Rhabarb. ʒi. Merc. dulc. ʒss. Syr. Aurant. q. s. f. Bol. This was taken in a Wafer twice a week for a quarter of a year. In the interim, and other days she took the Lime-water set down in the Marrow, &c. pag. 178. R̄ Succin. alb. Rhab. ā ʒii ss. Gum. Terebinth. Cypr. q. s. f. Mass. Of each drachm was made seven Pills, which she took for every morning for seven or eight days, and afterwards every other morning for two months, after the former quarter of a year. Take Gentian roots ʒss. boyl them at a gentle Fire in a pint and half of White-wine, for a quarter of an hour. Of this she drunk ʒiii twice or thrice a day, when her Apertion began to have well digested matter; and after in place of it was taken the following: R̄ St. Johnswort, all, Mullen, Agrimony, Betony, each M iii. Shavings of Fir wood M vi. boyl them in six gallons of Ale instead of Hops. After ready, she drank of it constantly, and at meals, at pleasure. She was allowed to take Elicampana roots candied. For every month after she was well, she lost ʒviii of Blood from the Foot; only before V.S. she had such a Vomit as in the former Counsel, only of the two first there was ʒi a piece. After that about her usual time she took of Madder ʒi. in ʒiii of White-wine, and ʒi of Syrup of Mugwort. The Cure, and ordering the former Prescriptions, was left to my my care. External Applications were Unguent. Basil. with our Empl. flav. and an Embrocation of Oil of Lillies, Worms, Roses, and Dil. The Cure for the most part was done at Warwick Castle, where the Apertion was made.

COUNS. XXXVII.

Empyema.

THe Cure of Empyema's by Dr. Willis, communicated by another Physician to Henry Stubbs, Physician. He makes incision in the Side, when any Apostume is broke in the Cavity of the Breast, either from a Pleurisy, or the Lungs, which oft happens happens (without any preceding Inflammation) to many People who never complained of any Disease of the Lungs, nor ever suspected them to be unsound, till on a sudden they are almost choaked with the matter in the breaking of it. And in these Cases when they spit a great deal of purulent matter, if at the same time they feel any pricking pain in their Sides, whereby he guessth it to be in the Cavity of the Thorax, he first applies a Plaster to the very place to help to break it, framed of Galb. Ammoniæc. &c. By this Course in five days he suppurated, and broke a hole in one Mr. Thornton in Northampton-shire, so that the matter came out very well, and in short time his Cough, and spitting of Corruption ceased; and when it began to cease running, he made it an Issue, by putting in Pease, and kept it open a quarter of a year, till it healed of it self, and the Gentleman is in health and strong at this time. But if he could not suppurate it with a Plaster, then he makes Issues where there is any pain or pricking felt, and in a week the Impostume comes to find a vent, and so comes out in great quantity, and very stinking, and presently their Coughing and spitting ceaseth. By this means he recovered Mrs. Mildmay, and a Baker, after the Apostume had lain in the Breast almost a month, and had spit a great quantity of stinking corrupted matter; he made the Issue by Incision, only where they found pain, and in no constant certain place.

Dropsey in the Breast.

THis afternoon a Patient having a Dropsey on the left side of the Breast for at least six or eight weeks, insomuch that when he was shaken, the fluctuation was heard as plain as if a Bucker or Pitcher half full of water had been shaken or dashed to and fro. He could not lie on the contrary side without much weight and oppression, as is always when only one Side is affected. He was tapped, and there was taken out half a porringer of yellow water, not at all corrupt or ill scented; and which is more strange, with heating it on a gentle Fire, it turned all into a Gelly, just as Serum when a Man is let blood will do. There were four or five by to give encouragement and hopes of recovery. To morrow the like quantity is to be let forth, and so continue so long as his strength remaineth good, which I believe will daily encrease, for he hath no bad Symptoms, and seems to be troubled with nothing but difficulty of breathing. Two or three have died of it, which was known after opening, which might possibly have been healed with tapping.

In case the Child should have Fits again, give of the Pouder a double quantity, and repeat it every eighth hour, and give it Spirit of Harts-horn twice in twenty four hours hours one or two drops. At the first appearance of any Fit, raise a Blister in his Neck, and whilst he continues indisposed give him a Clyster every day, and all that time let the Nurse be kept to a Diet of Gruel, Panado, and thin Broth, boil in them a bundle of sweet Herbs, viz. Rosemary, Time, Winter-Savory, and sweet Marjorum. Let the following bag be worn about the Childs Neck, and worn constantly, so that it may lie on the mouth of the Stomach. Take Elk-claw, roots of Male-Piony, and its seeds, each ʒss. make a Powder, and put it into a Sarsenet bag, and baste it.

Other Directions for the same Child. Let a Nurse be got that hath new Milk, and let the Child suck her three or four days. If you see him still subject to Fits, and to be heavy and oppressed in the Spirits, apply a Leech to each Jugular Vein, take away an ounce of blood from each side, be careful to stop it presently, for it will be apt to bleed very much. Apply the following Cataplasim to the Feet, renew it morning and night, lay them on warm: Take Rue Mill. Mistletoe if to be had Mss. stamp them very well in a Mortar, add to it Bay salt Mss. and as much Soap as a Pullets egg, and Oil of Scorpions so much as to malax it. If the Child should be free from his Fits, leave off the Powder and Julep, but continue the Spirit of Harts-horn, giving with it night and morning three spoonfuls of the distilled Water following; yet every Change and Full of the Moon give the other Medicines. Give his Medicines a pretty distance from his sucking, and especially give him before and presently after his sleeping. The distilled Water, Take a pint and half of Snails in their shells shells, washed, and dried with a Cloth, of Mistletoe, Rue, Penroyal, Betony, Rosemary, each Mii. Male-Piony roots Miv. chop these altogether, and put to them six pints of Cider Posset-drink, and distil it in a common Still, but first and last together. He having also a Cough, he took of this three spoonfuls, night morning, with Sugar-candy.

July 14. came the following. If he begin to loath his Medicines, leave them off for a while, and take only the Pouder and Julep, new and full Moon. Let the Nurse instead of him, take the distilled Water morning and night, six or seven spoonfuls; in the first spoonful let her take as much of the next Pouder as will lie on a shilling, and the rest after: Take seeds of Anis, Carraway, sweet Fennel, each ʒi . root of Male-Piony ʒvi . Liquoris ʒii . Sugar-candy ʒi . Make a Pouder, or else make the Pouder into an Electuary, with Lohoch. Sanum & expertum, and take the quantity of a Nutmeg. This may do the Child as much good for his Cough as if he took it himself. The Child's Diet may be Chicken, &c. only let him not suck of an hour or two before nor after.

Cough.

FOR my self, by Dr. Willis, being troubled with the like Cough as her Honour, and at the same time, for which he ordered me what follows. I then attending upon her Ladyship, who was not willing to be without me, both as to see all her Prescripts done, so also give them to her. The Doctor taking notice of my Illness and Weakness, acquainted her Honour, if I did not forbear that attendance, and betake my self to my Chamber at home, it might hazard my Life; upon which her Honour unwillingly dismissed me. In the mean time whilst I was with her, I had the liberty to take some of those things ordered for her Ladyship, who I may say was very tender of me, always allowing me more favour than I deserved. The 17th of May, 1666. I bled with Leeches to ʒvi. being weak, he advised me to forbear bleeding in the Arm. The following Pectoral Decoction I took for several days: *Rx China roots sliced ʒiiii. of Ivory and Harts-horn Ziii . being cut and bruised, was infused in three quarts of Spring-water for a night, warm, and after boiled till the third part was wasted, adding leaves of Agrimony, Maiden-hair, Coltsfoot, Harts-tongue, each Mi . Raisins Zi . Liquoris Zss . after sometime boyling, strain it, and drink of it night and morning. I also by his Order took the common Pectoral Decoction. With the use of these I took of this Lincture: Take the Syrup of the Juice of Ground-Ivy Ziv . Flower of Sulphur Zi . For to purge, he prescribed this: Take the Linitive Electuary Zss . Cream of Tartar Zss . mix them. Half of this I took, which gave me six stools. After some days I was afflicted with a great pain in my Side, which finding exceeding troublesome, I adventured to be let blood in the Arm, and took so much only as till I felt a little ease. Being more the next day, I bled again, and so the third day, till I had ease, which removed it. After I took a quarter of what was left of the Electuary, which gave me three Stools. My Cough still being troublesome, I took of the thick Balsam of Sulphur the quantity of a small Nut, in a spoonful of Syrup of Violets, at night, by which I found much advantage, and with which I have cured very desperate Coughs. And in the mornings I took Spirit of Harts horn in my Ladies Snail-water, with Syrup of Violets. After some time I took every night and morning a spoonful of Syrup of Sulphur, which the Doctor himself gave me Directions how to make, sending me the prepared Sulphur from Oxford. He also appointed me the following: R Spec. Diatrag. frigid. Zii . Pul. Sem. Anis. Carvi. Fenicul. dul. Lignor. Flo. Sulph. a Zss . Sacch. cand.

 ris were admirable, without which he never went himself, when he had a Cough, and continually chewed them. He also appointed the next: Take leaves of Jerusalem Oak, Hyssop, Ground-Ivy, Coltsfoot, each Miii. Snails cleansed
this. Seeds of Anis and Fennel bruised, each 3i shred the Herbs, and bruise the Seeds, and pour upon all White-wine Posset-drink two quarts; distil them in a common Still, and I was to drink of it 3iv. with Syrup of Violets. The Doctor being again sent for to Warwick-Castle, to her Honour; he was pleased, hearing I was alive, to come to see me, and finding me up and walking in my Chamber, he took me by the hand with great gladness, and told me he much rejoiced to see me alive, telling me, when he last left me he gave me up for dead,
 and asked me, what Course I took for my recovery? I told him, I followed his Directions exactly, only as to the quantity of the Purge, knowing my Body was very easy to work on, and finding a Pain on my right side, contrary to his advice, I was necessitated to bleed in the Arm. He told me, I had done very well in it. I heartily thanked him, as for this last, so for all his Favours; and so we parted.

COUNSEL LXXIII.

Miscarriage.

FOR an Honourable Lady, by an eminent Physician, to prevent Miscarriage, was directed as follows:

The grinding pains in her back, being so young with Child, may be reasonably supposed to arise from the stagnation of suppressed Blood in the Vessel there, which either by its abundance, or Acrimony, quickly acquired by stagnation, may procure Abortion. Altho there may be, and frequently are such Pains in the Back, without Miscarriage, as you may very well know, especially if the Womb be not disordered, nor the Ligaments thereof weakned. But being her Ladyship hath miscarried twice already, there is too much much ground to fear such weakness, and the ill Consequence. The Means indicated are the abatement of the Plenty by V. S. the attempering and sweetning that acrimonious Acidity, and the strengthening of the Parts affected. Bleeding from the Arm is earnestly advised, and truly if the Pains do not considerably abate upon her first bleeding, I do advise the repetition of it. I have so oft advised it in such Cases, with so good success, that I cannot but now recommend it: But then I would not have much (not above three or four ounces) taken away at first, as being much safer, and effectual to take a little at first, and to repeat, than to take too much at once. The repetition of bleeding may be after a week, sooner or later, as you shall see occasion from the recurring, continuance, or encrease of the Pains, or other Symptoms. As to the other two Indications, take of the next Pouder ℥i. in a poched Egg, or with a little Broth, or other supping, once every day, during the Pains, either in the morning, or at night, which may most please, or be agreeable. Take roots of Tormentil, red Sanders, Kermes grains, Nutmeg, Pearl prepared, red and white Coral, each ℥i. Cloves ʒss. Leaves of Gold 2. Pearl'd Sugar ʒii. f. Pul.

For outward means use the following Plaster: Take Galangal ʒi. Bole Armoniac, Dragons blood, sealed Earth, each ʒss. Mastick, Myrrh, each ʒi. Cyprus Nuts ʒss. Juice of Mugwort, Venice Turbentine, each sufficient, mix them exactly; to which may be further added red Sanders in fine powder ʒss. Wax sufficient to make a Plaster. Of which spread one, and lay to the Back. These being observed, Miscarriage was prevented.

Fever.

FOR the Cook Maid Servant to the said Honorable Family, by the same Doctor, having a Fever, had directed what follows :

Take the emollient Decoction for a Clyster ℥j. Lenitive Electuary ℥i℥. brown Sugar ℥ii. a little Salt, make a Clyster. This she took in the evening, which gave her two stools. That night she took the next : Take Conserve of Clolets ℥j. Diascordium ℥℥. Salt of Wormwood gr. viij. make a Bole, for the hour of sleep.

The next morning, if she be not in a sweat, let her take the following in bed, keeping her there ; Take the Infusion of Crocus Metallorum ℥℥. Wine of Squills ℥i℥. Salt of Vitriol ℥i. Syrup of Vinegar ℥℥. make a Vomit. This did not make her vomit, but gave her stools. After which was to be given Venice Treacle ℥℥. in a spoonful or two of Treacle water, and let her lie to sweat. This done, take every sixth hour six or seven spoonfuls of the next : Take Waters of Balm and Dragon, each ℥iv. of Carduus, and Treacle, each ℥ii. Syrup of Clove-gillyflowers, ℥i℥. Pearl powdered ℥i. Spirit of Vitriol sufficient to make it presently tart.

Of the following she is to take a draught twice or thrice in twenty four hours : Take the roots of Scorzonera ℥i. of Valerian ℥iiij. candied Eringo's ℥℥. shavings of Harts-horn and Ivory, each ℥iiij. Raisins ℥ii.

Every night and morning take Spirit of Harts-horn twelve drops, in the Julep. Take a Clyster every second day. The third night were Blisters to be applied to each Leg, below the Calf. And so she recovered.

At another time, falling into a Fever, notwithstanding fit means used, she became light headed, and was given over as hopeles. I coming to see her, having been abroad, they desired me to do something. I presently applied two large blistering Plasters, to be applied to her Thighs, on the inside, about the middle, which after drawn did run plentifully. And so she came to her senses again, and recovered.

The fourth day he seemed mortally ill, with Vomiting and violent Fever; His Lady warm'd him a quarter of a pint of Malego Sack, and put to it a good spoonful of Sallet Oyl, and gave it him, holding an Orange to his Nose, that he vomited it not up; the next day the Pox came out kindly, and he had but few in his Face, Hands, Thighs, nor on his Body; He had no ill symptoms after, but sat in his Bed and play'd at Cards till well.

His Man catching them, and being Light-headed, got out in the Snow, he was brought in, and had the same Potion, and although they were struck in, they came forth again almost as black as Jet, yet with no ill Symptoms ensuing, but he became immediately well and recovered. She gave him afterwards sometimes a little warm Maligo or Canary. This course he assured me he had tryed many times in their County, and alwayes with the like success. Novemb. 5th, 1671.

A Worthy Lady, whom I shall not dare to mention, being alive, afflicted with a Quartan, had by an able Physician the after Directions, which did prevail.

Take Venice Treacle ʒi . Sack ʒiv . make an Infusion for half an hour, drink it an hour before the Fit, and expect sweat. Repeat it for three Fitts : But this not prevailing, the next was advised.

Take juice of Plantain ʒiv . Sack ʒss . Drink it warm an hour before the Fit. Take Terebintine sufficient for two Plasters for each Wrist, to spread on Leather, upon which cast Frankincense, and apply them.

Take Rhenish-wine ʒiv . Tincture of Wormwood made in White-wine, three Spoonfuls. Mix them. This is to be given in a morning, and to be repeated for many dayes, and at four in the afternoon.

I remember Colonel Hawksworth was cured by taking a pint of Sack by Spoonfuls (warm) before the Fit. And heretofore, and now lately, several have been cured, after other proper means used by able Physicians, by a Plaster laid to the Navil and Belly, framed of Turbintine and Olibanum in powder, and spread upon Leather.

This put me in mind of a Noble Knight, who having an Ague had a pretty large one applied. Coming to wait upon him, as I constantly did, and as it was my duty to do, he asked me how it should be got off, his Ague then being gon. I told him there was no way but to shave it off, which was done.

Doctor Stubs, hath in his Collections what follows.

Two Boys, one two, the other four years old, the one of fair, the other of brown Complexion, having both at one time a Quartan, the Mother also having the same, being with Child, which caused her Miscarriage, 10 weeks before her time. After eight weeks, all were Cured (Generals premised) with a Decoction of Plantain Roots, to which was added ʒi. of Plantain seed whole. It was made in Posset drink and given an hour before the Fit, and laid to sweat, this was continued three or four times, and they were recovered.

I might here give several Medicines, which I have by me, said to be Infallible, but they have sometimes failed.

When I have heard of the confident boastings of some, I have remembred and spoken of a modest Answer given to an Honourable Lady by Doctor Barksdale, she pressing much for the Cure of some of her own Family, and others afflicted with it, he said, Madam, if I come in time I may do as well as others, but I shall never promise the Cure of a Quartan, for this would smell too much of a Quack or Montebank.

Its true the Jesuits Powder hath been much cry'd up for curing many, but saith Barbet, neither so safely, nor so soon, nor so pleasantly as the above named Salts.

Some

Some use desperate Remedies, which may hazard Life, or bring after them sad loathsome Symptoms, and yet not Cure neither, which brings to mind the saying of Lemery in his Course of Chymistry, Englished by Doctor Harris, Page 135. None of the Arsnicks can be given inwardly, though several persons that have ventured to give the white, pretend to have Cured with it divers Diseases, among others, the Quartan Ague. They venture to give as far as Four Grains in a great deal of Water, and after that manner it will make one Vomit like Antimony. But I can by no means allow of this Febrifugum, and would never advise any Body to use so dangerous a Remedy. Nature doth furnish us with Medicines enough in conscience to provoke Vomiting without recourse to Arsenic.

Obstructions of the Liver.

FOR Obstructions of the Liver, in the Right Honourable Robert Lord Brook by an Eminent Doctor was prescribed, the 20th of September 71.

Take of the Roots of Madder, Eringo's candied, Sparagus, Succory, each ʒi. Leaves of Agrimony, Maiden-hair, each Mi. Tops of Roman Wormwood M℞. Currants ʒiij. White Tartar grossly beaten, ʒvi. Salt of Tartar, ʒij. Boyl them according to Art in Water, ℔iij. till ℔i. be wasted, then strain it and clarify it with whites of Eggs. The Dose is ʒiv. in the morning, and at four or five a Clock in the afternoon.

R. Gum Ammoniac ʒ℥. Dissol. in Acet. & per Pan. rara traject. liquor traject. adde Alo. Ros. ʒi. Tartar. Vitriol. ʒij. Incorporent. & redigant, in Mas. f. Pil. ea magnitud. qa. ʒs. pendat. ʒi. His Honour is to take one at Bed time; If that give not two stools more than ordinary, then take one the next morning. His Honour taking one that wrought much and made him very ill, commanded me to write to the Doctor, who returned the following Answer.

Mr. Cooke, I should have been much troubled at my Lord's illness in the operation of the Pill, did I not confidently hope that his Lordship will be much the better for it. For besides that 'tis a good opening Pill (in the general) both of Liver and Spleen. 'Tis particularly proper for my Lord to open

open the stoppages of his Liver, and to carry off the surcharge of the matter, which must be done gently and gradually. Therefore though I cannot but heartily commend the use of the Pill to his Lordship, yet it must be so ordered as to have it work not too much, by making the Pill not above half so big, or less as you shall see reason. You know that a copious evacuation of matter, though peccant, in some bodies will cause great disorder for the present, and sometimes occasion an Ague; therefore the Pill must be proportioned accordingly, and I hope it will be so, as that my Lord may be encouraged to use it sometimes. And Mr. Cook, because I know that the opening Apozem will be much more effectual with the assistance of such a Pill, than without it, therefore I desire you to see that all the ingredients be in, and good, chiefly the Salt of Tartar, which is oft base and sophisticated; besides they are apt to leave it out, as thinking that the white Tartar may only serve. I pray you, Mr. Cook, pardon this trouble, and instruct me how I may answer for it, and for your other kindnesses to

Sir, your affectionate Friend and Servant, &c.

For the same.

FOR the same Right Honourable Lord, for the former Obstructions, was by another Eminent Physician directed as follows.

Novemb. 22. 1671. Mr. Cook, I had the last, which gave me an account of my Lord's condition; those gentle evacuations may be of service to carry off those Humors, which make their Mischiefs in the parts of Nutrition; and I hope, if the Disease be not obstinate, his Honour is wholly relieved before this time. Your Letters say nothing of his Cough, so that I conceive that hath in some measure left him. I beseech you continue your kindness to let me know fully how my Lord is, and I shall be more ready (as I am most highly obliged) to give the utmost of my assistance, and do him service; to whom I beseech you give my humble service, and to my good Lady. I am your most faithful Friend and Servant.

The Season being cold, and his Honour going on with the former Course for some time, and being considerably well, of which giving the Doctor an account, the next, April 2. 72. I received the following.

First, open the Basilica of the left Arm, and take away eight ounces of Blood, after use the next Prescriptions:

Take

Take Pulp of Tamarinds \mathfrak{z} i. best Rubarb powdered $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. make a Bole. Take it the next morning, an hour after drink Possiet-drink, with Syrup of Violets $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ss}$. Sal Prunell. $\mathfrak{z}\mathfrak{ii}$. Let it be repeated for four Doses, for every, or every other morning, according as it works.

Miscarriage.

A Right Honourable Lady, after Miscarriage, was advised by an eminent Physician to the following :

Mr. Cook, I am come this morning from the Country, and have scarce time enough to peruse your Letter before the departure of the Carrier. I am very much troubled that her Honour hath miscarried, yet do hope that her Ladyship's next Conception will be more happily carried on. What may conduce to it, by correction and strengthening of her Womb, shall be studiously advised by the next return, which will be full time enough, in regard that the usual cleansing of the Womb must be performed first. Being in haste, this is all, save that I am your most faithful Friend and Servant, &c. Feb. 29. 71.

The 6th of March 71. came the following: First her cleansing over, let her Ladyship purge with the next: Take Mechoacan sliced thin ℥ii. Sena cleansed ℥i℔. Coriander seeds p. i℔. boyl them in Water ℥vij to v. strain it, and in the Liquor dissolve the purest Manna, Syrup of Violets, and Juycce of Oranges, each ℥℔. after clarify all with the White of an Egg, and then add Cinamon water ℥i. and make a Potion, for two Doses.

Take

Take China thin sliced ʒi. roots of Masterwort, and Avena, each ʒss. Betony Mi. Feather-few Mss. the tops of Marjorum p.i. Nutmegs ʒss. boyl the China in Water lbij to lbij. after put in the rest, and boyl it at a moderate Fire to lbss. strain it, and clarify it, and sweeten it with double refined Sugar. Renew it every fifth day. It attemperates and strengthens the Womb. Take it every morning in bed, an hour or two, or more, before her Ladyship riseth; and if it agree with her, I would have it taken three weeks or more. My Lady is not to observe any Diēt whilst she takes the Apozem, nor fast after, unless she pleases, longer than two hours.

Lightness of the Head.

THe Right Honourable Lady, Katherine Brook, Dowager, troubled with Lightness of the Head and Vapours, had by Doctor Willis directed as followeth.

Mr. Cook, her Honour being troubled with Lightness of the Head and Vapours, it will be requisite to lose Blood by Leeches, to ʒvi. or vij. Purg- ing a day or two before, if by the use of what is directed her Ladyship should not do well, I would advise her Honour to Astrop waters, as the most likely means to reduce her Blood to better temper. My very humble service to her Ladyship, and to all the Honourable Family; This is all, save to tell you, that I am your very faithful Friend and Servant.

Take

Take of Mastick Pil and Rubarb in powder, each ʒss. Salt of Wormwood ℥i. Oyl of Rosemary distilled 8. drops; Gum Ammoniac dissolved in Snail-water sufficient. Mix them, and make 12 Pills, which guild; they are to be taken three in a morning once a week, and to be given more or fewer as they work, drinking Whey after them.

Take of the Conserves of the Flowers of Rosemary, Betony, and Clove-Gilliflowers, each ʒij. Species Diamb. ʒij. Pearl in powder, ʒi. Red Coral in powder ʒiss. Salt of Wormwood ʒij. with sufficient of the Syrup of Citron Pills, Make an Electuary every day: Besides take morning and night the quantity of a Nutmeg of the Electuary, and four spoonfuls of the following Julep, as also take of the same any time when you are troubled with Vapors or fainting, three or four spoonfulls.

Take of the Waters of Line-trees-flowers, and Black-cherrys, each ʒiv. Hysteric Water, ʒij. Whitest Sugar ʒi. Castor tyed up in a Sarcenet, and hung in a glass ʒss. Mix them, make the following Dyet-drink which use constantly, meals and all, for two or three months.

Brew some Middle-Ale for a Vessel of six Gallons, Boyl in the Wort 4 handfuls of Fir, 2 handfuls of Rosemary-chips, and hang in the Vessel of Sage and Scurvy-grass, each Mij. of Dock-Roots sliced and dried, ʒvi. Tap it at a week old, and make one Vessel under another.

DIRECTIONS

For such as drink the

Bath-Water.

Collected by H. S.

Revised and approved by Sir Alexander Frasier, principal Physician to his Majesty.

THere being many unthought of Inconveniences, and many unexpected Accidents, which frequently befall such as resort unto, and make use of the hot Baths in Europe, by way of drinking them medicinally; the best provision that can be made against such perillous Contingencies, is, that the Patient regulate himself according to the most rational and exact Rules of Physick; and having duly prepared the Body according to them, before he begin to drink, that he pursue a most orderly Course of Diet, and caute.

cautelosly deport himself in all those Circumstances, which Physicians include under that Notion.

Upon this account it is, that the universal Consent and Practice of Mankind seems to have enacted this into a standing Law, That none should wantonly, and with contempt of all Dieterical Rules, make use of those Mineral Drinks; but that all Circumstances relating thereto, should be conformable to Moderation and Temperance.

It behoveth therefore such Persons to avoid, during such a Course, all surcharge of Meat, all excess of Drink; that they neither indulge themselves with too much sleep, nor macerate or enflame their Bodies by immoderate watching; that they neither debilitate Nature by so violent exercise as may introduce a Lassitude; nor retard the distribution, digestion, and evacuation of those Mineral Waters by Sloth and In-activity; that such excrementitious Collections, as Nature customarily produceth in human Bodies, be duly evacuated, and neither too long retained, nor too precipitously discharged; that the Mind be composed into such a cheerfulness and gaiety, as may prevent all disorderly Passions and Lusts.

The Effect of the Bath-Waters being drunk, is, to discharge the whole Body from all Impurities that are incorrigible; to correct those that are capable of Amendment; to free the innate heat or Ferments of each part which are oppressed through any surcharge, or peccancy of Humors; and to restore or revive those that otherwise languish, or are some way decayed.

And

And this is done, not by any one manner of Operation in them, but by their complicated working at one time of sundry evacuations: It is manifest; that they operate by Stool several times, once, twice, thrice, four times, or more. It is no less evident that they operate by Urine, so as to discharge themselves oftentimes in a greater quantity than what is drunk, commonly in an equal quantity, and frequently in a proportion somewhat less; of the last instance there being several degrees observable. It is also manifest, that they promote not only insensible Transpiration, but Sweat; the latter being more or less copious, according to the Constitution of the Patient, antecedent Preparation, and the ambient, whether taken abroad in the open Air, or in Bed. The Effects they have in reference to Transpiration insensible, are particularly evinced by this Observation of the Laundresses in Bath, That those which drink the said Waters, do foul their Linnen more than other People do, or than themselves do at other times, when yet it is equally worn.

I doubt not, but that others as well as my self, may have observed, that several Hypochondriacal Persons have found another Operation in those Waters, viz. That upon drinking them they have found their Spittle attenuated, and the discharge thereof by Salivation encreased at the beginning. The like Effect I have seen in some Pulmonicks.

Neither is it to be supposed, that these Waters discharge themselves purely in an insipid, limpid, aqueous Urine. For (not to mention sundry ways, I have tried and discovered Heterogeneous Contents in such Urine) I have seen a Person deeply and inveterately Hypochondriacal, who avoided his Waters at the beginning (and yet they passed well) deeply tinged with Choler, as much as is to be seen in the Colick Bilious. I have also seen Persons, whose Lungs, Head, and Habit of Body, were oppressed with viscid Pblegm, to avoid Urines, which though pale, yet by the lasting consistence of viscid Bubbles, and ever great Froth thereon upon any agitation, sufficiently shewed the mixture of the dissolved Pblegm. And when they pass much in the night, they come away more or less tinged, according to the Nature of the Patient, the Disease, the Method and Circumspection used for his Cure.

The Operation of these Waters being such, as it is not difficult for an intelligent Physician to conjecture in what Diseases it is requisite or beneficial to drink these Waters ; so it will likewise seem evident, that a due preparation is necessary for such as expect benefit thereby. Neither will any knowing Physician imagin, that the exhibiting of one Dose of purging Pills, a Potion, or a Bolus, is a sufficient Preparative for the successful drinking of these Waters. For seeing that a stable Health consists herein principally, that the Excrements of the first, and subsequent Concoctions be discharged by all those ways whereby these Waters do operate. And since that in morbid Persons there are not only Depravations in the Chyle, Mass of Blood, and other Alimentary Juices ; but also in the Chyliferous, Sanguiferous, Lymphatic Vessels, Nerves and Glandules, (not to mention other things) the universal Amendment whereof is no less less requisite to a constancy of Health, than it is to Liquors, what they are, and through what Canals they run; no understanding Person will conclude otherwise than that according to the several Constitutions and Indispositions of Patients, there must be different Preparations made, (and those in conformity to the Methods which solid Physic prescribes) before they can propose to themselves any great or durable benefit by the use of these Waters.

Let us then inculcate that Aphorism of Hippocrates to all such as shall repair to these Waters, Corpora qui purgare volet, fluida efficiat oportet: He that would conveniently purge any Person, must dispose the Humors to a fluidity, and relax the Passages first, by which they are to be evacuated. To the most beneficial operation of Medicaments, it is requisite that there be an universal εὐποία, that the Humors be fluxile, and the Passages pervious: The which is so much the more to be regarded in respect to the Bath-Waters, because they do not as other Medicaments, operate after one determinate manner, but more catholically. But more especially Obstructions of the Mesentery are to be regarded, because the Waters are more particularly to pass through those parts.

Let us also lay down this for another Rule, that these Waters are not to be looked upon as being in themselves an entire Course of Physic, but that subsidiary Helps of Purges, and other Medicaments, appropriated to respective Diseases, will be requisite to the compleating of their Effects. And if the solitary or immethodical use of these Waters hath ever been successful, (which is not to be denied) the fortunate Rashness of such Persons ought not to be drawn into a President, by the considering part of Mankind; there being so many Instances of their being unsuccessful, and sometimes prejudicial, through the neglect or ignorance of this Caution.

These things being premised, the Manner of drinking these Waters, which the Generality of Persons ought to follow, and which Reason it self dictates, is this:

I. That they begin with drinking of the Waters, and conclude (if their condition permit) with bathing. For Bathing is but a particular and local Remedy, Drinking a more general or universal. Therefore according to the established Maxims of Physic, the latter ought to precede the former. Besides, the drinking of these Waters, by opening Obstructions, attenuating some, and evacuating other Humors, doth prepare the way for Bathing, whereby the Reliques are evacuated by sweat, and the habit of the Body corroborated. But reiterated Bathing doth not prepare the Body for drinking; if it open the Pores, and discuss some Humors, it attracts into the Habit of the Body others that are crude, gross, and unfit to be discussed by sweat or transpiration; it puts the Humors lodged in the Hypochondria into an Estuation and Turgency, and raiseth Vapors as well as Defluxions upon the outward and inward Parts. Also Bathing, being accompanied with sweating, hinders evacuation, by Stool and Urine, and consequently puts Nature into a Course altogether opposite to what is to be expected and wished in the drinking of the Waters. From whence it is manifest, that to begin with a Course of Bathing and Sweating, and to terminate with a Course of drinking the Waters, is not only irrational, but dangerous, viz. Sicui potus & lavacrum utendum sit, is per plures dies antea bibat, & postea lavet, non è contrà; ex potu tamen purgatio ferè intelligitur; ex Balneo autem alteratio, rectificatioq;, & confortatio membrorum. At hoc inter primæ Medicinæ instituta est, purgari prius debere corpus quam alterari, & confortari. — Non ante copius esse locum remediis, quam universo corpori generalibus præidiis sit prospectum in confesso est apud omnes, & ratio suadet: Alioquin enim pleno corpore adhibita fluxiones majores in partes concitarit jam ante imbecilles & morbo labefactatas, ex quo fit ut non tantum optatum finem præposterâ curandiratione instituta minime consequamur, sed & geminato morbo majus egrota malum creemus. Jam verò aquas medicatas Balneo n-serpatas in localium numero esse notius est, quam ut pluribus probari debeat.

I cannot but here take notice, that sometimes, when the Waters have not passed well by Urine, I have caused the Patient to go once or so into the Crosse Bath, and there caused them to stay about half an hour, or more; and after that commanded them to rise without sweating much; and hereby, (together with Phlebotomy) I have effected that the Waters have passed freely afterwards: the Urinal Passages being relaxed and opened by the moderate Heat, and other Qualities of that Bath. Also in Persons of a Phlegmatic Constitution, be it natural or morbid, I have directed that they should use the Cross-Bath for a week (neither continuing long in, nor sweating much afterwards,) before they drunk these Waters; there being no fear that in such the Hypochondriacal Aëstuations should arise, or that any Catarrhus Pains should happen; but rather that the cold and viscid Humors should be attenuated, the Urinal Passages expedited, and the Body with ease prepared for subsequent Physic, and drinking of the Waters.

II. That they begin to drink these Waters by degrees, proceeding from a smaller quantity to a greater; and having arrived to the largest Dose, there to stay several days; and then by the like degrees contract their draughts, until they desist. The whole Course of drinking being thus finished in fourteen days, or twenty days at most.

ARS COSMETICA:

Collections from Persons of great Quality, being choice Receipts for the Beautifying of the Face and Body; by Dr. Stubbs.

These following were the Receipts of a Maid of the Dutcheſs of Orleans, and after a Gentlewoman to an honourable Lady in this Nation: She was eminent for Cosmetics; and these were particularly commended to my Esteem by the said Lady.

To make Spanish White.

TAke a glased Earthen Pot of four or five pints, anoint the Pot with fresh Lard of a Male Pork, then fill it with good White-wine-vinegar, and put in a good quantity of new-laid Egg-shells; then cover the Pot with a leaden Cover, and bury it in the Ground
for

for three or four weeks: then take of the White that sticks to the Cover of the Pot, and keep it for your use.

A Pomade for the Face.

Take six dozen of Sheeps Feet, break the Bones, and take out the Marrow; then boil the Feet well, and scum off the Oil that rises, and save it in a new Pot, with the foresaid Marrow, to which put the four great cold Seeds peel'd and beaten well, and mixed with the Marrow. Then take the Rind of one Citron, two penny-worth of Borax, three Cloves of white Lilly roots well beaten, a little white Rose-water, or Plantain-water; boil all together for the space of two hours, then strain it into a Dish of Spring-water, and wash it with divers Waters till it be white. Use this at night.

To make Gloves to whiten the Hands.

Take new Gloves, to every pair an ounce of Virgin-Wax, and as much Sperma Ceti, Camphire and Borax, each the quantity of a Bean; Oil of Card seeds, or any other of the greater cold Seeds, ʒi. Pomatum, as much as a Nut; melt all together. Then turn the Gloves, and dip or spread it on the inside, and let it cool; then rub it in before a gentle Fire. Then grease them very well with ʒii ʒi of any Oil of the cold Seeds to each pair, then turn them again, and lay them in a course damp Cloth, not touching each other for twenty four hours. To make them the cooler, hang them upon a Line in May, to air for eight nights.

To

To make the same an easier way.

Take of the Oil of the four cold Seeds drawn by expression without Fire ʒi . Pomatum as much as a Nut, White wax ʒij . Sperma Ceti ʒi . Camphire, the quantity of a Nut; Borax powdered ʒʒ . Melt the Wax, then put all the rest in, and last of all the Oil; when all is melted, (when it is warm, and never boils or is near it,) dip the Gloves in, and rub it well in all over; open them, and let them cool. That you may rub it in the better, you must draw the Gloves, being turned, upon your hands, when they are cool. Wear them night and day under others, to make the Hands smooth and white.

For the Lips, a Pomatum.

Take Oil of sweet Almonds ʒiiij . red Wax ʒʒ . melt them together over a Chafing-dish. Steep ʒii of Alkanet roots in a Glas of Rose-water twenty four hours, when it is red, put in the said Pomatum into the Water; stir it together until it look red, then let out all the Water, and keep it for use.

Pomatum for the Hair, to make it grow.

Take of Bears greafe ʒbi . Virgins wax ʒiiij . white Lilly roots, five or six cloves, white Honey, and of the Essence of Honey, each ʒi . boil them all for half an hour in a new earthen Pot, either in the Water of Walnut-leaves, or of Honey distilled, two

two or three pints, boil them well, strain it, and wash it till it be white.

To make Butter of Oranges or Jessamins.

Take Barrowes grease pick'd and wash'd ℥iij, to which add of the Essence or Oil of Jessemin or of Orange flowers ℥i or ij. as you please to have it scented higher or lower; add Virgins Wax ℥ii. put them into a Silver Cup or Pot close covered, and set it in a Skillet of Water, yet so that none come into it. Make it boil apace, so as to melt the Stuff, then pour it hot into a Silver Basin, and beat it so long till it is become very white, without adding any Water.

A Paste for the Hands.

Take of bitter Almonds blanched, and beaten to Paste with Rose water; sprinkle them with the Yolk of an Egg, which hath been beaten with Sack, add thereto Bean-flower to make a Paste.

A good Water for the Complexion.

Take of Sea-Purslain the smallest, put it into a Glass Vial, with a like quantity of the Juice of Limons; let them sleep fourteen days, and then set it in the Sun nine days; then wash with it evening and morning. Fumitory Water distilled in Balneo, is good for the Complexion.

Another

Another Water for the Complexion.

Boil of French Barly Mj. in Water ℥ij. strain it, let it settle, take of the clear ℥i℥. and make therewith Almond-Milk with bitter Almonds blanchd and beaten ℥℥. adding to it two Glasses of White-wine; or if the Face be red, add so much Vinegar instead of the Wine.

Against Sun-burning or Morpew.

Anoint them with Oil of Walnuts thrice in the three first evenings in March. If the Party hath a shining Complexion, and fatty, mix with the Oil so much White-wine, and beat them well together before you use them at night.

To make the Verjuyce of Montpelier, which is highly esteemed in France for the Complexion.

Take of the best Verjuice two quarts, put to it Litharge of Gold, washed before in Plantain-water, and dried, ℔i. beat it to powder, and put it and the Verjuice together; distil it in Balneo for use. It is also very good for a red Face.

To make Teeth white.

Take of Aqua fortis, fair Water, Honey, each ℥ii. boil all these together, and scum them well, and rub the Teeth with this, and they will be as white as Snow. Lucatella of Venice.

To

To preserve the Hair.

A Right Honourable Countess yet living, never used any Pouder in her Hair, but only in March and September, which being well rubbed in, was carefully combed out at the same time; and every week she had the roots of her Hair carefully rubbed with Jessamin Butter, and rubbed out with a Cloth, to take off any Dandriff or Scurf of the Head, which might rot it at the roots.

To dye the Hair black.

Take pouder of black Lead, and put it into fair Water a while, and it will colour it black; then wash the Hair you would colour with a Sponge wet therein, and cleanse the Head every morning, and repeat the Wash, for it will colour, and come off upon any Head-cloth. This was used by an honourable Countess, and a Lady; nor was it possible to discern the colour, tho both their Hairs were as red as Foxes. Their Eye-lids were coloured with the steam of a Candle, gathered in a Pewter, and put on with a small Sponge.
